Chicago Tax Rate to Set New Record

$9.87 INDICATED FOR 1941; TOTAL BILL UP MILLION

Levy Boosted for 3d Successive Year.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

Chicago property owners will get a total tax bill for 1941 of $191,038,000, an increase of more than 1 million dollars over 1940 and the highest property tax total since 1931. This was shown in a preliminary computation based on property valuations completed yesterday by county officials.

The increased tax bill results from higher tax levies for 1941 by the school board and the sanitary district, which more than offset slight reductions in taxes levied for the city, park district, county, and forest preserve district.

The boost of a million dollars in taxes, combined with a drop of 60 million dollars in the city's total assessed valuation for 1941, will bring a sharp rise in the Chicago tax rate to an all-time high.

Bills Out by April 1.

For Chicago taxpayers, who will receive their 1941 bills by April 1, a tax rate of $9.87 per $100 of assessed valuation is indicated. Assessed values are 37 per cent of full values.

This marks the third consecutive year that the tax rate has been boosted and the fourth year in a row that the total tax bill has increased. The 1941 rate may vary slightly from the $9.87 figure as a result of possible late revisions in assessments or abatements of tax levies by the governments. The official tax rate is to be announced in about 30 days by County Clerk Michael J. Flynn.

The total assessed valuations in Cook county for 1941 for all three classes of property—real estate, personal, and railroad—is $2,392,651,278, the completed assessments show. This is a drop of nearly 54 millions, or 2.2 per cent, from the 1940 valuation.

Personal Assessments Cut.

Most of the drop was within Chicago and was accounted for entirely by a reduction in the personal property assessments. This will shift a larger part of the tax burden to home owners and other real estate holders who will bear 70 per cent of the Chicago 1941 tax bill this year, compared with 67.6 per cent in the preceding year. The share of personal property owners is reduced to 25.5 per cent.

Following are the estimated 1941 tax billings in Chicago for each of the six county governments, compared with the actual amounts billed for 1940:

City	$ 70,841,000	$ 72,049,374
Schools	68,905,000	65,662,726
Park district	22,259,000	22,353,268
Sanitary district	15,484,000	15,168,289
County	11,613,000	12,773,296
Forest preserve	1,936,000	1,995,828
Total	$191,038,000	$190,002,781

The estimated 1941 rates per $100 of assessed value for each government, compared with the 1940 rates, are:

	1941.	1940.
City	$3.66	$3.61
Schools	3.56	3.29
Park district	1.15	1.12
Sanitary district	.80	.76
County	.60	.64
Forest preserve	.10	.10
Total	$9.87	$9.52

Previous High $9.52.

The previous all-time high tax rate for Chicago was the $9.52, charged in 1940 and also in 1936.

The estimated assessment on all classes of property within Chicago totals $1,935,550,000 for 1941, compared with $1,995,828,000 in the preceding year.

A breakdown of the 1941 assessment for the entire county, compared with 1940 values, follows:

	1941.	1940.
Real estate	$1,708,473,527	$1,701,217,808
*Pers'nal prop.	564,679,201	626,840,321
Railroads	119,498,550	119,383,686
Total	$2,392,651,278	$2,447,441,905

*Includes capital stock assessments by the state tax commission of $48,432,374 for 1941 and $49,719,340 for 1940.

Assessment for four city townships, not previously announced, [North, Lake View, West and South] total $744,195,851 for 1941, compared with $747,275,767 in 1940, Assessor John S. Clark announced.

THE MAN AND THE HOUR MEET

FILIPINOS TO KEEP FIGHTING: QUEZON

MacArthur's Artillery Halts Jap Attacks.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 (AP).—President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines commonwealth government said in a message made public today by the war department that Filipinos were confident of final victory over Japan and "we shall continue to resist the enemy with all our might."

The message was sent to the war department by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and published in a late day communique which failed to mention progress of MacArthur's defense of the Bataan peninsula. An earlier communique said: "Headlong enemy infantry assaults on the right and left flanks of our troops in the Bataan peninsula were broken up by our artillery fire. Enemy losses were heavy. Activity of hostile aircraft was limited to reconnaissance flights."

Challenges Tokio Inferences.

Quezon said in the message that if, as reported from Tokio, a commission of well known Filipinos had been organized in occupied Manila to take charge of certain civil functions, the purpose was merely "safeguarding the welfare of the civilian population."

The Philippine president noted that the invaders thus far had occupied only about a third of the island's total area and added that in the remainder of the islands constitutional government was still in operation under his authority.

Demand Corregidor Surrender.

BERLIN [From German Broadcasts] Jan. 29 (AP).—A dispatch from Tokio declared that the United States garrison at the fortress Island of Corregidor in Manila bay had been called upon by radio today to surrender to the Japanese commander of Luzon.

WOMEN WORKERS WILL BE NEEDED IN AUTO INDUSTRY

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 29 (AP).—The war effort of the nation's automotive industry is going to require the employment of "lots of women" in its factories, Ernest Kanzler, chief of the automotive division of the War Production board, said today.

'Sighted Sub, Sank Same,' Pilot Reports; 20th for U. S.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 (AP).—The navy announced definitely today that an axis submarine had been sunk but did not say whether it was German, Italian, or Japanese, nor did it give the location.

This brought to 20 the number of submarines which have been announced sunk or damaged by American forces in the Atlantic and Pacific.

Fourteen Sunk in Atlantic.

While all detail was lacking, there was speculation that the submarine was one of those preying on coastal shipping along the Atlantic seaboard since it is only in that area that enemy subs have been reported active in recent days.

Previously, five Japanese submarines had been reported sunk by American armed forces in the Pacific and 14 had been reported destroyed in the Atlantic, presumably prior to the beginning of current U-boat raiding operations.

The information of today's sinking was given out by a navy spokesman simultaneously with the issuance of a communique saying that countermeasures against enemy submarines in progress off the Atlantic coast as far south as Florida "are increasingly effective."

No Mention of Gulf.

The communique made no mention of submarines in the Gulf of Mexico, where two were reported operating yesterday and the omission of the gulf was taken here as an indication that the navy doubted that axis submarines actually were inside the Gulf.

To date Atlantic U-boats are reported to have attacked 11 vessels off the United States east coast and four off the Canadian coast with casualties in dead and missing of more than 350. Of those 15, two have escaped sinking, including the tanker Pan Maine. Word that the 7,236 ton Pan Maine was "afloat and safe" came from a navy spokesman tonight, altho information as to whether she had made port was withheld.

The navy communique, No. 35, based on reports received up to 4 p. m. eastern standard time, today, covered the Atlantic area and the central Pacific. With regard to the Pacific it said that two submarines had appeared off Midway Island but had been driven away by artillery fire in which one hit was scored.

"Sighted Sub, Sank Same."

There was no damage to the Midway station nor injuries to personnel, altho the submarines apparently had intended to shell the island.

The report of the sinking of a submarine came to the navy department from a petty officer piloting a warplane who was otherwise unidentified. His message as given out by the spokesman gave no details. Tersely it said: "Sighted sub, sank same."

Sub at Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 29 (AP).—An enemy submarine was sighted today a short distance off Point Vicente, overlooking Los Angeles harbor. Navy craft went into action, dropping depth charges. Hundreds of persons along the coastline heard the explosions and many reported they heard gunfire. An official navy statement said: "At 1 p. m. an army plane on routine patrol sighted a presumably hostile submarine off Point Vicente. The submarine submerged at once. Two depth charges were dropped by navy planes."

HEAR NAZIS CALL 80,000 SOLDIERS IN JUGO-SLAVIA

ANKARA, Turkey, Jan. 29.—The German high command has withdrawn between 80,000 and 100,000 men from Jugo-Slavia for a spring offensive and for service on the eastern front and has sent seven Bulgarian divisions and a division of Hungarians into Serbia and Serbian Macedonia, according to reports tonight by foreign military intelligence sources.

The Germans also are withdrawing the remainder of 10 fighter and bomber squadrons, which have operated over Serbia, Bosnia and Herzegova for the last five and a half months, it was reported.

MacArthur's Troops Get Their Wish—Hear Crosby

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 29 [Special].—Bing Crosby dedicated his regular weekly broadcast tonight to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's valiant troops in the Philippines fulfilling the wish expressed last week by the general that his troops would like to hear the crooner. Crosby sang several popular songs and bantered with Madeleine Carroll, his guest star. The broadcast was relayed by short wave.

SEES BARHAM GO TO BOTTOM IN 5 MINUTES

Hit by 4 Torpedoes, Says Witness.

(Larry Allen, war correspondent who has been attached to the British Mediterranean fleet, witnessed the sinking of the battleship Barham on Nov. 25. He wrote the story for transmission to the United States when the censor would permit. The British admiralty withheld announcement of the sinking until last Tuesday and yesterday released Allen's dispatch. Allen arrived in the United States yesterday to recover from injuries received when the British cruiser Galatea was sunk under him after the Barham was destroyed. Here is his long delayed dispatch.)

BY LARRY ALLEN.

ABOARD THE BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN FLAGSHIP QUEEN ELIZABETH, Nov. 25, 1941 [Delayed by Censor] (AP).—The British battleship Barham, struck by four torpedoes from an enemy submarine, exploded and sank within five minutes today off the Libyan coast.

I saw the Barham go down in a huge cloud of flame and smoke in one of the most spectacular scenes of the war.

The blast was so great that it was believed the attacking submarine may well have been destroyed by concussion.

The fleet was making a wide westward sweep in search of axis convoys when a single submarine made a daring daylight penetration of the line of destroyers screening the battleships.

Fires at One; Hits Another.

At a range of 700 yards the submarine fired its salvos, apparently at the Queen Elizabeth.

Just at that moment, this battleship made a quick zig-zag, and the torpedoes sped on to strike the Barham, which was following closely in battle formation.

In the commander's cabin on the Queen Elizabeth I heard the successive clanging crash of the torpedoes and raced to the upper deck.

The Barham, a 31,000 ton giant, already was listing heavily to port. Its executive officers ordered: "Abandon ship!"

As I watched, she wobbled over more heavily, like some punchdrunk prizefighter.

Sailors Leap to Water.

From quarterdeck to forecastle, all along her starboard side, hundreds of men began leaping into the calm blue water that contrasted with the ruddy rays of the setting sun.

As the bodies struck the sea, they forced up little fountains which shone like diamonds.

Soon I could see hundreds of heads bobbing above the surface. Some sailors managed to throw rubber floats down from the ship, upon which clambered dozens of men soon after they hit the water.

That all happened between 4:25 and 4:30 p. m.

As the battleship Valiant veered away from the Barham, this flagship [Queen Elizabeth] continued moving slowly eastward. The Barham burst into a great mass of flame and then was enveloped by a huge cloud of black smoke.

Air Reeks with Fumes.

The air reeked with cordite fumes. I saw huge sheets of armor plating, whole sections of the battleship, and the Barham's big motor launch flung hundreds of feet into the air, falling with a loud smack into the sea dangerously near the Queen Elizabeth and the Valiant, the Barham's sister ships.

The tremendous compression of the air seemed to muffle the explosion.

All I felt aboard the Queen Elizabeth, which had pulled away to about 1,000 yards distance, was a brisk gust of air.

Then black smoke spread over so wide an expanse of sea that I no longer could see the men or rafts in the water.

From both sides of the Queen Elizabeth destroyers steamed full-speed into the smoke that was the funeral pyre of one of Britain's greatest fighting ships.

They started picking up survivors and hunting the submarine simultaneously.

As the smoke drifted away there was nothing to be seen of the Barham. She vanished so quickly that it was

DIGEST OF NEWS FROM WORLD'S BATTLE FRONTS

Latest developments on world's fighting fronts:

Sinking of the 20th enemy submarine by American armed forces was reported by the navy department at Washington, D. C. "Sighted sub; sank same," a petty officer pilot was quoted as reporting. Scene of the sinking and probable nationality of the submarine were not given, but a communique said "countermeasures" against submarines were in progress off the Atlantic coast as far south as Florida.

President Manuel Quezon of the Philippine commonwealth pledged continued Filipino resistance to Japanese invaders as Gen. Douglas MacArthur's artillery broke up "headlong enemy infantry assaults" against both flanks of the Luzon Island defense line, according to a war department communique.

Fear Thrust at Java.

Fear that Japan will gamble for a foothold on Java itself with the 65 vessels remaining in its oft-attacked invasion armada in Macassar strait was expressed in dispatches from Batavia, Dutch East Indies capital on that island. Headquarters of the united nations for the southwest Pacific are located on Java. The Dutch acknowledged that Japanese from Sarawak made a new landing at Pemangkat on the western coast of Borneo, 525 miles from Java.

Japanese invaders claimed capture of a rail center within 26 miles of Singapore Island on the central Malayan front. British sources said that only on the west coast were their lines holding.

U. S. Flyers Boost Score.

American flyers continued to mop up Japanese attackers in Burma, according to Rangoon dispatches. With three RAF colleagues, they reported bagging 13 to 17 more planes in repulsing a mass attack on Rangoon.

In Russia, the Reds claimed to have made a 93 mile drive in the southern industrial area, recapturing Lozovaya, midway between the Donetz and Dnieper rivers. This, Moscow said, threatens the entire German winter line down to the Sea of Azov. On that front, a communique added, 25,000 Nazis were slain and 400 towns captured in 10 days.

British reports from Cairo said counterattacking axis troops in Libya apparently had "hemmed in" Bengazi, capital of Cirenaica. Both Berlin and Rome claimed Gen. Erwin Rommel's troops had captured the city.

HEAD OFF HOUSE PROBE OF PEARL HARBOR ATTACK

Pressure of White House Prevails.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—Despite new and persistent reports that the army and navy were forewarned of the Japanese attack in plenty of time to have prepared a devastating reception, the house naval affairs committee today renounced plans for a public inquiry into the Pearl Harbor disaster. The vote, at a secret session, was 14 to 6 against the investigation.

Chairman Vinson.

There have been many previous reports that the responsible cabinet officers, Secretary of Navy Frank Knox and Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, had ample knowledge of the Japanese intentions. Remarks by Secretary of State Cordell Hull at a recent press conference were interpreted as an intimation that the state department had acquainted Knox and Stimson with the seriousness of the Pacific situation as reflected in "peace" negotiations then in progress.

Warned by FBI Agents.

Furthermore, it was reliably reported in official circles that the Federal Bureau of Investigation warned both the army and navy on Dec. 5 that significant information regarding United States fleet dispositions had been telephoned from Honolulu to Tokio. The intercepted telephone conversation was interpreted by the FBI as indicating the possibility of a Japanese attack on the islands, it was said.

Altho most of the conversation, lasting 20 minutes, seemed casual enough, according to these reports, the number of American warships and their disposition in Hawaiian waters was mentioned specifically by the caller on the island. It was assumed that the rest of the conversation was carried on in code, giving further details. The war and navy departments and the FBI had no comment on these reports today.

Bow to White House Wishes.

Reports of the secret session of the house naval affairs committee indicated a knuckling to administration pressure.

Minority members seeking to force a full dress public investigation to supplement the Roberts board report were overwhelmed by the White House stalwarts, it was learned, following the reading of a letter from the navy department stating that it saw no reason for reopening the matter at this time.

Rep. Carl Vinson [D., Ga.], committee chairman, who read the letter to his colleagues, refused to make it public or to disclose who had signed it, altho he insisted it was not written by Secretary Knox.

Knox and Stimson Under Fire.

Knox and Stimson have been criticized widely as the officials fundamentally responsible for the successful Japanese attack on the supposedly impregnable Hawaiian base.

Knox and Stimson, it was said, were not alert to the danger of a surprise attack and failed to make certain that all necessary precautions had been taken to guard the American outpost. Several members of the house committee had demanded that Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, commanders on the island on Dec. 7, be summoned to tell their stories.

Demands also have been made that Rear Adm. James O. Richardson, commander of the fleet before Kimmel, be called for questioning concerning reports that he asked to be relieved of his command after President Roosevelt overrode his protests against splitting the fleet to provide Atlantic convoys for British supplies while this nation still was at peace.

Two Found Derelict.

President Roosevelt's special board of inquiry, headed by Justice Owen J. Roberts of the Supreme court, found that Kimmel and Short were derelict in their duty and primarily responsible for the disaster by their failure to guard against an attack. It was on the question of calling them before the committee that ad-

SLOT MACHINES WHIRL DESPITE GAMBLING QUIZ

Indictments Due Today in Policy Racket.

Grand juries sitting in the Criminal court building for the last three months have been investigating gambling and the operation of slot machines. Yesterday the jurors heard a witness testify that during this time he had been placing the one armed bandits in stores and restaurants in Chicago.

Bud Lieberman [top] and Arthur Coughlin.

The witness was Arthur Coughlin, 28 years old, of 2406 McLean street. He was seized by Capt. Frank Reynolds and Sergt. Robert Ryan of the Chicago avenue station after two slot machines had been found in that district.

Find Two Machines.

Earlier in the day police found machines in the restaurants of Joseph R. Chouinard at 238 East Erie street and Peter Freberis at 230 East Ohio street. "If you wait around you'll find the man who put the machine in here—he said he had Capt. Reynolds' permission," Freberis said.

The police waited, and Coughlin appeared to collect the coins. The restaurant owners were to receive half of the money in the machines. Coughlin refused, at first, to talk, but later told the grand jury he had been employed three months ago by Bud Lieberman, a slot machine vendor at 831 Washington boulevard, to place the machines around the city.

Police and state's attorney's investigators went to Lieberman's place and found five large slot machines and 79 small models. They were seized. More than 100 pin ball machines also were found in Lieberman's place and a policeman was detailed to guard them. Lieberman was arrested and will be taken before the grand jury today.

Raid Saddle and Cycle Club.

Coughlin gave the addresses of four more places where he had put slot machines and police confiscated those. Lieberman gave his address as 1428 Hollywood avenue.

Two nickel slot machines found in the Saddle and Cycle club, Sheridan road and Foster avenue, Wednesday night and three found in the Swedish club, 4923 North Damen avenue, were turned over to Summerdale police. No arrests were made. Three machines removed from the Danish Glee club, 1653 North Rockwell street, were smashed open yesterday in Judge Jay A. Schiller's courtroom and the money was given to the Red Cross.

A blanket conspiracy indictment, naming 25 or 26 of the leading policy gambling bosses, is expected today to complete the work of the January grand jury, the third grand jury to investigate gambling since THE TRIBUNE exposed the immense profits of Chicago gambling.

It was reported yesterday in the Criminal court that the indictment, charging conspiracy to violate gambling laws, would be asked of the jurors before their term expires today.

With the return of the expected policy indictments, the gambling investigation is expected to be continued by the February grand jury. State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney has said the inquiry will go into every phase of gambling, including the lucrative business of the syndicate, headed by Jack Guzik, and the bribes paid to public officials for protection.

STEVE SUMNER, 91, TELLS COURT HE'S SEEKING JOB

Testifies in $25,000 Milk Union Trial.

Steve Sumner, 91 year old former secretary-treasurer of local 753 of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, AFL, took the stand in the Superior court yesterday in behalf of Daniel Manning, a former milk wagon driver. Manning is suing five union officers for $25,000 damages for allegedly conspiring to expel him from the union and cause him to lose his job.

Daniel Manning.

Sumner, who smilingly refused to give his age "because they might call me for service, and besides I'm looking for a job," told a jury and Judge Paul McWilliams that he voted against the expulsion "because I thought the union's job was to keep men working, not add to unemployment."

Manning, who is 48 and lives at 1431 West 71st street, is suing James Kennedy, president, and Alvin Richards, Fred Dahms, Joseph Patterson, and Ray Bryant, trustees. He says he was expelled from the union July 9, 1938, and that the officials called a strike at the Borden-Wieland plant the following morning in a successful attempt to have him fired.

Manning said the reason for this action was that he asked for a day's delay in paying a $10 assessment, levied while he was absent because of ill health.

Attorney Geoffrey B. Fleming, representing Manning, said his client obtained a temporary county job after loss of his position with Borden-Wieland and is now working as a watchman.

Attorney David Riskind, for the union, said the union would contend that Manning was suspended for refusing to pay dues, despite every opportunity to do so, and for using abusive language toward officials who approached him on the subject and also for urging others not to pay.

Riskind said Manning was reinstated by the Teamsters Joint council, but was then employed in the county treasurer's office.

TAX ASSESSMENT IN LAKE COUNTY NOW $82,753,232

The Lake county board of review announced in Waukegan yesterday that it had completed the county assessment for 1941 and that the total property valuation was $82,753,232. This is $1,200,000 more than the 1940 assessment. The board had finished its work on Dec. 8, except for Grant township, where an additional survey was ordered. The assessment of this township, which includes Fox Lake, was increased $92,000 and 350 additional persons were assessed for personalty in the revision.

SULLIVAN MAPS PROGRAM TO END SCHOOL ESCAPES

Inspects State Institution with Officer Aids.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

T. P. Sullivan, state director of safety, yesterday took over the job of making escape-proof the Illinois State Training School for Boys, near St. Charles, from which 37 young hoodlums broke out between Dec. 20 and Jan. 27.

Sullivan lost no time in assuming the task assigned to him Wednesday by Gov. Green, who demanded that the escapes be stopped by whatever means necessary. Accompanied by prison experts and criminologists, the safety director went to the school, toured the grounds, and spent three hours with Russell W. Ballard, managing officer, familiarizing himself with the present system.

Before leaving the school Sullivan pronounced as woefully inadequate the safeguards and barriers against escape. He asserted that corrective measures will be taken speedily.

Highway Police on Guard.

Until the new system can begin functioning effectively state highway police will keep guard during the night. As dusk deepened last evening three cars of uniformed highway squads were rolling along the road outside the 12 foot steel fences, as they have for the last three nights—a period during which there have been no escapes.

The new plan envisons an independent outside guard force of at least 26 men, brilliant illumination, and constant patrol of the institution's fence, and a material increase in the custodial force inside the barrier.

"I hope to have the first of these guards on their way in the near future," Sullivan asserted. He explained that altho they must be employed by the state welfare department, which has jurisdiction over the school, he will designate those to be hired. Indicating there may be amplification of the original plan, Sullivan said:

"It would be impossible to recognize all the needs here in one visit. These visits and discussions will continue and the system will take shape as rapidly as is possible."

Notes Lack of Courtesy.

One thing the safety director obviously didn't like was the indifference and lack of courtesy among inmates encountered in several of the buildings. He remarked to members of the party afterward that in public and parochial schools—which are not essentially disciplinarian institutions—it is the custom for pupils to stand attentively when their superiors or visitors enter.

"But not here," grinned Leonarde E. Keeler, criminologist and a member of the party. "It might give them a psychosis."

This was a reference to the psychiatric treatment and sociological plan that has been in effect at the school since Nov. 1. Veteran employés have charged that a relaxation of discipline accompanied the new system and that the mass escapes were the result.

Others on Inspection Tour.

Accompanying the safety director on his rounds were Warden Ed Stubblefield of Joliet and Stateville prisons; Alvin J. Keys, assistant director of public safety; O. F. Carpenter, captain of guards at Joliet and Stateville; Capt. Herman Nofs of the state police, who has been mentioned as possible head of the new guard unit; O. G. Connerton, assistant superintendent of paroles; Keeler, Ballard, and Harold Johnson, assistant managing officer.

HUMPHREYS BEGS FOR COMPROMISE ON U.S. TAX DEBT

Boss Has a Lean Year, Offers $15,000.

BY CLAYTON KIRKPATRICK.

Murray [The Camel] Humphreys, who has lost two decisions in federal courts in his attempts to avoid paying income taxes on gangland profits, has begged for a truce, it was learned yesterday. The offer to quit the losing battle was made last June in the form of a compromise on his tax debt of $74,617, according to the latest government computation.

The size of Humphreys' offer—$15,000—led some observers to believe that evil days have fallen on the dapper one time Capone mobster who has been known to report annual income in excess of $60,000. These hold that The Camel hardly would be likely to make himself vulnerable to further criminal prosecution by painting a false picture of his assets.

Still Wealthy, Others Say.

Others subscribe to a theory, widely held among federal agents who have tried to discover Humphreys' assets, that he still is pretty well heeled.

During the last two years the government has filed two tax liens against Humphreys. Both, in effect, tied up all the tangible property he might possess. So far none has been found, altho ownership in several properties of considerable value has been traced to his wife.

Whether Humphreys has much money or not, there is unanimity among those who know him that 1941 was a bad year for the gang boss.

One of his pursuers remarked: "Hump has been so hot this year that the other bosses of the syndicate have dropped him, at least temporarily. It's certain that he's out of the dry cleaning racket now and probably his other rackets are not going too well."

Recall $50,000 Kidnaping.

Last Wednesday the United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that Humphreys must pay all the taxes the government said he evaded in 1930, 1931 and 1932. The ruling mentioned the court's belief that Humphreys obtained $50,000 in 1931 by kidnaping Robert C. Fitchie, then president of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union. This was income and Humphreys should have paid tax on it, the court said.

A large part of the recent heat that descended on Humphreys was generated by THE TRIBUNE'S exposé of gangland profits from gambling and slot machines. This showed that Humphreys shared the profits of the syndicate with Jack Guzik, Frank Nitti, and Edward Vogel, also ex-Capone gangsters.

Earlier his connections with the laundry and linen supply business in Chicago and with the Klever-Shampay cleaning plant, 4631 Cottage Grove avenue, were exposed.

Humphreys lost his first decision to the courts in 1934, when he was sentenced to 18 months for income tax evasion and was fined $5,000.

INDICT 20 AGENTS IN HUGE ALCOHOL TAX CONSPIRACY

New York, Jan. 29 (AP).—A federal grand jury in Brooklyn today returned indictments charging 20 agents of the United States alcohol control unit with accepting bribes in a conspiracy to defraud the government of $5,000,000 in alcohol taxes.

The indictment charged that the agents permitted the diversion of alcohol from hair tonic and cosmetics manufacturers into bootleg channels for the illegal making of liquor. The conspiracy, the indictment said, began as far back as 1933 and continued until a recent date. The investigation which led to the indictment was started almost a year ago.

United States Attorney Harold M. Kennedy and his assistant, James C. Scileppi, said that all but three of the indicted men still were in the service at the time the formal charges were returned.

COURT ORDERS COUNTY TO PAY JUDGMENTS OF MORE THAN 3 MILLION

Judge John Prystalski entered in the Circuit court yesterday a mandamus ordering Cook county to pay judgments for $3,136,913 that were rendered in 1938 but have stood as unpaid items on the county's books since that time.

The judgments are held by the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance society and the Ben Hur Life association, who purchased them two years ago from the city of Chicago. The original judgments were entered against the county for its share of Municipal court costs which prior to 1932 were paid entirely by the city. Costs for the years 1932-'38, inclusive, were included in the judgments.

Yesterday's order also directed the county to pay interest of $183,000, representing a 5 per cent charge from Oct. 1, 1940, to Dec. 1, 1941.

Assistant State's Attorney William Tuohy said that the county will appeal to the state Supreme court to test the legality of levying the special tax of $313,691 this year and of issuing bonds for the remainder, as Judge Prystalski ordered.

STATE TO CLOSE CASE TODAY IN ABORTION DEATH

The state is expected to close its case today in the trial of Dr. Nathaniel H. Schaffner, 53 years old, charged with murder by attempted abortion in the death of Mrs. Emma Laisure, 27, of 6144 North Hoyne avenue, last July 7.

Mrs. Laisure's brother-in-law, Herbert Gross, 1011 North Francisco avenue, yesterday testified he was present when her father, John Babich, told Dr. Schaffner that he intended to ask police to investigate his daughter's death. Dr. Schaffner replied, Gross said: "What do you want them to do with me—hang me?" Dr. S. A. Levinson, coroner's physicain, testified, that Mrs. Laisure's death was caused by shock.

During a morning recess a newspaper photographer was struck in a tussle with Dr. Schaffner's brother, Dr. Herbert Schaffner, 3254 Lincoln avenue, a dentist, when attempting to take a picture of the defendant. The photographer obtained an assault and battery warrant for the dentist.

GREEN DEMANDS UNITY IN WAR, BUT NOT IN POLITICS

Calls Party System Guard to Protect Freedom.

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 29 [Special].—Gov. Dwight H. Green of Illinois declared here tonight that Americans shall have the national unity so necessary to win the war but must vigorously eschew political unity if the full victory for which they are fighting is to be attained.

"We must maintain a strong opposition if we are to remain a constitutional republic," he asserted. "There is no conviction so vital to the American people as the conviction that no one, anywhere, at any time shall have a monopoly on unlimited power."

Gov. Green was the principal speaker at the annual Republican Kansas Day club dinner, marking the 81st anniversary of Kansas' admission to the union and the 51st anniversary of the founding of the club.

Party System Guards Freedom.

Analyzing the relationship of partisan politics to the present war emergency, Green urged his listeners not to forget the obligation of building an impregnable bulwark of unity against a merciless foe but to remember also that the party system of government is the balancing power that protects and perpetuates our freedom.

"This war to purge the world of the false doctrines which threaten liberty is not the war of the Republican party or of the Democratic party," he declared. "It is a crusade as holy as any fought in the middle ages—a crusade in which all Americans stand invincibly united, and into which they are throwing every human and physical power and resource they possess.

"Republicans and Democrats stand gun to gun on the battlefield and fly plane to plane in the air. They work side by side in the assembly lines and in the fields of agriculture.

Military, Not Political, Unity.

"But, while those of our own political faith are offering every sacrifice in this march to military victory, those in our party ranks, as well as those who lead them, must not neglect or forsake the enforcement of those cardinal principles by which the peacetime strength of our form of government will be preserved.

"We shall have national unity—Yes! To it we pledge our lives, our fortunes, and our honor. But political unity—never!

"We all want national unity when the security of the nation and of the people is genuinely involved. No one wants political unity, however, when it might mean the destruction of the party system of government. We must maintain strong opposition if we are to remain a constitutional republic."

Unlimited Power to No One.

Green said that the republic stands on the conviction that one person never will have unlimited power.

"The investiture of rule in a single person, or group of persons," he said, "would sacrifice the very freedom for which we are unselfishly bearing the terrific burdens of war. That is the road down which dictatorship lies, and no American will accept that destiny for his country."

2 Marine Corps Generals to Retire Because of Age

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 [Special].—Two marine corps general officers who soon will be 64 years old will be retired for age on Feb. 1, it was announced today. They are Maj. Gen. Louis McCarty Little and Brig. Gen. Russell B. Putnam. Gen. Little, commander of the marine barracks at Quantico, Va., will be succeeded by Maj. Gen. Holland M. Smith, who commands the amphibious force of the Atlantic fleet. Gen. Putnam will be succeeded as paymaster of the marine corps by Brig. Gen. R. R. Wright, until recently the paymaster of the Pacific department of the marine corps.

Propelled by Steam

Cameron Peck in his Locomobile on Michigan avenue.

To those who were startled by the sight of an 1896 Locomobile steaming down Michigan avenue yesterday:

It belongs to D. Cameron Peck, official of the Bowman Dairy company and assistant curator of the Museum of Science and Industry. He found it in Havana, Ill., bought it, and restored it for his collection of transportation items. John Reitzel, press agent for the dairy, said it would be absurd to even consider delivering milk in the vehicle. He dismissed the whole matter as just a hobby of Mr. Peck.

EVEN CHURCHILL SON-IN-LAW ASKS CONFIDENCE VOTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Vic Oliver, professional comedian and son-in-law of Winston Churchill, entertained guests at the Savoy hotel tonight and provided the stage for an impromptu appearance by the prime minister.

During his act, composed of jokes and violin and piano selections, Oliver evoked laughter and applause when he said, "I want a vote of confidence." Half an hour after Oliver finished, his dinner guests began clapping again. Standing in the doorway was the prime minister, who had been at a gathering of friends in one of the Savoy's private dining rooms.

After the vote of confidence in the house of commons today, Churchill had an hour's nap, held a cabinet meeting, and went to the hotel for dinner. The fact that his son-in-law was performing in another dining room was a coincidence.

4 BILLIONS MORE ASKED BY NAVY FOR AIR FORCE

Plans Already Call for 27,000 Planes.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—With the army's aircraft production program already projected thru 1944, thus emphasizing the administration's expectation of a long, hard war, the navy today requested an addition of 4 billion dollars for aircraft to the 19 billion, 977 million dollar naval appropriation bill now under consideration by a senate appropriations subcommittee.

The navy's request for a gigantic expansion of its aircraft program was made as the appropriations committee released testimony on a 12 billion, 525 million dollar army air force appropriation bill, which the senate passed and sent to the White House yesterday. Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air forces, testified that present plans call for increasing "the level of production of heavy bombers to 1,000 per month after June 30, 1944."

27,000 Planes Already.

Sen. John H. Overton [D., La.], chairman of the naval appropriations subcommittee, said he would offer a motion to add 4 billion dollars to the pending 19 billion, 977 million dollar naval appropriation bill for aircraft. The bill already contains funds to give the navy a total of 27,000 aircraft and this figure would be greatly expanded by the addition of 4 billion dollars.

For comparison purposes, the 12 billion, 525 million dollar bill passed yesterday contained 9 billion, 41 million dollars for aircraft, of which 23,000 are to be combat and 10,000 are to be training planes.

The navy's request for an additional appropriation of 4 billion dollars for aircraft indicates that the navy at last is heeding the lessons of the present war and intends to concentrate on the expansion of naval aviation, according to members of the appropriations committee.

Battleships not Dropped.

These members added, however, that the navy does not intend to relax its battleship building program. The pending bill contains more than 8 billion dollars for new ship construction. Included in the building program are 1,799 recently authorized minor combatant vessels.

The testimony of Gen. Arnold was not the only evidence before the appropriations committee that the administration expects a long war. Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, testifying before the naval appropriations subcommittee today, paraphrased remarks recently made by British Prime Minister Winston Churchill in projecting the course of the war. Members of the subcommittee said he described 1942 as a "tough" year of preparation, 1943 as a year in which the united nations will take the offensive, and 1944 as the year of victory. Some members said he suggested the possibility that it will be even later than 1944 when final victory is achieved.

Knox told reporters that the Asiatic fleet is doing "a damned fine job" against the Japanese in the southwestern Pacific and that he is "very proud of it."

FISHING VESSEL REVEALS RESCUE OF TANKER'S CREW

Boston, Mass., Jan. 29 (AP).—Rescue of the entire crew of 28 of a Norwegian tanker, torpedoed off Nova Scotia Jan. 21, was reported today by the Gloucester schooner Grand Marshal upon her arrival from the fishing banks.

Capt. Frank Hines, who has himself survived the sinking of two fishing vessels, related that the Grand Marshal came upon the tanker's crew, in two lifeboats, Jan. 23, about 60 miles off shore. The men, all in good condition except one who suffered an ankle injury, were taken aboard and landed at Shelburne, N. S.

The survivors, according to Capt. Hines, said their vessel was struck by two torpedoes and literally blown into two parts, both of which still were afloat when a Canadian coast guard vessel investigated several days later.

BUTCHER ENDS LIFE.

The body of James Barrelet, 65 years old, was found yesterday in the rear room of his market at 4209 North Albany avenue. Police found a bullet wound in his head and a .32 caliber revolver was beside him. He left a note reading, "I cannot stand the pain any longer." His wife said he had been suffering from rheumatism.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

U. S. WANTS AEF TO GET INTO WAR SOON: CHURCHILL

Hails Arrival of Troops; Wins Confidence Vote.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Asserting that America wants its second AEF to come to grips with the enemy "as close and as soon as possible" and telling the advantage which the presence of American troops on the western front will give to the allies, Prime Minister Winston Churchill today won an overwhelming vote of confidence from what had been a highly critical house of commons.

The vote was 464 to 1, the only dissenter being James Maxton, of the three man Independent Labor party. Maxton explained later that he voted "No" only because "I want my name in the papers." His two colleagues in the Independent Labor party, Jock McGovern and Campbell Stephen, were assigned as tellers and thus could not vote.

Altho he hinged the major portion of his speech on the Americans' arrival in Northern Ireland and announced "a steady flow of reënforcements of both aircraft and troops" has gone to Singapore for several weeks, Churchill backtracked a bit from the stand he had taken against changing his cabinet.

Admits Britain Needs a "Nelson."

He yielded to his critics in admitting that Britain must have some one with power similar to that of America's Donald M. Nelson to supervise its production. After the session the London press predicted that over the week-end the prime minister would appoint Lord Beaverbrook as minister of production and offer Beaverbrook's former post, minister of supply, to Sir Stafford Cripps, retiring ambassador to Moscow.

Churchill enumerated the advantages which the American forces will provide for the united nations, Churchill made the following five points:

1.—"It meets the wish of the American people and the leaders of the republic that the large mass of trained and equipped troops which they have in the United States shall come into contact with the enemy as close and as soon as possible."

2.—"The presence of these forces in these islands imparts greater freedom of movement overseas to the theaters where we are already engaged and greater movement to matured and seasoned divisions of the British army and avoids the difficulty of re-enforcing the theaters in which we are engaged with the troops of another nation, with all the complications of armament and command which arise therefrom."

3.—"The presence in our islands of a force of heavy and unknown strength and the establishment of a broader bridgehead between us and the new world constitute an important and added deterrent to invasion at a time when a successful invasion of these islands is Hitler's last remaining hope of total victory."

Australia to Get Supplies.

4.—"The fact that well-equipped American divisions can be sent into these islands so easily and rapidly will enable the substantial supplies of weapons and munitions now being made in the United States to be sent direct to the other side of the world —to Australia and New Zealand to meet the new dangers of home defense which are cast upon them by the Japanese war."

5.—"This whole business cannot do De Valera [the Irish premier, who has protested the presence of the United States troops in Ulster] any harm, and it may do him some good. It certainly offers a measure of protection to southern Ireland and Ireland as a whole which she could not otherwise enjoy."

Churchill went to some length to reiterate that Britain, because of her commitments in Russia and Africa, had to gamble against the Japanese attack, even tho it seemed "imminent and probable" during the Atlantic Charter meeting with President Roosevelt.

The Pacific war "might well have been staved off indefinitely" by President Roosevelt's measures of conciliation, he added sadly.

As for the loss of the capital ships Prince of Wales and Repulse, Churchill said Adm. Sir Tom Phillips went into action with the knowledge "drastic and urgent naval action was required" to stem the seaborne invasion of Malaya, and "only after he left the harbor was he informed that fighter protection could not be provided."

Churchill prefaced his remarks with praise for the "free debate" which had preceded his statement, and said:

"During my visit to America events occurred which altered in a decisive way the question of creating a ministry of production. President Roosevelt has appointed Mr. Donald Nelson to supervise the whole field of American production.

"All the resources of our two countries are now pooled in shipping, munitions, and raw materials, and some similar office—I will not say with exactly the same scope but similar scope—must be created here if harmonious and complete working between Great Britain and the United States is maintained at this very high level.

Calls 5 Points "Satisfactory."

"There are only a few points with which I shall deal this afternoon but they are important points.

[Churchill then enumerated the five points listed previously regarding the value of American forces in the British Isles.]

"I feel sure that the house will find these reasons, or most of them, solid and satisfactory.

"The course of this debate has mainly turned upon the admitted inadequacy of our preparations to meet the full onslaught of a new and mighty military opponent who has launched against us his whole energies and fury in Malaya and the far east.

"I do not, of course, pretend that these may not have been avoidable shortcomings and mistakes, or that more foresight might not have been shown in making use of our resources. . . .

"While I take full responsibility for the broad, strategic dispositions, that does not mean that scandals, inefficiency, or misbehavior of functionaries at the particular moment or in particular places . . . will not be probed and that they will be covered by the general support I give our commanders in the field.

Malaya Put in Jeopardy.

"I by no means say that faults have not been committed in a minor sphere, faults for which the government is blamed.

"But when all is said and done the house must not be led into supposing that even if everything on the spot has gone perfectly, which is rare in war . . ., that this would have made any decisive difference to the heavy British and American forfeits which followed inexorably upon the temporary loss of sea power in the Pacific, combined with the fact of our being so fully extended elsewhere.

"Our ability to defend the Malay peninsula was seriously prejudiced by the incursion of the Japanese into French Indo-China and the steady building up of very powerful forces and bases there.

"Even at the time when I went to meet the President off Newfoundland, invasion of Siam [Thailand] seemed imminent and probable.

"It was due to measures which the President took as a result of our conversations that this attack was staved off for so long and might well have been staved off indefinitely.

"In ordinary circumstances, if we had not been engaged to the last ounce in Europe and the Nile valley, we should ourselves, of course, have confronted the Japanese aggression into Indo-China with the strongest possible resistance from the moment when they began to build up large military and air power there.

"We were not in position to do this.

"Ought we not then in the interval —I want to argue the case quite clearly—have refused our aid in munitions to Russia?

Goal of Libyan Campaign.

"Part of what we sent to Russia would have made us . . . far better prepared in Malaya and Burma . . .

"We did not make such a reduction and I believe the vast majority of opinion in all parts of the house and country indorses our decision. . . .

"But apart from Russia, what about the campaign in Libya?

"Firstly, we hoped to remove, and we probably have removed, the menace to the Nile valley from the west.

"Secondly, this seemed the only place where we could open a second front against the enemy.

"There is no doubt whatever, altho our offensive in Libya was on a small scale compared with the mighty struggle on the Russian front, it nevertheless drew important German air forces from the Russian front.

"They were moved at the most critical moment of the battle and transferred to the Mediterranean. . . .

Battle "Costly" to Axis.

"Thirdly, this second front . . . afforded an opportunity of a fighting campaign against Germany and Italy on terms most costly to them.

"Should we have been right to sacrifice all this and stand idle, on the defensive in the western desert, sending all available resources to garrison Malaya and to guard against war with Japan which might never have taken place and which I believe only did take place thru the civil government being overwhelmed by a military coup d'état? . . .

"I come now to the battle raging in Johore. I cannot tell how it will go or how the attack on the island of Singapore will go.

"But a steady flow of reënforcements, both aircraft and troops, has flowed into the island for several weeks past.

"All the forces which have been sent were set in motion within a few days, some within a few hours of the Japanese declaration of war.

"To sum up, I submit that the main strategic political decision to aid Russia, deliver an offensive in Libya, and accept a consequential state of weakness in the then peaceful theater of the far east was sound.

"For this vote of confidence, on that I rest.

"There, however, is one episode, tactical rather than strategic in character, about which many questions have been asked . . . the operation which led to the sinking of the Prince of Wales and the Repulse.

"I have been asked very properly why the Prince of Walse and Repulse were sent to eastern waters if they could not properly be protected by aircraft.

"The answer is that the decision to send these ships in advance to the far east was taken in hope primarily of deterring Japan from going to war at all, or failing that, deterring her from sending convoys into the Gulf of Siam.

Aircraft Carriers Laid Up.

"The suggestion that the naval staff desired to send an aircraft carrier and was overruled by me is as mischievous as it is untrue.

"Unfortunately at the time, with the exception of an aircraft carrier in home waters, not a single ship of this kind was available thru a series of accidents, some of very slight consequence.

"All of them except this one with the home fleet were under repair.

"Adm. Sir Tom Philips . . . decided . . . in view of the movement of Japanese transports with weak fighting escort toward the Kra isthmus that drastic and urgent naval action was required.

"Adm. Philips was fully aware of the risks he was taking.

"Only after he left the harbor was he informed that fighter protection could not be provided.

"His force was attacked not, as has been supposed, by torpedo or bomber aircraft flown off a carrier, but by very long range, shore based, heavy, two-engined bombers from a main Japanese airdrome 400 miles way.

Defends Admiral's Risks.

"In the opinion of the board of admiralty . . . the risks Adm. Philips took were fair and reasonable.

"On behalf of his majesty's government I make no complaint of the debate. I offer no apologies. I offer no excuses. I make no promises.

"Let every man act now in accordance with what he thinks is his duty in harmony with his heart and conscience."

HAMMOND SURVIVOR OF SUNKEN SHIP IS WORLD WAR VETERAN

Carl Knee.

Carl Knee of Hammond, Ind., one of the 13 sailors who survived in an open boat for a month after the steamer Prusa was torpedoed Dec. 19 near Honolulu, was a naval lieutenant in the first World war, his niece, Mrs. J. E. Ogren, 26 169th street, Hammond, said yesterday. He was chief engineer of the Prusa. Mrs. Ogren said she last saw him a year ago but that Knee, 50 years old, and a bachelor, planned to return for a vacation after this last trip to Australia. She said the Prusa was a sister ship to the torpedoed Robin Moor and of the City of Flint, which had an adventurous trip during the early days of the war.

Rejects Appeal to Intern Black Market Operators

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 29.—A suggestion that persistent black [illegal] market operators be interned under regulation 18B which permits summary incarcerations in the interest of national defense was rejected in the house of commons today by Home Security Minister Herbert Morrison. He said he agreed persistent violators should be punished, but "could not agree that it would be right to use 18B for that purpose."

YANKS IN ULSTER READY TO FIGHT, SAYS THEIR CHIEF

'Happy to Be in Ulster'

SOMEWHERE IN NORTHERN IRELAND, Jan. 29 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Russell Hartle, commander of the first contingent of American field forces to reach Northern Ireland, said today: "We are here in accordance with the President's promise and with the tradition of the American people that, once challenged, they will accept and carry the fight to the challenger. With the foregoing in view, American soldiers are particularly happy to be here . . ."

BY RICE YAHNER.

WITH THE UNITED STATES ARMY IN NORTHERN IRELAND, Jan. 29 (AP).—Four thousand miles closer to the war in Europe, American troops fresh from United States camps buckled down under combat conditions today.

Scattered thru 5,200 miles of Ulster, they settled into camps, marched out the kinks of their trans-Atlantic journey, and concentrated on drills to protect themselves against German bombers and parachute troops.

The commander at this base said the boys, husky midwesterners, are "ready for combat." They were in service in the United States for more than a year and recently have been in extensive maneuvers in the south.

British observers said the Americans appear as fit as the British soldiers.

Englishman Hails Troops.

"But their physique is remarkable," said an English war correspondent who has seen fighting in Europe. "They generally are taller and huskier than the English. They are alert, eager, and efficient, judging from what we have seen in this first lot."

"And such a variety of equipment!" He continued. "Your men have great coats, Mackintoshes [raincoats], short coats, field jackets, and blouses. Our boys have greatcoats to wear over their battle dress, and their ground sheet [rubberized], which they can throw over them in bad weather in addition to using it for sleeping on the ground."

The British also are impressed by the way the Americans march "almost silently" in galoshes in contrast to the measured clop made by the hobnailed English boots. Neither is there the shouting of orders to which the British are accustomed. To the British it seemed that the commands of American officers hardly could be audible.

"British sergeant majors roar, whether from tradition or whatnot," a British observer said, "and English soldiers expect to be shouted at."

Mayor Welcomes Troops.

A Northern Ireland city [Londonderry], which honored President Ulysses S. Grant by giving him the freedom of the city 63 years ago, officially welcomed the United States soldiers today. Standing beneath the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes, Mayor F. J. Simmons, who also is a senator in the Northern Ireland parliament, presided over an official reception for army and naval officers of the forces.

Saying in Irish, "Cead mile failte," which he explained meant "one hundred thousand welcomes," the mayor pointed out that the forefathers of many of the American troops here had come from Ireland.

On the mayor's dais stood a replica of the American Liberty Bell, presented to Londonderry in 1894 by the American Human Liberty society. Army, naval, and air forces of Britain and the United States were represented at the ceremony.

The first casualty among the American troops was reported today. He is Private Edward G. Herfindahl of Des Moines, Ia., who suffered an attack of pneumonia but is recovering.

AXIS CAN'T USE BENGAZI HARBOR, BRITISH DECLARE

London Papers Print Nazi Claim of Capture.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 30 [Friday].—Altho the fall of Bengazi has not been admitted officially here or in the latest communique from Cairo, this morning's papers accept the German and Italian claim that their forces entered the Libyan city yesterday morning. The claim is given considerable prominence on the front pages.

Nevertheless, military experts here show a tendency to discount the importance of the seaport which appears to have changed hands for the fourth time. First taken by the British on Feb. 7, 1941, it was recaptured by the axis two months later. The British drive to the west which started last Nov. 18 swept into Bengazi on Dec. 25.

Use of Harbor Impossible.

The Daily Herald said the fall of Bengazi was not unexpected after the news that the German Gen. Erwin Rommel "had renewed operations with a double thrust against it."

"Bengazi's air fields and harbor are not likely to be of much immediate use to the axis," the Herald's military expert declared.

The Daily Telegraph said "the devastation caused by artillery and air bombardment have made its use as a harbor impossible."

However, it was admitted that the loss of Bengazi as an advanced air base means a diminution of royal air force support for the ground troops, as well as an increased burden on British lines of communication.

The Herald warned its readers to prepare "for further unfavorable news."

Hemmed In, Cairo Says.

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 29 (AP).—The British command acknowledged today that Gen. Rommel's German and Italian forces, striking with the full weight of their resources appeared to have hemmed in Bengazi from south and east in a drive that yesterday brought the axis spearhead to El Regima, 16 miles east of the Cirenaican capital on the highway leading into the El Achdar mountains.

The drive on Bengazi marked a sharp shift in the direction of the axis thrust. Virtually halted two days ago by RAF attacks in its attempt to push farther eastward, Rommel's army veered to the north and northwest.

The advance was carried out at the cost of great punishment from the air. Today's communique said RAF planes continued their intensive attacks on enemy columns during which they destroyed a number of vehicles and damaged many others."

Rommel a Field Marshal.

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP).—The Berlin radio tonight announced that Adolf Hitler had appointed Gen. Rommel, commander of the German Africa corps, to the rank of field marshal, second class.

FATE OF 3 YANKS ABOARD SUNKEN LINER UNKNOWN

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 29 (AP).—Three Americans, whose fate is not known, were included today in a list of more than 150 passengers, officers, and crewmen known to have been aboard the torpedoed Canadian liner Lady Hawkins. They were listed as J. W. Benson, Malden, Mass.; J. Dennehy, Somerville, Mass., and R. Payne, New York. The Lady Hawkins was sunk by an axis submarine on Jan. 29. After drifting for five days in a lifeboat, 71 survivors were picked up Friday and landed yesterday at a Canadian port.

BRAZIL PREPARES TO HALT ENEMY ALIEN ACTIVITY

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Jan. 29 (AP).—Brazil, the continent's largest nation, gave vivid evidence tonight of putting into practice Pan-America's avowed determination to wipe out the last vestiges of aid and comfort to the axis.

As the great cannon of Fort Copacabana at the mouth of Rio's harbor boomed practice rounds, authorities of the federal district ordered a rigorous scrutiny of all social, cultural, and recreational associations to determine whether they covered any anti-Brazilian activities. Porto Alegre authorities ordered imprisonment of all persons expressing sympathy with the aggressor nations.

Tragedy struck close to the homeward bound delegates to the foreign ministers' parley, which closed last night with a triumphal affirmation of western hemisphere solidarity. An air liner carrying the 12 man Argentine delegation fell into the sea near the Rio de Janeiro airport, but all were saved.

Henceforth all societies in Brazil must be two-thirds Brazilian in membership and all political discussion therein is banned. The Porto Alegre police even prohibited public use of the German, Italian, and Japanese languages. At Bahia and other points, foreigners were ordered to register quickly.

DAIL TOLD IRISH GROUP IS SEEKING TO FIGHT BRITAIN

DUBLIN, Ireland, Jan. 29 (AP).—Sean McEntee, minister of local government, told the Dail [parliament] today that an organization in Ireland was conspiring to "provoke attack on us and bring about what these people have wanted—an actual state of war between Ireland and Great Britain."

He avoided mentioning the outlawed Irish Republican Army by name, altho an opposition leader in the Dail, John Dillon, yesterday charged the IRA had collaborated with Nazi agents dropped in Ireland by parachute.

McEntee said Ireland was "fanatically determined to remain at peace," but that the "conspiring organization" claimed to be at war with a nation with which the people of Ireland wished to remain at peace.

ministration forces prevailed in today's secret session.

Chairman Vinson also announced that the group had tabled a motion to requisition an official copy of the Roberts report and the documentary evidence on which it was based. He told reporters: "There will be no further investigation by this committee at this time."

Minority members asserted after the session that the committee "has made a serious mistake" in not permitting all circumstances of the Pearl Harbor attack to be made public, especially as to the division of command between the army and navy forces and possible lack of coöperation between department heads in the capital and at the distant outposts.

Rep. Melvin J. Maas [R., Minn.], ranking minority member of the naval affairs committee, said his colleagues had lost an opportunity to correct serious flaws in the nation's military system.

"The country is not satisfied with the Roberts report," said another member. "The people have a right to know all the facts in the case."

Those who lost the fight for an open inquiry said that "obviously" the administration had taken the necessary steps to quash the proposal. They said the letter from the navy department was tantamount to a White House order to vote against reopening the matter in congress.

"They had their orders and they voted the way they were told to" was the comment of one member emerging from the committee chamber. "That's all there was to it."

JAPS CLAIM RAIL TOWN IN CENTRAL MALAYA TAKEN

Report Army 26 Miles from Singapore.

TOKIO [from Japanese broadcasts], Jan. 30 [Friday] (AP).—Japanese forces on the central Malayan front captured the railroad town of Sedenak, 26 miles fro mJohore strait, last night and are speeding toward Kulai, eight miles south, Domei reported today in a dispatch fro mthe Malayan front.

The news agency also claimed that Japanese columns surging southward along the Batu Pahat-Singapore highway on the Malayan west coast virtually had clinched a hold on the Malacca strait coast line.

Domei said the Japanese in the center were mopping up isolated remnants of Australian troops offering stiff resistance along the Singapore railroad.

Bayonets Fail to Halt Foe.

SINGAPORE, Jan. 29 (AP).—The British line held firm today in the western Malaya sector but still was being beaten back elsewhere by the Japanese. On the central front the invaders had thrust to within 30 miles of Singapore despite bayonet counterattacks of the outnumbered Australians.

This, the most menacing advance reported by British headquarters, was accomplished by the Japanese 5th division of veteran shock troops over Australian infantrymen who inflicted heavy casualties but were able only to interrupt and not to arrest the invader's slow and bloody push.

Fighting in this area, the afternoon British communique conceded, had extended down to the area of Layang-Layang, a town on the main Singapore railroad.

Fighting Heavy in East.

On the British right, along the east coast of the peninsula, action was heavy about Ulu Sedili, on the Sedili river 40 miles north of the strait of Johore and some 15 miles below the scene of earlier fighting in that sector.

On the left, however, where earlier enemy pressure had been concentrated along the Malayan west coast, British headquarters announced succinctly:

"There is no change to report in the situation in the western sector." Thus, the invader was being held about Rengit, 40 odd miles above Singapore, which he had reached yesterday.

Japanese bombs killed 105 persons and injured 243 yesterday in Singapore, the ministry of information announced.

U. S. Flyers Score in Burma.

RANGOON, Burma, Jan. 29 (AP).—The unbeaten American volunteer squadron and RAF colleagues shot 13 and possibly 17 more Japanese planes out of a mass enemy fighter sweep today, boosting to at least 111 planes their score of raiders destroyed since the start of the war.

After the fight was over, some Japanese wrecks were found as far as 18 miles from Rangoon, one having almost struck a white stone Pagoda. Not an allied plane was lost.

The squadron leader, Jack, of Scarsdale, N. Y., added another victory to his string; so did yellow haired Noel from Vandalia, Ia., and Frank of Pensacola, Fla.

The two day score for the defenders was 20 planes known to have been shot down, nine probables, and nine damaged.

HOW ARE YOU FEELING, CINDY?
THEY'RE GOING TO OPERATE--I KNOW I WON'T LIVE, BUT I DON'T CARE--I'VE NOTHIN' TO LIVE FOR!
DON'T TALK LIKE THAT, CINDY--
--I LOVE YOU--
OH, JACK, NOW I--I CAN DIE HAPPY!

BIG JAP INVASION ARMADA CALLED MENACE TO JAVA

New Landing Made by Invaders in Borneo.

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Jan. 29 (AP).—Despite a full week of blasting counterattack from air and sea in which 38 to 46 Japanese warships and transports, reputedly carrying at least 25,000 Nipponese troops, have been sunk or damaged, a still powerful Japanese invasion armada maneuvered tonight in a reckless gamble for a foothold on Java.

The Japanese were reported by one source still to have 65 ships carrying 150,000 men in Macassar strait for the thrust at Java, heart of the Dutch East Indies and site of the united nations' supreme command.

The belief was that the fleet still would try to push to the southern end of the strait, splitting up for onslaughts against Macassar City on the southwestern coast of Celebes island, and against Banjermasin on the southeastern Borneo coast. Banjermasin is less than 300 miles northeast of the principal Dutch naval base of Soerabaja, across the Java sea.

Make New Landing in Borneo.

On the southward stepping stone approach toward Java the invaders today made a new landing at Pemangkat, on the western coast of Borneo, 525 miles from Java.

This was seen as a clearing of the Japanese right flank for the main thrust thru Macassar strait on the other side of Borneo. In the strait itself the deepest foothold held by the invaders is Balik Papan, nearly half way down the west shore.

The troops landed at Pemangkat, from Japanese-occupied Sarawak to the north, immediately menaced the big western center of Pontianak, 85 miles south along the coast and only 440 air miles from Batavia. The Dutch garrison there promptly destroyed all valuable equipment, a communique said, when the enemy gained some "local successes."

Japs Strike Overland, Too.

Heavy land fighting also was reported in the area, indicating the Japanese also were striking overland. Formidable mountain ranges and dense jungles threaded by a few trails stand between Kuching, the Sarawak capital, and Pontianak, but there are some navigable streams.

In nearing Pontianak the Japanese were coming closer to the Dutch tin islands of Banka and Billiton, which lie about 375 miles south and slightly east of Singapore.

U. S. Bombers Sink Transport.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 (AP).—One Japanese transport in the Borneo harbor of Balik Papan was destroyed, another set on fire, and two enemy fighting planes were shot down by five American bombers which returned safely to their base, the war department said today in describing a Macassar strait action. Apparently this was the same engagement reported yesterday from Batavia.

Aussies Bomb Jap Transport.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 29.—Australian air force planes hit one ship and possibly another in their third raid on Japanese transports at Rabaul, New Britain, on Wednesday night, it was announced today.

HAWAIIAN DANCE HALL NOW CENTER FOR CAMOUFLAGE

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 29 (AP).—The plaintive melodies of native Hawaiian songs rose in a great spontaneous chorus today from the most picturesque defense scene in all the islands — a camouflage center sponsored by the United States engineers.

The setting was a huge dine and dance emporium, closed by blackout regulations. Scores of girls sat in groups outside on the ground, weaving strips of cloth of all colors into great nets. Others stood at tables on the covered dance floor, cutting and tearing stacks of cloth into strips. Still others wove and tied the nets, then dyed them a brick red to blend with the dust of the islands.

They sang at their work. There were hula dancers and school teachers, stenographers and college students and waitresses. There were youngsters of 18 and women of 80. Gas masks hung on nearby walls and trees. Lunch boxes were piled on top of the pianos.

WESTERN CANADA TROOPS SHORT ON ARMS, M. P. SAYS

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 29 (AP).—Howard Green, Conservative member of parliament from British Columbia, told the house of commons tonight that altho enemy attacks on the British Columbia coast "will come sooner or later," some of the active army there have no rifles.

He said that Canadians on the Pacific coast had great sympathy for Australia, "because we see that Canada may soon be placed in the same position."

He suggested the Japanese would attack the United States owned Aleutian Islands bases off Alaska and then the British Columbia towns of Prince Rupert and Port Alberni to establish bases for air raids on shipyards and defense bases around Vancouver and neighboring American ports.

SEES BATTLESHIP SINK! BLASTED BY 4 TORPEDOES

Britain's Barham Goes Down in Five Minutes.

difficult to believe what my own eyes had seen.

Five minutes previously the Barham had been steaming majestically behind this flagship. Now she didn't exist.

Scores of officers and seamen of the Queen Elizabeth who had rushed on deck from a teatime snack stood helplessly as they watched the Barham die in a matter of moments.

The submarine apparently passed almost directly between the Barham and the battleship Valiant just after firing the torpedoes.

It was so close inboard that the explosion of the torpedoes forced it momentarily to the surface. Some of the officers aboard this battleship said they saw the conning tower bob above water.

After the tremendous explosion of the Barham's magazines several officers expressed belief that the submarine, being so near, must have been crushed by the underwater concussion.

Four Great Holes in Side.

I was the only correspondent to witness the Barham's finale. I shall never forget how bravely she seemed to fight to stay afloat with four gaping torpedo holes in her portside, but the great torrents of water pouring into her soon forced her over on her side.

When nothing but black smoke could be seen on the horizon many officers of the Queen Elizabeth remarked: "Well, we cannot win all the time."

"But it was tough to see the old Barham go that way," they added, "she would rather have fought it out."

Two hours after the Barham was gone, Capt. C. B. Barry of the Queen Elizabeth told the ship's company over the loudspeaker, "You will all be glad to know that approximately 500 were saved from the Barham, including the vice admiral and his secretary."

A Prayer for the Dead.

Then, as every man aboard stood silently at his action station, an emotion choked voice came over the speaker:

"This is the padre speaking. While we are thankful for those who are saved, let us not forget those who lost their lives, or, rather, have gone to a better life. . . . Let us pray.

"O Lord, grant those who have died Thy peace; let Thy protection shine upon them—these men who have given their lives for freedom."

This was the simple, moving requiem for the men of the Barham.

In Battle of Jutland.

Their great ship, built in 1915 as a superdreadnaught, participated in the battle of Jutland in 1916.

In the quiet years of peace she spent much of her time in this very sea, the Mediterranean.

She was damaged by a German submarine two years ago. [The Germans and the French said she also was damaged again in the Dakar battle in September, 1940.] But she survived to carry her great battery of eight 15-inch guns into the battles of Cape Matapan and Crete and numerous lesser engagements before the familiar waters of the Mediterranean became her tomb.

REPORT 'FREE FRENCH' ESCORT SHIP RAMS AND BOMBS A U-BOAT

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP).—The admiralty announced tonight that a "Free French" corvette had rammed and either sunk or seriously damaged a German submarine.

The corvette Roselys saw the U-boat on the surface while on convoy escort duty, swerved, and rammed the submarine before it could dive. Depth bombs were dropped on the submarine as it sank, the admiralty said.

Identify Sunken U-Boat.

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP).—The admiralty today identified the German submarine U-95 as the undersea boat which was sunk last Nov. 26 in a torpedo duel with a Netherlands submarine on the Mediterranean. Twelve German officers and crew members—the only survivors—have been brought to Britain as prisoners. The Netherlands submarine won the fight with a torpedo hit.

M. P. ASKS WHY HAW HAW GETS BRITISH MONEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Reports that the British government is advancing about $40 monthly to William Joyce, whom some identify as "Lord Haw-Haw," anti-British broadcaster from Germany, will be brought up in the house of commons shortly.

Walter Sydney Liddall, Conservative, it was revealed tonight, has presented a question asking if Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden is "aware that a person named William Joyce, British subject interned in enemy territory and employed by the German broadcasting authorities" is receiving $40 monthly from the British government, and "if he will take steps to stop such payments to Joyce and like traitors forthwith?"

Before the war, "Lord Haw-Haw" lived in London, and was director of propaganda for the British Union of Fascists. The money is reported to represent payments on an annuity.

GEN. L. V. REGAN GRAVELY ILL OF HEART ATTACK

Gen. Lawrence V. Regan, former Illinois adjutant general, was reported to be seriously ill last night after a heart attack. Gen. Regan is 52 years old and lives at 6430 North Damen avenue. He enlisted as a private in the 1st cavalary, Illinois National Guard, in 1913, and rose to a captaincy during the World war. After the war he became a major in the guard, then lieutenant colonel, and colonel, and chief of staff in 1934. He was succeeded as adjutant general by Leo M. Boyle in November, 1940.

NEGRO SOLDIERS ARE DISPERSED WITH TEAR GAS

Fredericksburg, Va., Jan. 29 (AP).—A. G. Kendall, superintendent of city police, said tear gas was used tonight in dispersing a crowd of about 200 Negro soldiers who sought to prevent the removal by police of one of their number from a Negro hotel on Princess Anne street.

No one was injured in the mêlée and the soldiers were loaded into army trucks and returned to the A. P. Hill military reservation, near here, the superintendent added.

Three police officers went to the hotel about 11 o'clock after receiving a call from the management to remove a disorderly soldier, police reported, and the soldiers crowded about the two officers who went into the hotel.

Claims British Spurned Aid of Chinese Army in Malaya

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 29 (AP).—Cheng Cheng K'un, University of Washington professor who recently returned from a trip to the orient, told a civic club meeting today he had information that six months ago the Chinese offered the British 250,000 troops to help defend Singapore. The professor said the British "did not believe the Japanese would attack.

ENEMY ALIENS ORDERED FROM 2 COAST AREAS

Take More Steps Today to Tighten War Control.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 (AP).—Attorney General Francis Biddle tonight ordered all German, Japanese, and Italian nationals to leave specified vital areas in San Francisco and Los Angeles by Feb. 24 and announced that 27 additional prohibited areas recommended by the war department will be published tomorrow.

The order was only the first of numerous such actions to be taken as the justice department receives additional recommendations from the war and navy departments, Biddle said at a hastily summoned press conference.

The initial areas at San Francisco include the entire waterfront from China basin to the Presidio reservation boundary line, including the Embarcadero and some nearby areas. At Los Angeles the area follows the shoreline near the intersection of Sepulveda boulevard and Rosecrans avenue, easterly to Western avenue, northerly to Manchester avenue, and then westerly to the ocean.

Thousands of Japs Affected.

The attorney general was unable to give an exact figure on the number of aliens, principally Japanese, who will be moved out of the two areas, but said that it will be "several thousand." The number to be affected by the 27 prohibited areas which will be designated tomorrow is expected to be considerably smaller.

The final date after which no enemy alien may remain in or enter the 27 areas will be Feb. 15. The difference in the dates, it was explained, is due to the fact that relatively few enemy aliens now are in the areas to be named tomorrow, compared with the number in the first two designated regions. Thus the problem of moving or excluding them is much easier.

Works with Other Agencies.

Biddle said that in addition to the war and navy departments, he is cooperating with the labor, treasury, and agriculture departments, the Federal Security agency, the Works Projects administration, and the Office of Facts and Figures.

These steps, the attorney general said, represent moves in "steadily tightening control of enemy aliens"—a "large and carefully worked out program" for internal security.

The attorney general was unable to say where the aliens sent out of vital areas will be expected to go, but he said that assistance will be given where necessary.

The areas will be policed by representatives of the justice department, with assistance from the army.

The Recruit of the Day

He's 44 Years Old

Roy M. Roush of Newton, Ia., saw a lot of action in the last war—and now he's coming back for more. Roush, who is 44 years old, reported yesterday for duty at Great Lakes Naval Training station, having enlisted in the United States Naval Reserve as a machinist's mate, second class.

In 1917 Roush enlisted four days after war was declared. He was among the first soldiers to reach France and was still overseas after the fighting was over. He was in the battles of Montdidier-Noyon, Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne and in the army of occupation.

He's hoping to meet his son who is attached to the Pacific fleet. Back in Newton are his wife, two other sons, and a daughter.

SET FEB. 9 TO 28 FOR REGISTERING ENEMY ALIENS

Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen announced yesterday that enemy aliens will be required to apply for their new certificates of identification between Feb. 9 and 28, inclusive. Applications are to be obtained in the postal sub-station nearest the applicant's home.

Each alien, the postmaster said, must also present his alien registration receipt card and must provide three unmounted photographs with light background, 2x2 inches in size. The alien also is required to have available pertinent dates and facts about his life.

The identification cards are required under President Roosevelt's proclamation of Jan. 14.

ARMY RELAXES OFFICER CAMP ENTRANCE RULES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 (AP).—Liberalized requirements for officer candidates among the army's enlisted men were announced today by the war department.

The age limits were fixed at 18 and 45, and the minimum service before a soldier can enter an officer candidate school at three months. Previously, men from replacement training centers were eligible after four months, but soldiers in field units had to have six months' service.

The candidate school courses, leading to commissions as second lieutenants, will last three months. The maximum age for second lieutenants serving with troops is 30 and Secretary Stimson said at his press conference that men over 29 graduating from the officer candidate schools would be commissioned as second lieutenants but assigned immediately to other schools for additional instruction to qualify them for the higher ranks more in keeping with their age.

STIMSON BARES MERGER OF LAND, SEA, AIR CONTROL

Tells Command Shakeup to Speed Pilot Training.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—Coördination of army, navy, and air commands, found to be a serious defense deficiency in the report of the board investigating the disastrous Japanese attack on Hawaii, already is under way, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson announced today.

Stimson also reported a shakeup in the aviation high command, necessitated by the shift in the Hawaiian command and to speed the training of 30,000 pilots, observers, navigators, and other personnel.

Stimson reported that the top Hawaiian commander is Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, who replaced Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, shortly after the Dec. 7 surprise attack.

Emmonds Second in Hawaii.

Under Nimitz is Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, commander of the Hawaiian department, replacing Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, who in the board of inquiry report, shared with Kimmel the blame for the Pearl Harbor debacle.

The report found that the failure of Kimmel and Short to coöperate on defense contributed in a large measure to the success of the Japanese attack.

Stimson was asked what the department intends to do about Gen. Short, who was relieved of command at Hawaii on Dec. 17, in view of the findings of the board of inquiry.

Martin (left), Spaatz, and Harmon (right).

"The matter is under careful study and consideration," Stimson said. "I cannot estimate how long it will be before a decision is reached."

Air Chief in Panama.

The Panama command, Stimson continued, is under Lieut. Gen. Frank M. Andrews, veteran army airman. The Western Carribean command is headed by the fleet commander at Puerto Rico. The Pacific Southwest command is under Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell.

Stimson echoed the statement of President Roosevelt that help is being rushed to this area. All he could add, the secretary said, is that "reenforcements are going on."

He was asked whether the torpedo boats, which are scoring hits in daring raids on Jap vessels, are reënforcements or part of the original Philippine naval forces. He said they were part of the original force.

When asked how planes and other supplies could be sent to Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his beleaguered forces on Bataan peninsula and Corregidor Island, Stimson countered: "Would you like that news to go to the Japanese?"

Spaatz Directs Combat.

In the aviation shakeup, Brig. Gen. Carl Spaatz was made chief of the air combat forces. He will hold the rank of lieutenant general. This was the post held by Gen. Emmons before he was shifted to the Hawaiian area to relieve Gen. Short.

Spaatz will be succeeded as chief of air staff by Maj. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, commander of the 2d air force at Fort George Wright, Washington, who had been acting chief of the air force combat command.

Harmon will be succeeded as commander of the 2d air force by Maj. Gen. Frederick L. Martin, chief of the army air forces in Hawaii, who was relieved of his command there along with Gen. Short.

Other Command Changes.

The return of Martin to a high air post was regarded a complete vindication of his performance at Hawaii. He was not censured in the report of the board of inquiry.

Col. Edgar P. Sorenson, assistant chief of air staff, was named director of bombardment aviation of the air staff. His former post will be filled by Col. Thomas J. Hanley Jr., executive officer of the 1st air force base command at Mitchell Field, N. Y.

Maj. Gen. Barton K. Yount, pioneer in army air training, was named to head a new unit, which will centralize training activities. The unit will be known as the flying training command. Yount, who has served abroad and at many airposts, has been chief of training and operations in the office of the chief of the air corps.

Stimson said creation of the training command was necessary to end confusion and break bottlenecks arising from lack of centralization.

LET US BE GOOD AMERICANS

From Washington comes word that our Government is much disturbed over the tendency among some people to load up on food, clothing, household goods, and other articles.

The reason our Government is concerned is that hoarding hurts the war effort, creates needless scarcities, and tends to inflate prices . . . all of which could be avoided by a little patriotic cooperation and self restraint.

We are assured that if every good American will pursue his normal habit of buying only what he needs, when he needs it, we will all have enough of practically everything.

We make this statement in a spirit of service and cooperation to our country . . . and we appeal to every loyal American not to hoard anything himself, and to do everything in his power to discourage others from buying more than their normal needs.

25,000 GERMANS SLAIN IN 10 DAYS, RUSSIANS CLAIM

Reds Advance 93 Miles on Donetz Front.

MOSCOW, Jan. 30 [Friday] (AP).—The Russians tonight announced the recapture of Lozovaya, midway between the Donetz and Dnieper rivers, disclosing a 93 mile drive in the industrial basin of the south which threatens the entire German winter line down to the Sea of Azov.

Four hundred populated points were retaken by the Red armies and 25,000 Nazis slain in 10 days of bitter fighting thru Tuesday, the communique said.

This big soviet success in the south followed by a few days the powerful strides in the north which reached and passed Kholm, far above the pivotal Nazi central bastion of Smolensk.

On Important Railways.

German positions at Stalino were in danger of being outflanked by the capture of Lozovaya. The town is 70 miles southeast of Lozovaya and 70 miles northeast of Dnepropetrovsk, the big soviet industrial center captured by the Germans last year after the retreating Russians dynamited its great power dam.

Rail lines radiate from Lozovaya north to Kharkov, southwest to Dnepropetrovsk and Zaporozhe, and west to Lubny and Kiev.

Soviet troops west of the Donetz took Barvenkova en route to Lozovaya, and Russian dispatches said that 1,000 Germans were wiped out in a single day's action on this front. The 3d Hungarian cavalry was reported badly mauled.

Mop Up in Central Zone.

On the central front the Russians recaptured Sukhinichi and Myatlevo in mopping-up operations behind their advance troops pointed at Smolensk from the Kirov area, and also reoccupied Aleksandrov and Mokroye villages.

In the Jan. 18-27 period this German booty was captured by the Russians:

More than 1,000,000 cartridges; 100,000 mines; 80,000 rounds of ammunition; 62 miles of telephone cable; 23,000 hand grenades; 438 trucks with war material and other supplies; 24 stores of war material; 2,400 carts, and 2,800 horses.

In addition the Russians destroyed 28 tanks, 36 guns, 47 trench mortars, 133 railway trucks, 12 locomotives, four fuel trucks, 1,071 supply trucks, 713 carts, 25 airplanes, and 50 timber and earth defenses.

Margin for Air Force.

The Red air force was credited with destroying 27 German planes in Wednesday's fighting at a loss of eight planes. The soviet airmen also destroyed 335 trucks, 100 carts and other equipment, and dispersed or annihilated five enemy battalions.

Maj. Gen. Grendal of the air corps declared that winter had caught the Germans unprepared in Russia and that consequently they had suffered their worst aerial defeat of the war.

He cited the fact that the 100 plane Nazi raids on Moscow of last August had dwindled to 20 plane attacks in the first half of December, while in the last few days only one or two planes were heard in the capital area.

Russian naval dispatches from the far north said the soviet Arctic submarines had sunk, among other German vessels, 45 troop and supply ships totaling 200,000 tons, despite hazardous operating conditions in the Barents sea.

Blizzards Restrict Fighting.

BERLIN, Jan. 29 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—Blizzards were reported by the high command today to have restricted fighting in the Crimea and on the southern sector of the Russian mainland front.

BULLITT ARRIVES BY AIR FOR TALK WITH PRESIDENT

New York, Jan. 29 (AP).—William C. Bullitt, personal representative of President Roosevelt, arrived today aboard a Pan American Airways Clipper after an eight week trip to foreign areas.

Bullitt said he could not discuss his trip until after he had talked with the President, and added that he will go to Washington as soon as possible.

Also aboard were George H. Earle, United States ambassador to Bulgaria and a former Pennsylvania governor, and Larry Allen, Associated Press war correspondent who served many months with the British Mediterranean fleet.

CAPITAL HOUSING JAM MAY FORCE 50,000 TO MOVE

Increased Exodus of Workers Expected.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—Congestion may become so acute in the national capital that all nondefense government workers may be ordered to leave, the house public buildings and grounds committee was told today.

After the commissioner of public buildings, W. E. Reynolds, told the house body that it is possible to move 25,000 government workers from the city, Defense Housing Coördinator Charles F. Palmer said it may be necessary to move all nondefense workers to make room for those who will be engaged directly in the war effort. Such an order would affect at least 50,000 workers, it was estimated.

3,000 Coming to Chicago.

Present plans for decentralization of government nondefense units provide for the removal of between 11,000 and 12,000 workers. About 3,000 of these will be shifted to Chicago in the fish and wild life service, national park service, office of Indian affairs, employés' compensation commission, and railroad retirement board.

Reynolds said that it is possible to move additional employés without disruption of the war program and this should be done at once. He insisted that 50 million dollars, authorized for defense housing in the capital under two measures pending in congress, would not provide enough homes for workers expected in the next year.

Rapid Increase Seen.

It is estimated that there will be 40,000 additional workers in the capital within the next six months. The total increase in capital workers for the year is expected to reach 85,000.

Reynolds estimated that it would cost $150,000,000 to provide homes and public works for 40,000 additional workers. In public works he included at least 17 new schools, 3 hospitals, and extensions of police, fire, and health services and utilities.

He said that a vast housing program will have to be undertaken even tho many persons are moved, because it will not be possible to move enough to make room for all the additional war workers.

Lone German Plane Bombs a Scottish Fishing Village

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP).—A German plane bombed and machine gunned a north coast Scottish fishing village tonight, killing a number of persons.

NORSE SHIPPING IS CURBED; HINT INVASION FEARED

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 30 [Friday] (AP).—Several sectors of the Norwegian coast have been closed to shipping by German authorities, presumably in connection with fears of an allied invasion, Oslo dispatches said today.

The Selbjornsfjord, off Bergen, has been barred to shipping, and the German command is warning ships to stay away, it was said.

Large minefields were reported to have been laid on the Malangenfjord, in northern Norway, and the harbor of the town of Hammerfest is said to have been closed.

It is rumored that these precautions were taken after receipt of word that an allied attack on Bergen might be expected.

DR. SNYDER, N. U. HEAD, OUTLINES WAR ACTIVITIES

Franklyn B. Snyder, president of Northwestern university, speaking before a joint meeting of university trustees and associates at the Chicago club, yesterday outlined the part Northwestern is playing in the war program.

President Snyder listed eight major wartime activities of the university. He said that while the university will continue to do all it can to help win the war, it will maintain its basic educational activities unimpaired.

The activities mentioned included:

1. One hundred sixty-one undergraduates and 85 faculty members entered in military service.
2. Sixteen faculty members engaged in nonmilitary government work.
3. A great increase in the amount of confidential research aimed at war needs.

Some Open to Public.

4. Special wartime education including lecture series; 24 free wartime courses open to the public; special noncredit courses in defense work open to students; tutorial work for candidates for appointment to the Naval academy at Annapolis.
5. Continuation of the extensive civilian pilot training courses which have sent enough men into the armed services to man three combat sections.
6. Direct aid to the armed services thru expansion of the naval ROTC unit on the campus; furnishing housing and maintenance for the naval midshipmen's school on the Chicago campus; organization of a general hospital unit; creation of a manual for army use on governing traffic under all conditions.

Training Course for Nurses.

7. Establishment in the near future of a large training course in the medical school for practical nurses to alleviate the shortage of nurses among civilians.
8. Acceleration of the educational program thru the establishment of a regular summer quarter, making it possible for undergraduates to complete their work and receive degrees after three years; admission as freshmen for exceptional students who have completed three years of high school.

President Snyder told the trustees that the university had been preparing for this emergency for the last two years.

DAIRIES OF ELGIN DROP PLANS FOR 6 DAY DELIVERIES

Mayor Myron M. Lehman of Elgin said yesterday that Elgin dairies had dropped plans for discontinuing milk deliveries on Sundays because of the objection of the truck drivers union. The six day delivery service, designed to save tires, was to have gone into effect Sunday. Members of local 330 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers—voted Wednesday to refuse to coöperate in the program unless ordered to do so by the government. It had been planned that drivers would make double deliveries on Saturdays.

House Honors McKinley with Flowers in Lapels

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 (AP).—Republican members of the house, and a few Democrats, wore pink carnations in their lapels today in observance of the 99th birthday anniversary of William McKinley, former president. The flowers were distributed by members of the Ohio Republican delegation. McKinley was a resident of Canton, Ohio, when he was elected president.

MANY ON RELIEF, BUT NONE TO AID PAPER SALVAGE

Hewitt Proposal Rejected by Administrator.

BY WARD WALKER.

While 113,952 persons are on relief in Chicago, 8,000 of them men classified as able to work, 600 men can't be furnished to conduct a house to house campaign to salvage some of the 60,000 tons of paper destroyed here each month.

This was revealed yesterday by George J. Klupar, relief administrator, at a conference in the office of Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, who had volunteered his services and those of his staff to supervise the salvage program.

Under the plan, as presented to Klupar, every housewife would be asked to save every piece of clean paper that comes into her home. Once a week a relief worker would call at her door and pick up the bundle which he would deliver to the ward superintendent's office.

City Would Get Proceeds.

The paper would be gathered, baled, and sold to dealers by Hewitt's men; the proceeds would go into the city treasury and the paper, needed because of a threatened shortage, would be available to the nation's mills for processing.

The plan was drafted when it became apparent that the voluntary contribution campaign being conducted here as a part of the nation-wide drive was not producing the anticipated results. It has been estimated the nation requires in a normal year about 18 million tons of paper. This year the government has earmarked one-third of that production figure for its own use—for packing shells, food, and in the manufacture of many items.

Ability to Work Limited.

Klupar explained the shortage of men who could walk the necessary few blocks and carry the papers:

"Out of the 55,700 relief cases [2.5 persons per case] we have classified 8,000 men as able to work—but 60 per cent of those have limited capabilities. In fact, most of that 60 per cent are even classed as unfit for WPA labor.

"We'll be glad to coöperate with the program in any way possible, but we're already furnishing all the men to Hewitt that are available."

The men he referred to are used by the commissioner for rat poisoning and salvaging waste paper from the streets. There are an average of 650 men per day on this type of work, or 2,600 a month, since each reliefer works only an average of one week out of four.

4,700 of 8,000 Take Jobs.

Out of the 8,000 men ordered by Klupar to report to Hewitt for work assignment last month, 4,700 did so, 2,600 didn't show up and 700 were judged unfit for the labor required.

The necessity for a house to house campaign to salvage paper was explained by Morton H. Lynn, secretary of the Chicago Waste Material Dealers' association:

"Every one wants to do his or her patriotic bit, but the dealers can't make house to house calls picking up only 8 or 10 pounds at each call.

"The householder hasn't the room or the patience to accumulate paper in 100 pound batches and so the paper goes to waste. But thru the schools or some other agency, there should be some way to collect the paper so it can get back into commercial channels."

So far, Lynn said, no sustained program for salvaging much of the waste has been worked out.

British Women, Children Sent to U. S. Going Home

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP).—Col. John J. Llewellin, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of transport, informed the house of commons today that British women and children who had been removed to the United States and Canada are return'ng. He said a small number of berths were being "specially allotted every month" to bring them back thru the dangers of the Atlantic to comparatively bomb-free Britain.

There are about 100 refugee children in homes in the Chicago area, brought here by the United States Committee for the Care of European Children, Inc., Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, a member of the committee, said last night. He said he knew of no moves being made at this time to return any of them to Britain.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer draft and military service questions, both in the daily columns and personally if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the query.]

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

The oft-changed selective service regulations defining the status of aliens with respect to compulsory military service apparently are confusing to many persons. Dozens of letters have been received by the Friend of the Yanks department from aliens of enemy, neutral, and co-belligerent nations who wonder whether they are subject to the draft.

First of all, it must be understood clearly that all male persons in the United States—citizens and aliens—who became 20 years old on or before Dec. 31, 1941, and who have not reached their 45th birthday by Feb. 16, 1942, must register for the draft on Feb. 16. Men who registered on either of the two previous registration dates will not register this time, of course.

Recent Ruling Given.

National selective service headquarters held in a recent ruling that aliens from countries allied with the United States in the present war are subject to service in the United States army under the draft. This applies both to aliens who have declared their intention of becoming citizens and to those who have not declared this intention.

Aliens from nations which are neutral in the war, both declarant and nondeclarant, also are subject to compulsory service in the United States army, with the following exception: Such aliens, if they wish seriously enough to avoid military service, may do so by filing form No. 301 with their local draft boards.

Bar to Citizenship.

By filing this form, however, such aliens forever bar themselves from becoming citizens of the United States.

Aliens from enemy nations are not at present eligible for service under the draft. They are being placed temporarily in class 4-C, and deferred. However, negotiations are under way in Washington, D. C., which when completed will make enemy aliens who have declared their intention to become citizens subject to the draft after thoro investigation of their backgrounds.

QUESTIONS.

Miss J. S. asks: "When a man enlists in the army does he have his choice of what type of work he does? For instance, if he is interested in radio, would he be assigned to the radio department even if he had no experience whatever in this field?"

ANSWER: The army does not promise that a recruit will be assigned to his choice of work. When he enlists or is drafted he is allowed to state his preference. Then he is interviewed by a classification officer, who, thru a series of tests, determines the type of assignment for which he is best suited. He may or may not get the assignment of his choice.

S. S. writes: "When I went to high school I was a first lieutenant in the ROTC. Is there any way I can regain my commission now in the army?"

ANSWER: No, your high school ROTC commission does not entitle you to a commission in the army. Only young men who have completed four years of college ROTC training, or have completed training in accredited military schools, are eligible to apply for immediate commissions. You would have to go in as a private and work your way up.

G. T. writes: "I have suffered from stomach ulcers for years and I have an inward goiter. Will I be drafted?"

ANSWER: At the time you are called for a physical examination by your local draft board, the board physician will determine whether your ailments will bar you from military service. If he finds conditions as bad as you state, you very likely will be deferred.

EDUCATORS FIGHT ANY SPEEDUP OF ILLINOIS SCHOOLS

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 29 (AP).—Proposals to speed up teaching by shortening the present term and lengthening the school week in Illinois public schools to permit the release of older students earlier than usual in the spring for farm and industrial war work drew the fire today of three prominent educational leaders. Gov. Dwight Green favors the proposal.

A statement was issued jointly by Harold Norman of Bannockburn, president of the Illinois Association of School Boards; Mrs. F. Russell Lyon of Chicago, president of the Illinois Parents and Teachers, and Orville T. Bright of Flossmoor, president of the Illinois Education association.

"The war does not justify any general curtailment of education. It has increased rather than lessened the work to be done by the schools. Education is a matter of continuing growth. It is more than the acquisition of knowledge and skills," the statement said in part.

BRUNETTE NAMED 'MISS VICTORY' BY ILLUSTRATORS

Miss Serene Sandell, a brown haired photographer's model, was chosen "Miss Victory" last night at the annual models' contest sponsored by the Chicago Society of Photographic Illustrators. The contest was held at 820 North Michigan avenue. Miss Sandell won in a field of 75 blondes, brunettes, and redheads, who appeared in costumes ranging from bathing suits to evening gowns. In the preliminaries she was picked as "Miss Glamour" and entered the finals with that title. She competed with Misses Legs, Animation, Hands, Fashion, Co-ed, Smile, Housewife, Bathing Girl, and Sophistication. Audience applause gave her the crown over Miss Animation, Barbara Hale.

5,000 EXPECTED THIS EVENING AT BIRTHDAY BALL

Stage Notables to Help in Entertainment.

The 5,000 persons who are expected to attend the President's Birthday ball in the Grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman this evening will be treated to an unusual entertainment and spectacle, Herbert J. Lorber, chairman, said yesterday. Many of the country's leading stage, screen, and radio stars will take part.

The crowd will hear Mr. Roosevelt's birthday address from the White House over loud speakers between 10:15 and 11:15 p. m.

Parties in Many Cities.

The affair is an annual one, held simultaneously with similar dancing parties in scores of other cities to raise funds for the Infantile Paralysis Foundation.

Ethel Barrymore, who is appearing here in "The Corn Is Green," will be the guest of honor at the Chicago ball. She will be introduced by Willie Shore, sent over from the Chez Paree to be master of ceremonies during a part of the evening. Willie will bring from the north side night club the Irish tenor, Morton Downey.

Other Stars to Appear.

Practically all the cast of "Panama Hattie" will be on hand, including Arthur Treacher, Frances Williams, and James Dunn. Vivian Segal and George Tapps, stars of "Pal Joey," also will appear. They will be introduced by Joseph Flynn, well known theatrical press agent.

A special attraction will be Miss Beverly Bayne, star of the silent screen, who got her start at the old Essanay studios in Chicago and played in many silent dramas opposite Francis X. Bushman.

PARTIES IN CAPITAL.

Washington, D. C., Jan 29 (AP).—President Roosevelt reached the eve of his 60th birthday anniversary tonight in a setting so changed that even Hollywood stars who came to help the capital's celebration wore the uniforms of the armed services. Upwards of a score of film players had arrived or were on the way.

The senate, because it is to be in recess tomorrow, conveyed birthday greetings to Mr. Roosevelt today. Majority Leader Barkley [D.-Ky.] and Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, paid the tribute to the President.

Observed in Britain.

LONDON, Jan. 30 [Friday] (AP).—President Roosevelt's 60th birthday was widely observed in Britain today. Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express said the birthday "concerns the whole of the free world and conquered millions."

Army Sergeant Rescued After Leap Into River

An army sergeant was rescued yesterday after he broke away from two guards and jumped into the river from the Michigan avenue bridge. Army officials said the soldier was suffering from a mental illness and was being taken from one base hospital to another.

DRIVE STARTED TO END BOOTLEG SALE OF TIRES

Books to Be Checked; Hint Prosecutions.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—An enforcement campaign against violators of the tire rationing order was announced today by Price Administrator Leon Henderson. The violators face prosecution under a statute providing a maximum penalty of $10,000 fine and 10 years imprisonment for making false and fradulent statements to the government, he said.

Complaints of violations have been received by local and state ration boards and by the OPA here. The freezing order on sales found approximately 11 million tires and tubes in the hands of thousands of dealers, in street corner, and highway intersection gas stations and alley garages as well as in larger retail stores.

High Bids Tempt Dealers.

The rations are so skimpy and the sources so scattered that reports of tire bootlegging have been prevalent. The small gas station owner has been tempted by an offer of a high price for new tires. The law of supply and demand boosts the offering price. The January allowance of 266,666 new tires for Illinois is said to be about 8 per cent of normal sales for this month.

Other reported violations include making false representation by car owners to local ration board, to obtain a certificate to buy a tire, at the regular price. A precinct captain with a deputy sheriff's commission might falsely represent that he required a tire for his automobile in the interest of public safety. A dentist might falsely contend that he needs his automobile in the interest of public health.

This initial investigation, announced today, is directed at dealers. The field inspectors of OPA will be augmented by 500 inspectors from the department of labor for this job. Books and records will be perused, first those of dealers against whom complaints have been made.

Can Prosecute Purchaser.

The OPA is authorized to recommend cases to the department of justice for prosecution under section 35A of the criminal code. The fraudulent purchaser as well as the fraudulent seller is subject to prosecution, it was said.

A reduction in the military requirements from the country's short supply of rubber was announced today by Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson. The conservation in arms production covers three points:

1. Reduced use of rubber in army, navy, and marine corps equipment wherever possible by substitution of less critical materials.
2. Elimination of all nonessential items.
3. Standardization and simplification of rubber products to reduce the number of items to be held in stock.

Hope to Save 43,000 Tons.

A major saving of approximately 43,000 tons is to be effected during the next two weeks, it was said, by the armed forces accepting for non combat cars tires manufactured from a compound containing a much higher percentage of reclaimed rubber than is suitable for A-1 performance.

Other steps call for reducing rubber content of gas masks, for using steel rather than rubber tires on some vehicles, and for the reduction in the amount of rubber in tank treads.

Even with this reduction in military requirements, government officials do not foresee any new tires for ordinary civilian use until the Japs are whipped in the western Pacific.

A further curb on automobile operation was threatened in a press interview today with Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, who is petroleum coördinator. He said the oil supply on the east coast is "getting tighter."

Ickes said the oil situation in the east has been aggravated by tanker sinkings and the transfer of other tankers to war duty. Railroad tank car shipments to the east, he said, have been increased 86 per cent in the last two weeks. Northern California, Oregon, and Washington also face uncertain petroleum supplies, according to the secretary.

Ickes Changes His Mind.

Ickes' statements reflected a changed attitude since a few weeks ago when he predicted that the tire and auto rations would probably reduce motor fuel consumption enough to avoid gas rations. The reduction in motor fuel consumption has not been as much as anticipated.

Ickes also reported that a critical delay in coal shipments to New England, due to "capricious, arbitrary, and unnecessary" navy restrictions on harbor traffic, had been relieved after conferences with the navy.

THE QUESTION.
What do you consider to be the most thankless job in the world?
WHERE ASKED.
Wabash and Van Buren streets.
THE ANSWERS.

John H. Kroencke, representative for ink company, 5326 Ellis avenue—Right now I'm sure I have the most thankless job. For 24 years I've been building up a force to sell all the ink we could. And now I'm putting on a sales resistance program so people will use less ink! We're going to do all we can to conserve chemicals.

Fred H. Coon, salesman, 8235 Eberhart avenue—I'll wager there hasn't been a victim yet who cheerfully has said "Thank you" to the traffic cop whose duty it was to give him a ticket. That's one part of the job I don't think I'd like and I don't imagine it's very pleasant work for the traffic force.

John F. Tlack, insurance estimator, 3320 Lowe avenue—If our home team, the Chicago Cubs, were to play the New York Giants I wouldn't care to trade places with the umpire. If the Cubs were losing his efforts would be less appreciated. What's more I think any umpire has a tough job.

P. C. Johnson, regional manager for bus company, Stevens hotel—In my earlier days I was in the navy and after a 72 hour liberty I didn't relish being called out of bed at 5 a. m. by the navy bugler. But I think I preferred my position to his. I'm sure he hasn't heard many pleasant "Good mornings!"

Steve Anquetil, foundry hand, 14896 Cruse avenue, Detroit, Mich.—I've had two years' experience at what I think is one of the most thankless jobs. I don't think the majority of the people appreciate the skill of the cab driver. He has a responsible job but I'm afraid too many people just take him for granted.

Louis S. Kohtz, designer, 4914 Kirk street, Skokie—It doesn't matter how courteous, kind, or patient a telephone operator is, she hardly ever gets any individual recognition or credit for her hard work. She's also on the receiving end of tempers and impatience. No thanks!

COUNCIL EASES BUILDING RULES TO AID DEFENSE

Lifts Brick Restriction to Speed Construction.

An ordinance authorizing sweeping changes in the Chicago building code in areas where housing is needed for armament plant workers was adopted yesterday by the city council.

Under the measure houses may be built with stucco, frame or asbestos siding, provided the minimum requirements of the Federal Housing administration are complied with. Such houses, the FHA has decreed, must be built at a cost not to exceed $6,000, a figure that could not be met while the code requirement of brick prevailed.

The council reserved the right to designate the areas for the special housing, which was urged by the government and the Chicago Association of Commerce. At the request of Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], two of these areas were immediately approved. One is bounded by 108th and 114th streets, Burley avenue and Avenue A; the other by 95th and 103d streets, Torrence avenue and the Nickel Plate railroad tracks.

First in Many Years.

The relaxation of the code for the special purpose was the first change in many years designed to increase home building within the city limits. Rigidity of the code has been credited with slowing home building in the city and sending families wanting homes to the suburbs.

Ald. Rowan introduced the ordinance, which was explained by Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], chairman of a subcommittee of Rowan's building and zoning committee.

"Brick veneer, stucco, asbestos and frame houses in the vicinity of defense plants can be built for $5,400 and will be just as safe and sound as those under the original code," said Lindell.

Wooden Beams Approved.

He said the builders under the new ordinance could use wood instead of steel support beams and could make ceilings 7½ instead of 8 feet from the floor. He added that Mayor Kelly favored the change.

The council control over the areas was established, Lindell said, to guarantee that owners of brick homes would not have their property value lowered by building of less expensive homes.

Members of most of the building trades unions were said to favor the change, since they feel it will provide more employment.

Douglas Urges Old Car Tracks Be Given U. S.

The city council referred to its transportation committee yesterday a proposal introduced by Ald. Paul Douglas [5th], who suggested that abandoned street car tracks and the Market street elevated stub be dismantled and the steel turned over to the government for munitions.

MORE THAN HALF MILLION PLEDGE BOND PURCHASES

Sales of U. S. Securities Grow Steadily.

More than a half million employés in Chicago firms have pledged themselves to purchase defense savings bonds, it was reported yesterday by John G. Gallaher, deputy administrator of the defense savings staff.

"The campaign to enroll workers in the program," he said, "is sweeping the city like a tidal wave." One of the latest developments, he said, is formation of the One Hundred Per Cent club, already comprising 46 industrial concerns with 500 or more employés, all who have signed for bonds.

Deducted from Pay.

Purchases have been made in this way on instalments deducted from employés' pay checks. When the deductions total the value of the subscribed bond, the bond is delivered to the employé.

More than 1,000 employés of Goldblatt Brothers held a defense rally yesterday in the administration building, 3932 South Wolcott street. Workers in stores, managers, sales representatives and office heads agreed to buy stamps and bonds and also to participate in civilian defense and Red Cross activities.

Bank Employés Subscribe.

The First National bank of Chicago reported that 98.9 per cent of its 2,714 employés have subscribed for $500,000 worth of bonds, to be purchased within the year. The figure, officials said, is 7.6 per cent of the bank's annual pay roll.

The Postal Telegraph company, thru its president, Edwin F. Chinlund, announced yesterday it will handle sale of defense stamps in offices thruout the country. The company also has been encouraging its 15,000 employés to make regular purchases thru the pay roll system, Chinlund said.

Each of the 1,800 employés of the Mills Novelty company has purchased one or more bonds, Fred Mills, president of the firm, said yesterday. Total purchases have amounted to $225,000.

An arrangement whereby each employé will have money put aside each payday for a bond is in effect at the Lane Bryant stores, E. Winkelman, general manager, said. When a sufficient sum has been accumulated, a bond will be given to the employé.

Sales of defense bonds and stamps since May 1 in Chicago to date total $565,814,490. The Federal Reserve bank has sold $535,870,000 in bonds and the postoffice $23,334,925 in bonds and $6,408,249 in stamps. At The Tribune Public Service office total sales amount to $201,316.

Army to Open Ten Shops for Recapping of Tires

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP).—The army announced today that it plans to establish ten field shops for recapping tires as a part of its program to conserve rubber for military and essential civilian uses. The shops will be able to recap more than 1,000,000 tires a year, and are expected to save approximately 75,000 tons of crude rubber annually. No sites have been chosen yet for the shops.

4,000 DRUGGISTS MOBILIZED FOR DEFENSE SERVICE

Four thousand members of the Chicago Retail Druggists association have offered all their facilities to the 6th civilian defense regional organization, it was announced yesterday by Raymond J. Kelly, the director.

"We have organized on a basis which permits us to mobilize all our members for instant service," John Myers, secretary of the association, told Director Kelly. "Sixty-five supervisors have been enrolled to command groups of four, who will call other groups and so on down the line, until all 4,000 are ready to move."

Mayor Kelly, discussing the 100 million dollar congressional appropriation for national defense, said Chicago has only five paid employés on its commission. He believed, he said, that much of the appropriation eventually might be used for the purchase of gas masks, should they become necessary.

CANADIAN GAS RATION IS 300-380 GALLONS A YEAR

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 29 (AP).—Automobile users in Canada will be allowed between 300 and 380 gallons of gasoline a year for nonessential driving when gasoline rationing becomes effective April 1, Munitions Minister C. D. Howe announced today.

He said this would be enough to drive approximately 5,400 miles and added that there is no guarantee that the rate of consumption by owners of private cars may not be still further reduced. Drivers of some 1,125,000 vehicles will be affected.

It was emphasized that the announcement covered only the ration for nonessential or pleasure car use, and that an allotment for drivers in other categories would be made public within a few days.

"Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong."
—Stephen Decatur.

HE GAVE THE DEVIL THE GREEN LIGHT.

Adolf Hitler is now entering the 10th year of a career which is stranger than Napoleon's. That seems to limit comparisons. We Americans could not hold it against him that his family origins were what Europe regards as obscure and that in the herrenvolk traditions of his own country he should have gone thru life taking off his hat or taking a kick if he didn't. Adolf Hitler is abominable not because of the circumstances of his early life, not because of the frustrations which affected his character, but because of what he did after his frustrations ceased and his power began.

The beginning of his 10th year in power might remind him of the parallel 13th year of Napoleon Bonaparte. A great deal has been said of this parallelism in dictators and war makers. Napoleon, getting out of Moscow, crossed the Berezina in the week of Nov. 26, 1812, and thereupon deserted his army. Hitler pushed his troops not so close to Moscow, but kept them there longer. He is retreating not in November but in January, a difference in frost. The Emperor Alexander entered Paris in the spring of 1814. Will Stalin be in Berlin next year? And if so, what will be the consequences?

Several things must occur to the mind which contemplates Adolf Hitler. One is the enigma of the German people themselves. Every day we, now at war with them again, listen to the beauty of the music their composers have given us. Our scholars know their scholarship and our laboratories know their research work. Our technologists know the value of their technology. The Germans themselves admire the great literary works of the English speaking people, who are a blood strain from their own origins.

How did it come about that continental Germans could not make Adolf Hitler's sadistic tyrannies an impossibility when their emigrants to England and later to America did? How could the continental Germans produce Hitler? How could they succumb to him? Why couldn't they make democratic processes work?

Whoever tries to explain this along an economic line is confronted with the problem of explaining why more democratic peoples, even smaller in number and weaker in potentiality, did not in any of their extremities succumb to some fantastic, shouting man who rose to lash first them and then every one on whom his lash could fall? War was exactly what the German people did not need for their economic recovery.

Their conquerors of a generation ago made that recovery difficult, but its inevitability was in German resourcefulness. The markets were waiting for their goods if they had not turned their resources into armaments with which to take by force what was waiting for them in peaceful commerce. If economic enemies had fallen upon them after their recovery from reparations and retaliations, then their eventual resort to arms might have had the excuse of economic necessity.

Nine years ago, on Jan. 30, 1933, Hindenberg yielded to Hitler's demand for the chancellorship. The rise of the Austrian to a position where he could make the demand was in itself a revelation of the political incapacity of the German people experimenting with a freer form of government than they had known before. The multiplicity of parties, the confusion of doctrines, the irreconcilability of factions, the intrigues of privileged people, and the use of private armies as political agencies gave the most ruthless manipulator of this situation the commanding position.

There is a thesis which holds that the reception of the old Roman law, the law of edict and administrative orders, by the German states after Italian scholars had begun to republish and annotate the codes of Justinian was responsible for the inability of the German people to make a system of representative democracy work. The German republic wrote its doom in its own constitution when it provided for government by edict and executive order whenever there was what might be regarded as a national emergency.

Hitler wasn't the first to use this system of administrative law. The republican chancellors did it before him. He, however, did it thoroly. And there was nothing in the German political character which could prevent him from abolishing the reichstag except for use as a sounding board, from destroying all political parties except his own, and from declaring that the law was the emanation of his own will. The roots of German customary law that had survived in England, where the Roman law was rejected and the common law prevailed, had been destroyed ages before Hitler.

Psychiatrists will be needed now in the writing of the history of Europe more than ever before. The figures of the past seemed to be men of understandable motives and actions within the realm of the common intelligence. But the Nazis with their ranting, vision-seeing fuehrer, with their racial persecutions and their brutalities, do not fall within the domain of ordinary analysis or the normal view of the historian. This phenomenon is one of demoniac excesses, presenting a case of national pathology. About the only thing that presents itself as commonly understandable in the Nazi conduct and characteristics is their desire for personal aggrandizement. They have fattened on the land and that was to be expected.

Before Hitler came to power and started upon his unconscionable career, Japan had begun to grab at China and Mussolini had laid his plans for the Roman empire in Africa. But neither of these aggressors, altho they disturbed the world at the time, could have brought about the full bodied catastrophe of the present day if Hitler had not released the devil in Europe. It is easy to see now how he might have been stopped in the earlier stages of his unfolding designs, but it is also easy to see why the powers which could have done it, being divided in counsel and growing weak at home, did not do it. And in the art of deception Hitler has talents which amount to genius.

Now as he begins his 10th year of leadership of a docile people, tyrannized and severely punished, and as the oppressor of conquered nations, shifting his headquarters as his lines in Russia are bent back, he may reflect that some of his deceptions have been of questionable value and that his destiny is not as brightly visible as it has been. Hitler's legend of invincibility has been shattered, even if his armies have not yet been. It may be that the army is beginning seriously to question the judgment of a man who has hallucinations and who emanates not only law but military decisions from his own intuitions and is under the spell of voices. Europe may be facing the dawn of a tomorrow.

THE PURCHASE OF ARMS.

The country is prepared to believe that the new arms production machinery as revamped by Mr. Nelson will advance the war effort, and this not solely because anything would have been preferable to the chaos and inefficiency under the OPM, now abolished. OPM was a failure principally because no one man was given or appeared willing to take the authority and responsibility for doing things. Mr. Nelson now has that authority in a considerable measure and it should produce results.

Even after explanations by Mr. Nelson, a number of important details still seem obscure. There is the status of Mr. Henderson, a subordinate of Mr. Nelson in charge of civilian supply, who under the price control bill will have independent powers within Mr. Nelson's field of activity.

Mr. Knudsen's position also remains hazy, in spite of Mr. Nelson's attempt to clarify it. He has been made a lieutenant general charged with expediting production for the army, while Mr. Nelson is in charge of all war production. From Mr. Nelson's explanation, it appears that he regards Mr. Knudsen as a sort of managerial walking delegate, who is to have a counterpart in the navy department soon. Mr. Knudsen's own ideas have not been explored.

Difficulties may arise from a conflict of authority between Mr. Nelson and Mr. Henderson or Mr. Knudsen. A more serious weakness lies in leaving responsibility for purchasing in the hands of the armed services and such independent agencies as the maritime commission. The procurement services of the army and navy have not functioned any more satisfactorily than any other branch of the rearmament effort to date.

The procurement officers in peacetime were required to be meticulous in the observance of red tape regulations and of all the safeguards which decades of experience have caused to be erected against anybody cheating the government. Honesty is an essential quality, but not the only one. Long years of drilling in the intricate mechanism designed to prevent larceny are too likely to produce a concentration of mind on detail and regulations and an incapacity for getting big jobs done quickly.

Mr. Nelson indicates that he expects the armed services to see the error of their ways and follow his guidance in purchasing procedure. As to that, doubt may be expressed. It is not only the officers who must be converted, but the system under which they operate as well, and the system is antiquated and unworkable for present purposes.

It is recognized that valuable months would be lost if the army ordnance and quartermaster corps and the corresponding bureaus in the navy were deprived of their purchasing function and a civilian organization established to take over that work. Nevertheless, this is a most desirable goal, to be attained as quickly as possible. The fighting forces should merely say what they need and leave it to Mr. Nelson's organization to have it made and purchase it.

WHERE DO WE STAND?

A number of members of congress have expressed indignation because proponents of Union Now have attempted to enlist their support for the scheme. Union Now advocates a federation among those nations which offer democratic guarantees to their citizens and is projected not merely as a wartime expedient but as a permanent system. At present the nations eligible for membership would be limited almost solely to the United States and the British commonwealth. Clarence Streit, the organizer, is on record as saying Russia does not qualify. The Netherlands might, altho hardly the Dutch Indies, which are the only Dutch territory substantially unoccupied. China apparently is also ineligible.

It is obvious to the congressmen, if not to the supporters of Union Now, that there can be no union with a country which has a house of lords as a symbol of its sharply divided social stratification and which has almost always sought to dominate the peoples and nations with which it was associated.

Meanwhile Mr. Churchill and the American leaders speak of "the united nations," a term comprehending all 26 governments or governments in exile at war with Hitler or the Japanese or both. These nations signed a pact in Washington pledging a finish fight against the axis, but did not enter a formal alliance or state their mutual obligations beyond promising that none would make a separate peace. One of the signers was Russia, which is at war with Germany and Italy, but not at war with Japan.

The "united nations" are not bound together by any familiar form of union, federation, or alliance. The status is even more indefinite than was America's position in the first World war, when the joint military undertaking was being carried on by "the allied and associated powers," we being the associated power. If the United States were to enter an alliance with Great Britain, Russia, China, the Netherlands, and other powers, a treaty, approved by the senate, would be necessary. There is no indication that any treaty is in the offing.

DIRECT HIGHWAY TO CANAL ZONE.
[Philadelphia Inquirer.]

The desirability of a direct highway connection between the United States and the Panama Canal is obvious. At present, troops and supplies in any large number of quantities can be transported to the Canal zone only by boat, a hazardous affair in wartime.

A land lifeline stretching to the canal would be of untold value. Completion of this project is now assured by the $20,000,000 loan to five Central American republics, just approved by the Public Works administration. The road passing thru these countries is now 62 per cent finished but there are still many gaps, especially in Nicaragua and Costa Rica. The new fund will be applied mainly to filling them in.

By means such as this, the United States is strengthening its defenses to the south, insuring a supply line to the canal, and cementing Pan-American solidarity.

OIL OF MACASSAR.

The young moderns who have always thought that "antimacassar" was the most ridiculous word in the vocabulary of the Victorian era are looking rather dumb over this column's recent association of that article of domestic use with the Strait of Macassar, where Japanese troopships have been sinking by the dozen. Most of these sophisticates do not know what an antimacassar is, altho it is again in fashion. Therefore we will be more explicit.

An antimacassar is a cover for the back of a chair to protect the upholstery from stains from oil of Macassar, formerly used to anoint the hair in the hope of improving its growth. Today it safeguards high-backed upholstered chairs from the various patent stickums used by slick-haired lizards of the cocktail lounges.

Oil of Macassar was formerly an important article of commerce in the East Indies trade; it was used in cooking and as an illuminant, as well as in hairdressing. The early New England ship captains brought it to these shores in large quantities. It is a vegetable oil and comes from the seeds of the kusam tree, which grows plentifully in Celebes.

Wars are great spreaders of geographical knowledge and no doubt the young moderns, whose elementary schooling in that subject is a general scandal, are now aware that the East Indies contains quite a few islands beside Bali. We heard one of them moaning the other day, as he scanned a fine Tribune map, "Where is Bali? I can't find it here."

"A small spot off the tail of Java, first to the right," we explained. "Its exports are chiefly pictures of native women for the rotogravure sections of newspapers."

A reading course for the local color of the East Indies theater of war: Much of the fiction of Joseph Conrad, and especially "Lord Jim"; many of the short stories of Jack London; "The Red Mark" and "Where the Pavement Ends," collections of excellent short stories by John Russell; and for New Guinea and the Bismarck archipelago, the short stories of Beatrice Grimshaw, an Australian who has often contributed to American magazines. There is a wealth of other literary material, but this will serve as a starter.

FIRST SIGN OF SPRING.

It will be spring. What if the skies are gray,
And people walk with shoulders hunched and coats
Drawn close about them, and the papers say:
"Tomorrow, snow and colder"; and sore throats
Provide the theme whenever there is time—
And voice!—for talk; and smoke hangs like a veil
Above the town; and reams of doleful rhyme
Come into print while sonneteers bewail
The income tax, harsh editors, dull aches
That are conducive to lugubrious verse?
Day fades no whit more hopeful than it breaks,
And as it breaks, it hardly could be worse. . . .
Today a florist's window down the street
Held violets! Spring comes on fragrant feet!

Did the Irish Get Here First?

I've been amusing myself by reading translations of some of the ancient Icelandic sagas. They tell of Leif Eriksen the Lucky who, in the year 1000, first set foot upon a wooded land where grapes and "wheat" grew wild, which he named Vinland. Newfoundland he called Helluland because of the profusion of great flat stones. Nova Scotia was Markland, being the first wooded land they saw. South of Vinland and separated from it by the sea [Chesapeake bay] was Whitemen's-land or Great Ireland [Irland-it-mikla].

But then I ran across the saga of how Gudlief Gudlangson was driven by storms to the coast of Irland-it-mikla in 1029 and found there Bjorn Asbrandson, who had disappeared at sea in 999. Here in a land of no snow, far south of Vinland, was Asbrandson, become an aged chief of a race of people all of whom seemed to speak the Irish tongue.

Now it comes out—the Irish discovered America!

THE CRAZY KINGFISHER.

(A Brookfield Ballad.)

The aviary boasts a bird
That isn't seen as much as heard;
The "Laughing Jackass," up a tree,
Is given to hilarity.
His spasms of demented mirth
Give visitors their money's worth,
And as his guffaws sound about
We listen, first a prey to doubt,
And then, self-conscious, sneak away
To find a place where we can say,
"O, mirror, mirror, on the wall,
Who is the jackass, after all?"

Service as Usual or More So.

The text of a resolution passed by the Association of Art Museum Directors on Dec. 21:

"Be it resolved: That American museums are prepared to do their utmost in the service of the people of this country during the present conflict.

"That they will continue to keep open their doors to all who seek refreshment of spirit.

"That they will, with the sustained financial help of their communities, broaden the scope and variety of their work.

"That they will be sources of inspiration illuminating the past and vivifying the present; that they will fortify the spirit on which victory depends."

PLASMA—A VITAL DEFENSE AID.

WE all know that transfusions are well nigh miraculous. Many stalwart men and women are going about their business today because the injection of matched human blood has been made safe.

For the last few years, however, physicians have been experimenting with plasma, which is the liquid portion of the circulating fluid. In other words, the cells are removed because of the rather startling discovery that in many disorders the red and white corpuscles are really not required.

When bleeding occurs, the patient may be in a critical condition because there is too little liquid within the vessels and the organs. We can understand clearly what has happened. That which remains is thicker. It flows more sluggishly, the absorption of oxygen from the lungs is retarded, and the capillaries leak. Of course, red cells are demanded to transport oxygen and, in any type of oozing, the loss must be stopped promptly.

But what about plasma? What will it do? It is invaluable in maintaining vitality in cases of shock resulting from accidents, hemorrhage, or severe burns. Particularly during hostilities, will this material play an indispensable rôle. High explosives and shrapnel occasion penetrating wounds. In consequence, the victim goes into a profound collapse in which the skin is blanched, the pulse feeble, and the pressure within the arteries low. Something has happened to reduce the total volume within the conduits.

Apparently, quite too much vital fluid has found its way into the tissues around the wound. It has been demonstrated that a crushing injury of the hand and forearm may, within a few hours, withdraw from the capillaries 20 ounces and deposit it in the surrounding area. This means that the channels are short just that much. With the administration of this quantity of plasma, the patient is benefited immeasurably.

Can this substance be prepared in the laboratory? Only from human blood. There are three ways in which it can be preserved—liquid, frozen, or dried. The first can only be stored under proper refrigeration for about nine months. When the emergency arises, it can be employed quickly with no risk whatsoever.

Frozen plasma can be preserved for a long interval, but will deteriorate quickly if allowed to melt. It is kept at about 20 degrees below freezing. This level must not change appreciably until the time for use arrives.

The dried form is more difficult to produce and, unless the process is carried out with great care, the preparation may not be quite so helpful. On the whole, however, it is far more desirable when transportation is considered. Packages are now available containing a bottle of dried plasma and one of sterile water ready for mixing. Thus we have blood in tin cans as we have long been supplied with soup and vegetables.

Sooner or later, patriotic citizens may be called upon for their quota of blood. There is no danger to the donor provided he is healthy. About 55 per cent of this fluid is plasma. The one who contributes a pint to the Red Cross will be furnishing one-half that amount of plasma, which may save the life of one of our country's defenders.

WARTY BLEMISHES.

B. R. writes: When spots of pigment on the hands of older persons turn gray, become tender, and finally leave—what is taking place?

REPLY.

Probably seborrheic warts. Altho unsightly, they are not particularly dangerous. However, if brownish areas increase in size and in thickness, they demand prompt attention.

O. K. FOR BEARS.

D. B. writes: Is it dangerous to go around out of doors hatless in very cold weather?

REPLY.

Certainly foolish, if not dangerous. Few of us are blest with sufficiently heavy crops of hair to protect the scalp.

REPLY.

Enough is enough. Don't become a gormandizer of any particular edible.

REPORT ON ST. CHARLES.

Sidell, Ill., Jan. 25.—I was appointed a custodian of boys at the Illinois Training School for Boys, near St. Charles, on Dec. 1, 1941, and for six weeks I lived, worked, ate, played, and slept in the dormitories with the inmates, as is required by regulations. I took every opportunity to talk with any boy who cared to show confidence in me.

A picture of the new Sheridan institution was printed in a Chicago newspaper. In the cottage where I was several of the boys were outspoken in hopes that they were fortunate enough to be sent to the new cellhouse, preferring Sheridan to St. Charles.

I am heartily in favor of the psychiatric-sociological plans as proposed by Prof. Harrison Dobbs. The fact is that many of the working personnel at the institution are not willing nor, perhaps, able to give the Dobbs plan a fair trial. Here are some samples of everyday disciplinary activities at the St. Charles institution:

1. A custodian or other detail officer smokes a cigaret and throws the butt down among a group of boys. He advises the boys that he will knock the teeth down the throat of any one who dares to pick up the filthy butt. Is that psychology?

2. For a trivial offense, a boy 19 years old, was forced to squat until he was standing in a pool of his own sweat? Was that psychology?

3. Boys are continuously reminded that they are worthless criminals and can never fit into the social life of a respectable community. Is that psychology?

4. A mother in ill health came to see her son. The inmate had been sent from his regular cottage to one where regulations would not admit visits from relatives. She returned to her home and died. The inmate still swears vengeance because he was unable to see his mother the last time he could have seen her alive. Is that psychology?

I am positive that there are boys at St. Charles that should be segregated into a group of their kind because they have been in many penal institutions and cannot adjust themselves to American social life. These should be sent to Sheridan or Pontiac or some place where they cannot contaminate inmates who can be readjusted to normal trends.

But most of the boys are eager to accept good advice, talk about possibilities, talk sensibly about their plight, and accept fatherly or motherly interest as shown them. I am one who believes that some hopeful thread can be salvaged and added to, until those unfortunates are led back to society. That is the plan of Prof. Dobbs, and, if I understood Mr. Ballard and Mr. Johnson and Mr. Philbrick correctly, that is their proposed course in handling the St. Charles inmates.

It may be interesting to the public to know that as soon as Japan made her infamous attack on Pearl Harbor, many boys at one of the cottages, of soldier age, sent a petition to Manager Ballard asking that they be paroled to Uncle Sam for the duration of the war.

I have taught school for several terms in Illinois and am convinced that the common teaching methods cannot be applied to those boys attending the classes at St. Charles. The I. Q.'s are unusually low and 18 to 20 year old boys don't care to waste time learning the A, B, C's. The boy who is slow to read or solve mathematical problems is, quite often, quick to understand some vocational work operations. Under the present administration at the school an effort is being made to place the boy in a vocational detail that seems to fit his potentialities. When the plan is fully carried out and the boys are taught methods of making honest livings instead of the methods that landed them in the institution, runaways will be minimized because they will want to stay until they have mastered their trade.

I resigned when I was convinced that diverse plans were competing at the institution. Some officers are convinced that the old plan of coercion—bat, club, and rifle—cannot be supplanted by a show of sincere interest, understanding, and progressive training of mind and hand.

SERVICE MEN'S CENTER.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—An evening at the Chicago Service Men's center gave me a sense of gratitude to the people of Chicago for their wonderful display of generosity and patriotism. I had the pleasure of conversation with men of various branches of the service, including the RAF and a New Zealander, and all were of the opinion that Chicago was the outstanding city in this welfare work. Twelve floors are devoted to the boys, and on a recent Saturday and Sunday some 800 pounds of meat, or about 27,000 sandwiches, were served.

IRISH BASES.

Norwood, Va., Jan. 22.—Nobody is asking Ireland to take an actual part in the biggest fight in history, just as nobody is asking Ireland not to take part in the fight. All anybody is asking is that Ireland lend-lease those same Irish sea bases which were used during the first World war until this Battle of the Atlantic is won, and all American fighting ships are released for use against these Japanese who are making steady gains against us all.

Ireland can do so much for so many with so little, if only she does it now!

Chicago, Jan. 26.—I propose that in the future the whitewash brush be thrown away, that all investigating committees be free from political entanglements, and that the investigators be absolutely independent and fearless of the powers that be. While the Pearl Harbor report was surprisingly frank, still many very important facts remain covered, especially as to the strength or weakness of those in charge, also the influence of partisan politics.

SUCCESS STORY.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—A century ago romantic tales of obscure working girls rising above their environment to become mistresses of their own households enthralled the hearts and minds of our grandparents. I have seen a case fully as romantic as any conceived by writers of early days. A certain lady, in her 30s, had been on relief for several years. Finally last autumn she landed a job as a maid in an apartment hotel. She soon became popular among the tenants because of her skill in cleaning. One of the tenants was a well to do man of 45. He proposed marriage, was promptly accepted, and there was a New Year's wedding. Prosperity and comfort are now the lot of the lady who, by a lucky stroke of fate, landed a job as maid in a hotel where Dan Cupid waited her coming!

FOR SEN. BROOKS.

Frankfort, Ill., Jan. 26.—As a citizen of Illinois I am at loss to understand why any thinking person should be looking about for a successor to the Hon. C. Wayland Brooks as United States senator from this state.

Mr. Brooks has done a mighty good job in looking after the best interests of all Illinois citizens. He has consistently refused to become a rubber stamp for the monstrosities presented to congress as "administration bills." Can we say as much for Sen. Lucas?

Mr. Brooks should receive the hearty support of every Illinois voter who believes in our present form of government.

COMMITTEE ASKS SENATE TO DENY LANGER HIS SEAT

Connally Hits Report as 'Shotgun' Charge.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 (AP).—The senate elections committee today declared that the integrity of the senate depends upon the rejection of Sen. William Langer [R., N. D.] as a member because of his "continuous questionable conduct" thruout most of his career.

Sen. Langer.

Formally asking the senate to rule that Langer is not entitled to a seat, a majority report from 13 of the 16 committee members declared:

"The respondent [Langer] has not avoided, and cannot avoid, the consequences of the acts of gross impropriety, lawlessness, shotgun law enforcement, jail breaking, violation of oath as an attorney, rabble-rousing, civil disobedience, breach of the peace, obstruction of the administration of justice, and tampering with court officials . . ."

Connally Assails Report.

Sen. Tom Connally [D., Tex.], one of the three members who voted against the report, termed this paragraph a "shotgun" charge and said that he, Sen. Abe Murdock [D., Utah] and Sen. Ellison D. Smith [D., S. C.] would submit a minority report within a few days.

On the senate floor, Sen. Scott Lucas [D., Ill.], chairman of a subcommittee on the Langer contest, announced that the minority will be given "a reasonable time," probably a week or ten days, in which to file its views.

Langer issued a statement saying he will "vigorously protect the seat in the United States senate to which I have been fairly elected by my people."

Connally said the committee report failed to shake his opinion that Langer is entitled to a seat.

"The senate," he said, "has the undoubted power to expel or refuse to seat a senator. However, in the case of one elected by the people, this power ought to be exercised in only the most extreme cases.

Every Charge Disputed.

"Every issue in the Langer case is disputed and the weight of evidence is not sufficient to cause me to vote to unseat him."

The 13 man majority, however, reported a finding that "the charge of moral turpitude against respondent has been proven beyond all reasonable doubt." It said that the issue was one of passing on "Langer's qualifications for admission, requiring only a majority vote, and did not involve a question of expulsion, which would require a two-thirds vote under the constitution."

The former North Dakota governor was permitted to take his seat "without prejudice" last January pending an investigation of moral turpitude charges brought by a group of North Dakota petitioners.

Reporting on an investigation conducted over the last year, the committee pictured Langer as a man with "lack of veracity," a recipient of "briberies," and one "who has little use for law and order."

NEED ADDITIONAL NURSES FOR N. U. RED CROSS UNIT

There is still room for a few more Red Cross nurses with special qualifications in the Northwestern university general hospital unit which will leave in about two weeks for service. Dr. J. R. Miller, dean of the medical school, said last night that the particular fields still open to applicants are contagious diseases, general medicine, surgery, and neurology.

He added that only well trained applicants can be considered. They must be Red Cross nurses 21 to 39 years old, single, able to pass reasonably rigid physical examinations, at least 5 feet tall, not less than 100 pounds, and American citizens.

Faces Showup for Alleged Attack on Wilmette Woman

Arrest of Howard Anderson, 30 years old, 4500 Vincennes avenue, a Negro, for an attempted attack on a Wilmette woman in her home was disclosed last night when he was taken to a police showup. The warrant was issued by a Wilmette magistrate after the woman charged that Anderson, who had been hired to clean the house, had tried to hold her prisoner but had fled when she screamed and fought him.

Woman Found Dead in Flat with Gas Jets Turned On

Miss Lillian Goodoff, 32 years old, was found dead in her flat at 5429 Cottage Grove avenue last night. The gas jets were all on in the kitchen. She left a note indicating suicide. Robert W. Goolhardt, 34, of 806 East 63d street, was locked up at Hyde Park station after he walked into the flat while police were investigating the death.

Burglar Rapes Woman in Flat; Takes Her Ring

How to make a WAR GARDEN

BY GAIL COMPTON.

The success of a back yard war garden depends greatly upon the preparation of the soil before planting time.

Seeds sown in a poorly spaded lot where clods of earth are mingled with bricks, broken glass, and other refuse stand little chance of surviving or producing strong crops. However, if the seeds are sown in soil that has been plowed and fertilized, there is every chance that they will thrive.

The first step in preparing the soil is to remove all refuse. This can be done whenever the weather permits. It is best to get the work done as soon as possible so the soil can be spaded early in the spring.

Spading Is Next Step.

Plowing or spading the soil is the second step. If the land is in sod it is best to turn it up in the fall so the sods will rot. This work can be done as well in the spring but the soil will take more working to reduce it to a good seed bed.

In all cases, manure should be turned under if it can be secured. This will prove valuable in lightening the texture of heavy clay soils, and also will give body to sandy, loose soils.

If the surface soil is hard it can be broken with a pick or mattock. Break the ground to a depth of 8 to 10 inches. If the soil has not been under cultivation for a number of years it is wise to break the ground early and expose it to the frosts.

Wait Till Frost Is Out.

Before working the broken ground into seed bed condition in the spring, be sure the frost is out of the ground and it is not too wet. If your shoes do not leave deep footprints, the soil is probably dry enough to work.

To make sure the ground is right, mold a ball of it in your hands, strike the ball, and if it crumbles the ground should be worked. Soil worked down when it is wet forms clods that will cause trouble all summer.

A wheel hoe or hand hoe plus a little muscle will reduce the spaded soil to a fine pulverized condition suitable for planting. Clods left from the spading should be thoroly broken with the hoe to make a deep, mellow seed bed. After hoeing, a rake may be used to level the plot and give the soil a final smoothing before the seed is sown.

CCC ENROLLMENT CUT FROM 20,000 TO 8,500 IN YEAR

Officials of the Civilian Conservation corps in the 6th corps area of Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin said yesterday that enrollment in the CCC in the area has been reduced during the last year from 20,000 youths in 139 companies to 8,500 in 63 companies.

Officers said that 95 per cent of the present enrollees are under the age of 18—the minimum for army enlistment. They said enrollment in the CCC is not a deferment for army service and that all men of draft age are required to register. The age limitations for the CCC are 17 and 23½, with a certain percentage of World war veterans being permitted to enroll.

The CCC offers special courses for preparedness for jobs in arms industries, including work in welding, metal working, and auto mechanics, and obtains arms jobs for enrollees. Several CCC companies, officials said, are also used in defense work such as land surveying for government construction projects.

HOUSING PROJECT CONTRACT LET; COST IS $3,337,000

Construction will begin next week on the new west side low-cost housing project, it was revealed last night with the announcement of the awarding of the contract. Patrick Warren Construction company of Chicago was the successful bidder, according to the Chicago Housing authority. The cost will be $3,337,000. There will be 834 dwelling units on 27 acres between 14th street, Racine and Loomis avenues, and the alley behind Roosevelt road. For more than a month forces have been at work demolishing the old buildings in this formerly blighted area. A priority has been granted so the new homes may be constructed at once and filled with defense workers.

U. S. TO CALL 175,000 NEGROES INTO ARMED FORCES DURING YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—During the current year, war department and selective service plans contemplate induction into the army of approximately 175,000 Negroes. This figure is based on the overall increase in the armed forces and the percentage of Negro to white registrants.

Due to the present shortage in housing facilities, it is probable that this increase will be distributed rather lightly in the early months of the year, but will increase materially during the late spring, when construction projects will have been completed. One additional Negro division is to be organized, it was announced.

DEMOCRATS MAY DRAW UP SLATE IN NASH'S HOME

P. A. Nash, chairman of thfe Cook county Democratic central committee, may issue a call today for the slate making meeting of that body on Sunday or Monday, and he may call it at his own residence, 3234 Washington boulevard.

For nearly two weeks Nash has been kept at home by torn ligaments in an ankle which has been kept in a cast. His physician now refuses to say when he will be permitted to go to the loop.

Two Democratic legislators slated for the purge by ward committeemen of their districts have already begun to rebel. State Representative Raymond T. O'Keefe [25th] has announced he will seek renomination without the organization's indorsement and Senator George W. Maypole [21st] issued a statement indicating he may follow the same course. It was announced definitely that Attorney Norman C. Barry, former Notre Dame football player, is the organization choice for Maypole's seat.

HOUSE TO MAKE BROAD SURVEY OF U. S. MANPOWER

Public Hearings Due on War Labor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—A survey of America's plans to mobilize labor for the war effort will be conducted thru hearings of the house committee investigating migration, Rep. John H. Tolan [D., Cal.], committee chairman, announced tonight.

Toland said a series of public hearings on this subject will begin next Tuesday, with industrial labor problems occupying the attention of the committee on Feb. 3, 4, and 5, and agricultural labor supply problems under consideration on Feb. 12 and 13.

"Our committee," said Tolan, "will explore the existing facts as related to labor supply and demand, and also inquire into the policies needed to insure an adequate supply of workers for war purposes on farms and in factories.

Must Organize Every One.

"To assure our victory over Germany, Italy, and Japan, the United States must organize the national man power and woman power on a scale never before known, and apply it with maximum efficiency to the gigantic task."

One of the big problems of the war effort is attaining sufficient skilled labor to fill the needs of the rapidly expanding war industries. An estimated 10 million additional employés will be needed in war industries before the end of 1942, the Office of Facts and Figures has reported. When the preparedness program began there were about 9,000,000 unemployed, of which 5,200,000 have been absorbed since.

United States Spokesmen Called.

A beginning has been made already on recruiting women for war work, of which there are about 500,000 so employed. But this will be stepped up sharply. It is estimated that by the end of the war one-third of the employés in aircraft industries must be women. Farmers, too, have felt the pinch for labor and there is talk already of recruiting a woman's "land army."

Tolan said spokesmen for departments and agencies working on this problem and industrial and labor leaders will be invited to appear and state their views.

HOLDUP VICTIM NAMES TAVERN KILLING SUSPECT

James Callozzo, 23 years old, of 1345 Taylor street, was identified at the North Damen avenue station last night as one of two robbers who shot and killed Hugh Halligan, 40 years old, of 1123 South Leavitt street, in a tavern at 2058 Washburne avenue on Jan. 10.

The identification was made by Ben Nathan, proprietor of the tavern. Halligan, a city electrical department employé, was shot when he tried to stop the robbers, who had taken $85 from Nathan.

Callozzo was arrested at home by Sergt. Joseph O'Malley. He denied the charge. The police also are holding George Nicolson, owner of a restaurant at 1858 Ogden avenue, as a supposed associate of Callozzo, who is already awaiting trial on a charge of robbery.

AIR TERMINAL LOAN APPROVED BY ALDERMEN

An ordinance under which the city agrees to borrow up to $1,200,000 from air lines and expend it for the construction of a modern terminal at the airport was passed by the city council yesterday.

The air lines had offered the money without interest, the principal to be amortized in 10 years. It is expected that the city's revenues from the port will be much more than sufficient to meet the obligation and all other costs.

It was said that he airport now costs the city about $100,000 a year and that the new setup would eliminate the loss. The lending arrangement still must be approved by the air lines, who originated the offer of the interest free loan.

A portrait of the mayor, ordered by his cabinet and painted by John Doctoroff, was accepted by the council.

LOOT AUSTIN FOOD STORE.

Austin police were informed yesterday that thieves broke into the food store at 166 North Cicero avenue Wednesday night and stole $25 worth of groceries and three 100 pound bags of sugar.

Tribune Picture Helps Identify Runaway Boy

Robert Richardson, 14 years old, who disappeared Dec. 16 after an automobile accident near his home in McHenry, McHenry county, was reunited yesterday with his mother, Mrs. Jennie Richardson, a school teacher, after a Michigan City, Ind., hotel keeper recognized him from a picture in last SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE. The youth had been working in the hotel under another name. Robert said he was glad to get home and that he had run away because the car involved in the accident was a borrowed one.

UNITED LUTHERAN CHURCH PLANNED AT PITTSBURGH

Merger Would Embrace 4 Million Members.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A unified Lutheran church in America with more than 4,000,000 members was envisioned yesterday at the close of the 24th annual sessions of the National Lutheran council in Pittsburgh, Pa. The action, described as the most definite yet taken by any section of the country's Lutheran leadership, set up a committee to draft a plan to merge the various Lutheran communions.

The Rev. Dr. Armin G. Weng, 860 North Wabash avenue, president of the Illinois synod of the United Lutheran church, was elected secretary of the National Lutheran council.

Eight Synods in Council.

Included in the plan committee are the presidents of the eight national Lutheran synods which make up the council. These groups also embrace approximately two-thirds of all Lutherans of the country. The council corresponds in general in American Lutheranism, with the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in American Protestantism. It works in functional cooperative areas for the eight groups which embrace a closely knit, active membership of approximately 2,500,000 persons.

The eight groups are the United Lutheran church, the American Lutheran church, the Norwegian Lutheran church, the Lutheran Free church, the Augustana synod, the United Danish church, the Icelandic synod, and the Suomi [Finnish] synod, an independent Finnish group of Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin, which joined the council Wednesday.

Divided in Three Groups.

American Lutheranism is divided at present into three groups: the United Lutheran church, representing a merger about 20 years ago of several synods; the American Lutheran conference, which is a federation of five national groups; and the Synodical conference, a similar federation of six groups. The Synodical conference is not represented in the National Lutheran council.

The three groups have had commissions on Lutheran unity at work for several years under somewhat diverse authorization. The focal point of attempts of these commissions was a basis of union on a formula relative to inspiration of the Bible. Strategic churches in this attempt toward union were the Evangelical Lutheran Missouri synod of the Synodical conference, and the American Lutheran church in the American Lutheran conference. Similar overtures have taken place between the American Lutheran church and the United Lutheran church.

Aid for Service Men.

The first function of the plan committee will be to promote united action among the groups in wartime work, including services to men in armed forces, aid to war-orphaned foreign missions, and to American prisoners of war and refugees.

The council set aside $650,000 for war activities and for short wave broadcasts to German occupied countries in definance to Hitler's ban on foreign radio listening. Dr. Martin Anderson, of Oak Park, president of the eastern district of the Norwegian Lutheran church, was named vice president of the council.

BION J. ARNOLD 81, CONSULTING ENGINEER, DIES

Known as the Father of Third Rail.

Col. Bion J. Arnold, holder of doctor of science and doctor of engineering degrees from several universities and the father of the third rail in railroading, died last night in his home at 4713 Kimbark avenue at the age of 81. He is survived by his widow and two sons.

Arnold was a mechanical engineer for the Chicago and Great Western railway, a consulting engineer for the General Electric company, and was an independent consulting engineer for many years before his death.

Introduced at 1893 Fair.

He built the "intramural railroad" at the world's fair in 1893, the first commercial installation of the third rail in this country.

It was his plan that resulted in electrification of the New York Grand Central terminal and it was as a member of the electric traction commission that he carried out the work.

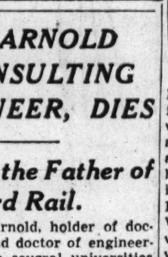
Active in Municipal Field.

From 1902 to 1907 when Chicago's traction problem became first acute, Arnold was the city's consulting engineer, and he was in charge of the reconstruction of the street railways after 1907. He was chief subway engineer for Chicago as far back as 1910, in addition to being traction engineer for Pittsburgh, Toronto, Providence, Los Angeles, Cincinnati, and San Francisco during much of the same period.

He was president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers in 1903-'04, was a delegate to the International Electrical congress in Paris; was president of the Western Society of Engineers, and a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

GEN. PATRICK, 1ST CHIEF OF ARMY AIR CORPS, DIES

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Mason Mathews Patrick 78 years old, first chief of the army air corps, died today in Walter Reed hospital after a month's illness.



Gen. Patrick.

A classmate of Gen. John J. Pershing in the West Point class of 1886, Gen. Patrick during the first World war served as chief engineer for communications, supply, construction, and forestry work in France and later was made chief of the air service there.

After the controversy over air service was begun by former Brig. Gen. William Mitchell in 1921, Gen. Patrick was assigned the task of reorganizing the entire air corps. He made himself an expert on all problems of air traffic, learned acrobatic flying at the age of 58, and after retirement in 1927 lectured at army and civilian schools.

Gen. Patrick was secretary of the Mississippi river commission in St. Louis from 1898 to 1901. He engaged in Mississippi river improvement work for several years previous to holding that office.

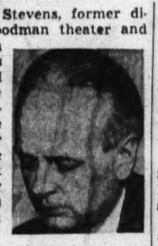
THOMAS STEVENS, FORMER THEATER DIRECTOR, DIES

Once Head of Goodman School of Drama.

Thomas Wood Stevens, former director of the Goodman theater and known figure in the world of arts and letters, died of heart disease yesterday in Tucson, Ariz., where he was director of the dramatic arts department of the University of Arizona. His home was in Santa Fe, N. M.



Thomas W. Stevens.

Mr. Stevens, born 62 years ago in Daysville, Ogle county, Ill., studied at the Art institute and later taught and lectured there in the fields of mural paintings and the history of art. He lectured at the University of Wisconsin from 1912-'16, was head of the drama department at Carnegie Institute of Technology from 1913-'24, director of the Goodman theater from 1924-'30, and also head of the school of dramatic art there. At other times he was a member of the faculties of Stanford, Iowa and Minnesota universities.

Drama Producer at Fairs.

After leaving the Goodman he produced Shakespearean dramas at the Chicago, San Diego, Cleveland and Dallas expositions and toured with his company, the Old Globe Players.

During summer vacations Mr. Stevens directed the annual Santa Fe fiestas, and during the World war he directed for the Red Cross his own work "The Drawing of the Sword," a masque which was given at the Metropolitan opera house with the Barrymores, E. H. Sothern and others in the cast.

Author of Books, Plays.

Mr. Stevens was the author of five plays and four books on drama, etching and lettering, and of a novel in verse, "Westward with Vega."

While a Chicagoan he was a member of the Cliff Dwellers and the Tavern club.

Mr. Stevens is survived by his widow, Helen, a daughter, Mrs. Phoebe Mera of San Francisco, a son, Alden, of New York and a sister, Miss Lonne Wood Stevens of Chicago. Services will be conducted in Santa Fe.

Mrs. Mary Keep Otis, widow of George L. Otis, left an estate valued at $904,777 according to a final accounting approved yesterday by Probate Judge John F. O'Connell. Mrs. Otis, a sister of the late Chauncey Keep, trustee of the Marshall Field estate, died in Middletown, Conn., April 15, 1938. The bulk of the estate is left in trust to four grandchildren.

FORMER SLAVE DIES AT 89.

Mrs. Sallie Carter, of 254 North Campbell avenue, who was a slave in Pulaski, Tenn., when Lincoln issued the emancipation proclamation, died Wednesday night in her home. She was 89 years old and had outlived all but one of her 16 children.

ATOMIZER FIRES ROOM AND BABY BURNS TO DEATH

A baby boy, one year old, was burned to death yesterday in a fire which started from an overheated vapor atomizer in his room in a second floor flat at 4616 Ellis avenue. Eighteen families were routed from the building by the blaze which caused damage estimated at $2,000.

The victim was Maurice J. Haney Jr. His mother, Mrs. Marian Haney, 26, had placed the atomizer beside the child's crib to relieve his asthma. She then returned to bed after setting an alarm clock to awaken her in time to replenish the water supply in the atomizer. The clock, however, failed to ring, according to Mrs. Haney, and the atomizer boiled dry and set fire to the room.

Mrs. Haney fled to safety with a daughter, Patricia, 3.

DE HAVILLAND TO BE STARRED IN RADIO DRAMA

Patriotism to Be Theme of New Program.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Olivia De Havilland of the movies stopped in Chicago yesterday, had her picture taken in THE TRIBUNE'S color studios, and talked about the new Arch Oboler patriotic drama series, "Plays for Americans," starting Sunday in New York. Miss De Havilland is to be starred in the first of the series, "Johnny Quinn, U. S. N." Oboler, a former Chicagoan, arrived with Miss De Havilland from the west coast and both left for the east later in the day.

Oboler, who will write and produce the plays, explained that Johnny Quinn is a tough, selfish little guy who always looked out just for himself. His transmutation into a patriot who gives his life for his country forms the plot for the play, which will be aired at 3:30 p. m. Sunday over WMAQ-NBC.

"I am looking forward more to working in Arch's new play," said Miss De Havilland," than to anything I have done in a long time."

While the screen star posed for pictures, Oboler fumed over criticism which was poured on him by a theatrical journal and others because Greta Garbo failed to appear on the Hollywood infantile paralysis drive show produced by Oboler in Hollywood last Saturday. The Hollywood Victory committee had announced that Miss Garbo had consented to make her first radio appearance on this all-star movieland show. The committee had been assured thru a Garbo spokesman that she would appear and publicity to that effect was released by Mutual and NBC.

Miss Garbo was sent a script. Then, 24 hours before the show was to go on, Oboler said, word was received from Garbo that the very thought of appearing on the radio filled her with fright. She failed to appear and remains thus the one big Hollywood name that has not been heard by radio.

W-G-N AUDIENCE HEARS DRAMA OF U-BOAT SINKING

The dramatic story of the sinking of the first submarine by the S. S. Fanning during the last war was enacted on the Americans at the Ramparts program over W-G-N last night. The program was presented in tribute to the fighting men of the United States navy. Special guests were officers and men of naval detachments in Chicago and mothers of sailors stationed with the fleet.

George Tapps, star of the play "Pal Joey" at the Grand Opera house, read a poem depicting the exploit of Lieut. John Bulkeley, who commanded the torpedo boat which sank a 5,000 ton Japanese vessel in a Philippine bay.

Lieut. William C. Eddy, U.S.N.R., inventor and television and radio expert, discussed the new Radar school for navy men, where they are taught detection, approach, and location of oncoming objects. Musical background was supplied by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and a male chorus directed by Henry Weber.

Chickenpox Daunts Rescue Squad Called to Aid Child

A fire rescue squad, headed by Capt. George Harper, was called last night to 3125 Monroe street to attend a 2 year old child in convulsions. As they entered, the child's mother, Mrs. Marguerite Gonyga, explained that the baby had chickenpox. Capt. Harper and his men beat a hasty retreat, suggesting thru the door that contagious diseases were outside their province, but that a warm bath probably would help. It did.

Explosion of Ink Fumes Shakes Printing Plant

About 1,200 employés of the Reuben H. Donnelley corporation, 350 East Cermak road, were startled early today when ink fumes exploded in the ventilating system near the roof. A small fire that followed was quickly extinguished.

Medal for Heroism

(Story in adjoining column.)

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander R. Nininger of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., looking proudly yesterday at pictures of their son, Lieut. A. R. Nininger Jr., awarded congressional medal of honor for heroism in Philippine battle that took his life.

Lieut. Nininger and the medal. Nininger's medal is the first congressional medal of honor awarded in this war.

OFFICER KILLED IN BATAAN GETS CONGRESS MEDAL

Youth's Father to Receive Highest U. S. Honor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—The first congressional medal of honor of the war was posthumously awarded to Second Lieut. Alexander R. Nininger, a graduate of West Point last June, at the direction of President Roosevelt.

The recipient of the oldest and highest decoration conferred by the United States was killed in action on Jan. 12 on the Bataan peninsula. He was cited for conspicuous gallantry over and above the line of duty by Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur.

Father Will Receive Medal.

The medal will be presented to the lieutenant's father, Alexander R. Nininger Sr. of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. In award of the medal, the recipient is, whenever practicable, ordered to Washington and the presentation is made by the President.

When this is impracticable the medal is presented by the secretary of war or some officer designated by him. When the recipient is living the presentation is made with formal ceremony, including a parade of troops. Nininger's medal will be presented to his father at the nearest army station to Fort Lauderdale.

The decoration is rarely awarded because it is awarded in the name of congress to men who distinguish themselves in action at the risk of life over and above the call of duty. Only 1,723 of the medals were issued from its establishment in 1862 to the outbreak of the World war. In the World war only 95 of more than 4,000,000 men in the army won the coveted medal.

Smoking Out Snipers.

Lieut. Nininger, on the day he met death, voluntarily attached himself to a unit engaged in smoking Jap snipers and sharpshooters out of holes from which they were endeavoring to check an American counter attack, which had been ordered to regain lost ground. Nininger's company was not engaged in the action.

The officer killed several snipers by rifle fire and blasted several Jap troops out of holes with hand grenades, before he was killed. His body was found with those of a Jap officer and two Jap privates who met death at his hands. He had been wounded three times and kept moving against the enemy until he died.

Nininger was born in Gainesville, Ga., Oct. 30, 1918. He was graduated from West Point last June and was assigned to the infantry, serving at Fort Benning, Ga., for a short time before being ordered to the Philippines.

PRESIDENT PLANS FIRESIDE CHAT TO NATION ON FEB. 22

He Will Try to Squelch 'Poisonous Rumors.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—The White House today announced President Roosevelt probably will deliver his second fireside chat of the war to the nation on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22.

"The President will have many things of importance to say," said White House Secretary Stephen T. Early, "and dissipate poisonous and troublesome rumors, insofar as possible, to give the country a better understanding of the war."

Early disclosed that requests for such a fireside chat have been pouring in on the White House by mail and telegraph and by persons who have called upon Mr. Roosevelt.

Wants Wire Tapping Legalized.

The President does not feel that the present is the right time for such a talk, but believes that some time around Washington's birthday would be more opportune.

During the day Mr. Roosevelt summoned J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, to a conference on ways and means of broadening the powers of the unit to bring about more effective counter-espionage activity. The President is particularly interested in passage of the bill which would permit wire tapping and interception of messages.

Feels FBI Is Handicapped.

"The President's feeling is that the handcuffs ought to be taken off the FBI and put somewhere else," Early said.

The President and the department of justice sponsored legislation which would permit wire tapping and interception at the specific direction of the attorney general. Congress refused to approve the measure on the ground that civil liberties would be endangered by the legislation.

"Pursuit of a Parcel"

By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull

(Copyright: 1942: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull)

SYNOPSIS.

Cornelius Rossiter, adopted brother of Antony, is a spy for both England and Germany. When suspected of his English connections by a man high in Nazi circles, Cornelius announces he has taken a dictograph of the man's expression of disloyalty to Hitler, and if anything happens to him it will be sent to Goering. In London Antony is questioned by Col. Garrett of the British intelligence about Cornelius' German connections and is sent to Holland to get secret information about them. In Holland Antony meets Cornelius, who tells him of the dictograph. A girl Antony has met recognizes him and blabs to Barend Roos, a Nazi sympathizer. The Nazi officials come to arrest Antony, but he flees and jumps into the canal just as they shoot. A body is found, and a sister to the girl who blabbed of Antony's whereabouts identifies the body found as Antony. In the meantime, a parcel addressed to Antony Rossiter is received by Philip Merridew, uncle of Delia, Antony's sweetheart, just before a bomb wrecks Philip's office and dangerously injures him. His clerk, Mr. Holt, rescues the package and takes it home, but when two attempts are made to rob his house he becomes frightened and takes the package to Delia. He is followed by a man who sees Holt hand the package to Delia, watches a girl come from Delia's house with a package, and brutally assaults the girl, who is Miss Murdle, whom the follower has mistaken for Delia. Delia puts the package in a safe at the bank. A man claiming to be Cornelius calls on Delia and tells her Antony is dead and he wants the package. She agrees to meet him the next morning at the bank. That night Antony telephones her from London and then reports to Col. Garrett. Leaving Garrett's in a blackout, Antony is followed by a man, who is followed by still another pursuer. A bomb drops in the vicinity and, in a flash, Antony recognizes his pursuer to be Cornelius, who is cut on the wrist. Before he can help or question Cornelius, Antony is knocked out. When he recovers, Cornelius is gone. On orders from Garrett, Antony is to meet the man claiming to be Cornelius at the bank.

INSTALMENT XXIII.

UNEASY VISITOR.

Antony dressed in a hurry, found shaving a painful operation, boiled himself a couple of eggs, swallowed a hasty cup of tea, and found on arrival at Victoria that the bus on which he had counted had not a seat unbooked. This meant going to Waterloo, catching a train, and hoping for the best.

By this time it was as near four o'clock as makes no difference. The hoped for best remained an unrealized dream. Owing to damage on the line, the train meandered by unfamiliar ways to a sticking point where the passengers were decanted.

Antony looked at his watch and walked grimly to a garage where, according to a helpful porter, he might be able to hire a car. He found the proprietor talkative, melancholy, and overflowing with tales of the car he might have hired if he had come this way a couple of days ago. He was a large, pale man with a large, plane hand and a reddish watery eye. He laid the hand on Antony's arm and showed him the crater which the bomb had made.

"Biggest anywhere this side of London—that's what every one says that's seen it. Two Morrisses—well, they were all over the place—and about as much of them left as you could put on a sixpence. Direct hit, that's what they got. Then there was the Humber limousine—a very nice job, that Humber—special body, only done 500 miles—on commission sale for the Honorable Mrs. Pumphrey—smashed up so you wouldn't have known her. The old Daimler—well, I reckon she got off cheap—glass all smashed to blazes and the near front wheel buckled—"

Antony struck in firmly—

"Wouldn't she run if you put on the spare?"

The man blinked. Antony was being sudden—he liked a leisurely client. He had yet other harrowing details to impart; the tale of dead and wounded cars was by no means told. Still business was business. He admitted reluctantly that the Daimler would probably run.

"No reason why she shouldn't, so far as I can see. She's old, but she goes. Proper engineering jobs, Daimlers. And as luck would have it, we didn't lose our petrol—missed the pumps nicely. Would you be wanting to go far, sir?"

"Wayshot. I'm in a hurry."

"Matter of 15, 16 miles." He lifted his voice and called, "Bill!"

The proceedings were leisurely. It was 11:30 before they got going. Bill was a red headed lad just short of 18. He had the largest, boniest wrists, and the largest ginger colored freckles that Antony had ever beheld. He drove casually, brilliantly, dangerously, and never stopped talking about airplanes. When Antony admitted to being in the air force, he asked so many questions that he very nearly forgot to drive at all. A nice lad, with a cheerful spirit and nerves of iron.

It was a cold, raw morning with a mist drawing up off the low ground. Delia looked out of the dining room window and saw it blanketing the fields on the other side of the road. The willows at the foot of the slope had only their heads showing. Mr. Canning who owned the land had had them pollarded, and they looked for all the world like enormous cabbages.

She glanced at her watch. It was nearly 9:30. If the bus was punctual, Antony might be here in less than half an hour, but if the fog was bad nearer London, the bus might very easily be late. She had decided that it was only a local mist and would soon go, when Parker came in to tell her that Mr. Brown was in the drawing room.

She was young enough to make a face. She didn't want Cornelius to arrive first. She wanted Antony. Things were going cross. Cornelius was early, and Antony might be late. She put the best face she could upon it and walked into the drawing room.

Cornelius was certainly a big man. She hadn't really taken him in yesterday, but she looked at him appraisingly, and decided that he was too large to be comfortable—big hands and feet, shoulders too high and square, and a face like the side of a house. He would have been a good deal astonished if he could have guessed her thoughts. Without taking an undue interest in his own looks, he had always considered that they did him credit.

He took stock of Delia as she came in and was immediately struck by the alteration in her appearance. The girl he had seen yesterday was a pale statue cast in a mold of grief. This girl bloomed with an agreeable morning freshness. She wore a tweed skirt and knitted jumper in a smoky shade of blue. Her hair shone like pale gold. The eyes he had seen fixed in despair were as bright as happiness could make them. He was considerably taken aback, and for the moment at a loss to account for the change.

Delia herself supplied him with an answer to the puzzle. Without any preamble she came out with what was uppermost in her mind.

"O, Mr. Rossiter—he isn't dead!"

Her meaning did not reach him. His mind was full of its own picture and could not at once relinquish it. He said, reacting only to her first words,

"If you do not mind, it will be better if you call me Mr. Brown."

Delia could have shaken him. She came a step nearer and raised her voice.

"You said he was dead. But he isn't—Antony is alive!"

A shock is a shock whether it is pleasant or unpleasant. Joy has been known to kill. Whatever this big man felt, he kept it to himself. If Delia had been watching his hand she would have seen it stiffen and clench, but she was looking at his face, which remained quite without expression. He spoke at once with some severity.

"What are you talking about?"

Delia had the feeling that she had tried to shake him and failed. She beat her hands together and said in her high, clear voice.

"Antony—your brother Antony. He isn't dead—he's alive." The color had come into her face. Just to say it made her feel radiantly alive herself.

He said, "Who told you that?" and she cut in joyfully,

"He did—Antony did. He rang me up—so you see he couldn't be dead, could he?"

If he had any natural feeling he did not show it. His tone was hard and businesslike as he demanded,

"Are you sure that it was Antony?"

Delia laughed. She had been wanting to for some time. Laughter had been bubbling up inside her for just no reason at all but being alive—she and Antony. She wanted to laugh, as a bird wants to sing on a sunny morning.

"Of course I'm sure! I talked to him—he rang me up. Aren't you glad—aren't you pleased? He's your brother. Don't you mind about his not being dead?"

He put a hand as one does to a child. His accent became a little more marked as he said.

"Naturally. How can you think anything else? But I am finding it hard to believe that it is true. I think you are deceived, or that some one is trying to deceive you. You see, I saw him dead."

Delia looked at him with astonishment and a little scorn. What was the good of saying that sort of thing? But there was a ring of conviction in his voice. He really did think that Antony was dead. But how stupid—how stupid! She heard herself saying it out loud.

"But that's stupid—it doesn't make sense. You couldn't have seen him dead, because he's alive, and I've just been talking to him." She broke out laughing again. "And it's quite mad to go on arguing about it, because you'll be able to see for yourself any time now."

He repeated her words.

"See for myself? What do you mean by that?"

"I mean he's coming down here."

"Impossible!" The word seemed to break from him.

"Why should it be impossible? It isn't. Look at the clock—it's 9:45. He was catching the 8:30 bus, and that means he'll be up at the house before 10."

She had moved him at last, but she was not to see how. He turned away from her and went to the window. Standing there with his back to her, looking out as if he were looking for Antony's arrival, he gave her an odd impression of disturbance. There was nothing that she could take hold of, but she had a sense that the room was full of anger. It came against her like waves.

The impression passed as he turned round and came back.

"See," he said, "you are going to think this strange, but I cannot help it. I find it difficult to believe that Antony is alive, because, as I tell you, I saw him lying dead. He had been shot—he had been in the river three days. He was certainly dead. And if there was a mistake—I tell you he had been in the river, and there was also a face wound—if Antony is really alive, I must tell you that I cannot meet him. I am here on dangerous business, and it is impossible for me to meet him. It would not be safe for either of us."

TODAY'S LESSON TELLS TRICKS IN MUFFIN MAKING

There Are a Few Simple Rules to Observe.

[This is the thirteenth in a series of cooking lessons appearing on these pages. All phases of cookery will be covered.]

BY RUTH COOK STEWART.

Muffins are by far the trickiest product to be discussed so far in these lessons. The tricks in making muffins are few and simple, but cooks who do not know them invariably turn out tough, misshapen muffins full of large, tunnel-like holes.

A good muffin has a golden brown crust, a rounded top, tender and moist crumbs, and uniformly small air spaces, and it is about twice as high as it was before baking.

What factors influence the production of this perfect muffin? Perhaps most important is the amount of mixing, next the ingredients used, their temperature, and the baking time and temperature.

Ingredients and their proportion: Muffins are classed as a thick batter or a drop batter. The usual proportion is 2 cups of sifted all-purpose flour to 1 cup of liquid. At least 1 teaspoon of baking powder for each cup of flour, and sometimes more, is used.

Eggs may be omitted from muffin batter, if desired, tho 1 egg for each 2 cups of flour usually is included for flavor. Without the egg, muffins are lighter in color but are likely to be more tender than with the egg.

Some Fat Is Needed.

Some fat is needed to give shortness to the product, and the average proportion is about 1½ tablespoons for each cup of flour. About the same proportion of sugar is included in the list of muffin ingredients, tho muffins can be made with less sugar. Sugar has just the opposite effect as eggs have on the tenderness of a baked product, and increasing the sugar slightly adds to the tenderness of the muffin.

An average muffin recipe might call for 2 cups of flour, 2 to 3 teaspoons of baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup of milk or other liquid, and 3 tablespoons of fat. Such a recipe would make about a dozen medium-sized muffins.

As has been said before, better results always can be expected from baked products when these ingredients are at room temperature when mixed.

Gluten Factor Discussed.

Extent and methods of mixing: The formation of gluten in mixing and kneading batters was discussed in the lesson on flours. To refresh your memory, gluten is the sticky, tenacious substance developed in wheat flour when it is moistened and "worked" by stirring or kneading. The greater the amount of stirring or kneading the greater the amount of gluten developed. This gluten plays the important rôle of holding the batter together, but overdeveloped gluten gives a tough product.

In muffins their isn't enough liquid or fats to hold the gluten particles apart, so that gluten is developed quite rapidly. Muffins that have large, tunnel-like holes and a lopsided, pointed top have had too much gluten developed in them. In other words, they've been overbeaten.

When very greatly overbeaten muffins turn out flat and have heavy layers in them as well as the characteristic tunnels.

Dry Ingredients Sifted.

As in other batters, the dry ingredients are first sifted together for a more thoro blending. Then the liquid and shortening are added to the slightly beaten eggs. In the final mixing step the liquid ingredients are stirred into the dry ones. This stirring should be only enough to moisten all the flour well, and not enough to give a smooth batter. The batter should be lumpy.

Some women have a stronger stroke than others and the size and thickness of the spoon used also has an effect on the development of gluten, but it is possible to regulate gluten development fairly accurately by counting the number of strokes of the spoon used. Around 30 strokes usually is just enough to moisten all the dry ingredients well and develop enough gluten to make a standard muffin. Around 60 strokes gives a passable muffin with small tunnels. From here on stirring gives progressively poorer results.

Counting strokes may seem foolish to the experienced baker who can judge gluten development by the appearance and "feel" of the batter. But for the inexperienced beginner who has no idea what to expect, stroke counting is a real boon. With a little experience the beginner can drop the counting.

Other Cautions Cited.

Baking Time and Temperature: While over beating is the chief cause of the tunnel-like holes in muffins, two other factors also play a part. Too full muffin pans and too high temperatures increase the tendency to tunnel formation when the batter is only slightly overbeaten. Muffin pans should be filled about two-thirds full to allow for maximum expansion. The pans should be greased for easy removal of the finished muffins.

A temperature of 425 degrees has been found to be best for muffins. When the temperature is too high, the crust is likely to set before the batter has time to rise. The crust then may crack open on top under pressure of the rising batter. These muffins also will be undersized and may have thickened cell walls around the air holes. If the temperature is too low, muffins will require a longer time to brown and cook thru. The baking time should be from 20 to 30 minutes, depending on the size of the muffins. When done, the muffins will shrink slightly from the sides of the pan and the top will spring back when pressed lightly with a finger.

Batter May Be Varied.

Plain loaf quick breads are handled exactly as are muffins, except that they are baked in a loaf pan. This plain batter may be varied by the addition of fruits, nuts, and other ingredients.

Some very rich muffin and loaf batters are mixed like a cake rather than by the methods described here. They contain large amounts of sugar and shortening and are more cake than bread.

[The next lesson will discuss the making of plain pastry.]

PEANUT BUTTER FINE IN VARIETY OF SANDWICHES

Peanut butter is a wonderful food. It tastes good, is rich in vitamin B, and is inexpensive. Here are a few peanut butter sandwich suggestions:

1. Peanut butter mixed with crisp chopped bacon.
2. Peanut butter mixed with chopped dates and moistened with orange juice.
3. Peanut butter and chopped sweet pickle.
4. Peanut butter spread on dried beef.
5. Peanut butter mixed with an equal amount of mashed banana, flavored with lemon juice, and moistened with hot water.

Is there a perfect coffee for you? Certainly!

Maybe you just haven't found it yet—the blend that suits your taste exactly.

If not, you certainly owe it to yourself to try Del Monte Coffee. Especially if it's flavor you're after. For you know how famous Del Monte is for flavor—in any food!

BY MARY MEADE.

Fruits are the big bargain news for homemakers this week. Apples, grapefruit, oranges, and pears are all lower in price this week-end. There are many lower prices on fresh vegetables, too, to attract food buyers.

All oranges dropped sharply in price this week. Supplies of Florida oranges have been liberal, and California orange shipments have been particularly heavy. The quality of oranges is especially fine these days, making this fruit a superbargain.

Grapefruit, long the prize buy at the fruit stand, is slightly lower in price. Grapefruit quality also has been very high.

Apples from the northwest are down somewhat in price, and apples are another good buy. Winter pears from the northwest also are a little cheaper this week-end.

Lower Prices Are Timely.

These lower fruit prices come at the right time. If sugar is going to be rationed, many a family will learn all over again what a fine dessert fresh fruit can be. Even grapefruit is sweet enough at this time of year to be served as a sugarless dessert, and no dessert could do more for the health of the family than plain fruit.

There has been a lessening of demand for rhubarb in the last few days, and wholesalers attribute this directly to the sugar situation. Rhubarb is a tart fruit that requires some sweetening. But don't let sugar rationing prevent you from serving rhubarb or other tart fruits. Honey and maple sugar make perfect sweeteners for fruits, often adding more to their flavor than does white sugar.

Honey Is Good Buy.

While on the subject of sugar rationing I might turn your attention to honey. Honey is one food that is very little higher in price than it was a year ago. Honey prices are reasonable at present, and there is an ample supply of this sweetener.

Honey is now retailing at something under 20 cents for a pound jar. That's more money than you're paying pound per pound for sugar, but as a sweetener honey goes farther than white sugar. Three-fourths of a cup of honey is equal in sweetening power to a cup of sugar.

Recipes for baked products do require some adjustment if you are to substitute honey for the sugar in them. But you can use honey in most puddings and fruit desserts without any change in the recipe, other than to use less honey than you would sugar.

Fine Coffee Sweetener.

Honey also is an excellent sweetener for tea and coffee. In some parts of California a jar of honey on the table takes the place of the sugar bowl for sweetening the morning cereal and beverages.

You may be interested to know that Chicago is one of the largest distributing points in the country for honey.

Over at the vegetable racks you'll find lowered prices on broccoli, old and new cabbage, cauliflower, celery, and lettuce. Lettuce, which took a drop in price last week, has fallen sharply again this week. It's an excellent buy. Serve a big bowlful of it tossed in oil and vinegar with that economy meat dish. It's elegant, easy to prepare, and right now inexpensive.

Cabbage is another topnotch vegetable buy. You'll be serving it shredded by itself and in combination with other vegetables and fruits as a salad, as well as cooked. Cook cabbage quickly in very little water and you can do the job with the cover on to preserve vitamins. It tastes better when cooked quickly, too. Five to seven minutes should do the trick.

Other Vegetables Attractive.

Broccoli, bunch beets, bunch turnips, sweet potatoes, spinach, mustard and turnip greens, and winter squash are some more good vegetable buys. Mushrooms, radishes, and green onions are all moderately priced.

Green beans are likely to be rather scarce for some weeks. Supplies have been coming mostly from Florida lately, and heavy rains there have damaged the crops. The same rains have had their effect on the quality of green peppers.

White potatoes have inched up another notch on the price scale. They're now retailing at around 4 and 5 cents a pound. Sweet potatoes on the other hand are very reasonable, and one of the few foods that are cheaper now than a year ago.

Pork Takes Meat Honors.

Pork is stealing the honors at the meat counters of Chicagoland this week-end. Both smoked and fresh cuts are getting plenty of attention, and the prices are attractive.

Beef is still a pretty good buy, however. One of the chains has an attractive offer on steaks of all kinds. You pay one price for any steak, whether it be round or porterhouse. Other stores also are featuring steaks at attractive prices, and standing rib roasts also are on the sales listings. Veal is bargain priced in some stores.

Hubbard Squash Too Big? Here's Way to Cut It Down

Is a hubbard squash too big for your family? Buy it anyway and cook it all. Serve half of it, well seasoned. Mash the remained the next day and beat in an egg yolk. Then arrange in mounds on browned pineapple slices, top with half a marshmallow. Let brown in the oven for a few minutes. Delicious!

NATURAL SUGARS PRESENT IN MANY EVERYDAY FOODS

Rationing Shouldn't Give Undue Concern.

Sugar rationing should be no cause for great concern to the average American homemakers. It may even be helpful to those persons who now eat too many sweets.

Sugar is a wholesome food, valuable as a pure source of energy. It plays an important part in rounding out the caloric requirements of the diet. But many persons consume more energy foods than their bodies can use up, with overweight as a result.

Natural sugars in honey, sorghum, molasses, and maple products will serve as a sweetener in many instances and provide valuable vitamins and minerals as well.

Fruits a Good Source.

Sweet tasting foods will take care of part of the craving for sweets. Fruits, canned, dried, or fresh, or in the form of juices are rich in natural sugar. They also fill other dietary requirements and are a necessary part of any balanced diet. Some dried fruits contain from 50 to 75 per cent sugar, while many fresh fruits are from 10 to 15 per cent sugar.

Milk, when used in the quantities prescribed by a good diet, is a pretty good source of sugar. And some vegetables, such as sweet potatoes, peas, beets, and carrots, contain some sugar.

Other Vital Necessities.

All these foods have the value of providing vitamins and minerals in addition to carbohydrates, while refined sugar is exclusively an energy food with no other food value. In any good diet, foods which provide minerals and vitamins should have preference over foods which give energy alone. After all the vitamin, mineral, and protein requirements are met, pure energy foods may fill out the caloric requirements of the individual.

Just two tablespoons of refined sugar contain approximately 105 calories.

Try These Stuffed Prunes on Your Salad Plate

Try these stuffed prunes on your salad plate. Combine equal parts of softened cream cheese and peanut butter. Stuff this mixture into cooked and seeded prunes. Chill before serving. Allow about five to a salad plate—pretty on chicory and good with a thick French dressing.

Avoid Washing Oysters; It Reduces Their Flavor

Always inspect and pick over oysters carefully to remove any small bits of shell. Buy oysters at a clean, reliable store. This makes washing them unnecessary. The washing of oysters deprives them of much of their flavor.

CHOCOLATE GIVES ZEST TO COOKIES OF WHOLE WHEAT

Chocolate is the favorite flavor of many persons. It's so popular that many mothers have found it a good mask for some less liked nutritive foods. In these cookies, for instance, the family will get its whole wheat along with the good chocolate taste.

Whole Wheat Chocolate Drops.

1½ cups brown sugar
¾ cup shortening
2 egg yolks
2 squares melted chocolate
¾ cup sour milk
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups whole wheat flour

Cream sugar and fat. Add egg yolks and melted chocolate. Mix well. Add milk and dry ingredients, and beat well. Drop by spoonfuls on greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate [350 degrees] oven.

Fabric Gloves of Many Hues Catch the Eye

BY REA SEEGER.

Some of the loveliest colors imaginable are flying in the early fabric glove showings! Easter egg pastels, bonbon pastels, unusual shades of citron, chartreuse, mauve, tangerine, azure, copper grege, daffodil yellow, pussy willow gray, and the clear strong dramatics of red, cerise, carbon blue, navy, deep bronze green, brown, and varying shades of beige and caramel are to be found in these eye catching collections—out days before they were expected.

Fabric gloves are not only smart but amazingly luxurious in texture and quality of fabric, smooth alternates for the more expensive doeskins because the colors are every bit as flattering and unusual. These are the smart colored accents you'll need to dramatize dark winter costumes, as well as the first spring street clothes also in dark fashion colors like navy, black, oxford gray, and brown. And there isn't a color or shade, no matter how unusual, that isn't available.

Besides the lavish color range the prices provide sufficient temptation to select the needs for an entire spring wardrobe. The shades are colorfast, the styles the classic four button slipons, together with shorter ideas for suits.

Along with the fascinating color range of pastels and bright colors are plenty of snowy white pale beige and straw colors for dress parade and summer clothes. Shrewd shoppers are selecting their wash fabric gloves now while the color range is so complete. The fabrics are the finest ever used, guaranteed not to shrink and not to fade, always the same soft texture after weeks of wear and laundering.

Benefit Party Aid

[Carlos Photo.]

Mrs. Richard Gauger of Bannockburn, along with other young members of the North Shore Service-league of the Chicago Maternity center, is hard at work on plans for a Valentine-Victory party which the league will give on Feb. 14 at the Chicago Town and Tennis club. Mrs. Gauger is social chairman of the league, whose president is Mrs. Howard Kerr of Wilmette.

Social Agencies Urged to Spur Wartime Effort

Miss Charlotte Whitton, executive director of the Canadian Welfare council, was guest speaker at the 27th annual meeting and luncheon of the Council of Social Agencies of Chicago in the Palmer House yesterday. More than 1,000 representatives of social agencies and organizations attended.

Miss Whitton told the group that social service organizations must gird themselves for a greater effort during the war emergency. She said that the people of Canada have been mobilized into groups for charitable and defense activities.

"In cities like Vancouver, Ottawa, and Winnipeg," she said, "community counseling bodies have been well integrated and ably staffed and have brought outstanding energy and mobilization of resources into action."

Miss Whitton asserted that with fathers and sons at the fighting front there will be more need of charity than before.

"In this war there is the battle line, the supply line, and the home line," she continued. "Social agencies must do their coöperative part in maintaining the home line intact."

Miss Whitton, whose home is in Ottawa, also is editor of the Canadian Welfare publication.

J. Beach Clow, plumbing manufacturer, was elected president of the council to succeed Attorney Ernest S. Ballard, who presided at the meeting. Attorney Frank Sims was elected treasurer to succeed Lanning MacFarland, and Lester N. Selig and Mrs. William M. Petersen were elected vice presidents. Miss Audrey Hayden was reëlected secretary.

MacFarland reported the council had erased a deficit which amounted to $12,000 two years ago and now has a surplus of $300 in the treasury. He said the council spent approximately $140,000 last year. Increased contributions, he said, enabled the council to get out of the red.

The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, director of the Catholic Youth organization, and Mrs. Gordon Loud of the Junior League of Chicago were new members elected to the board of directors.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

The judges had no trouble deciding that this baked, stuffed spareribs recipe was a prize winner. Mrs. Elmer M. Melahn, Algonquin, Ill., wins today's $5.

Perhaps you have a fine recipe in your own files that might bring you some extra pocket money. If it's old or economical, or makes a special hit with your group, send it in.

Address your entry to Recipe Contest, CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Typewrite, or write legibly, in standard recipe form, and include clear, complete directions.

BAKED STUFFED SPARERIBS.
[Serves six.]

½ loaf stale white bread
½ cup warm water
2 apples chopped
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup seedless raisins
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 slabs spareribs [about 3½ pounds]
Salt and pepper.

Moisten bread with warm water, add remaining ingredients, and mix. Spread between salted and peppered ribs, roll, tie with string, and bake, uncovered, until well done and brown [about 2 to 2½ hours at 350 degrees].

[Save this for your scrapbook.]

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Unvarnished.

This is not a story about what the senator from North Carolina said to the senator from South Carolina, but of what the president of the University of North Carolina wrote to a friend. The friend had forwarded a pamphlet entitled "A Round Unvarnished Tale"—Othello's phrase in his defense before the senate. The president of the college acknowledged the receipt of the pamphlet but in such a way as to make his friend look twice at the dictated letter. The president's secretary, obviously, had not read or had forgotten Othello's impassioned words, for the letter said, "Thank you for the round unvarnished table you sent me."

Accountancy.

The boss knew figures—
[Hers was divine];
She got the job—
[She could count to nine.]
Suzie Q.

There Still Is Kindness.

These are headline days: "Sub Lures U. S. Ship Into Trap" . . . "American Pilots Rout Forty Jap Planes in Burma" . . . "British Shoved Back 150 Miles."

The little ways of gentleness and peace seem sadly remote from the day's news. But, in the mail, signed simply "A White Collar Girl," came this note, commenting on the paragraph headed "More Blessed to Give":

"I found the reference to the little boy who offered his lunch as a birthday gift intensely human. Tho now I am able to make ends meet and buy a few defense stamps, I recall vividly that, during the postwar depression, I was a thin child in a cheerless home, often cold and hungry. I am enclosing $1 and asking you if you will please locate that kindly teacher and give it to her to buy something for the little boy that will give him a bit of unexpected happiness such as I never had. I wish I could make it more."

Forgotten.

Apology: Despite serious minded application of rules of concentration, plus a little "hocus pocus" [which usually works better than the rules] I can NOT remember the name of the young woman from out of town who asked for the information about the American Institute of Decorators. Anyway, for her . . . and for others . . . the president of the Illinois chapter is J. Winstanley Briggs, 2330 Green Bay road, Evanston, Ill. And he's the man for the young aspirant to interview.

Explanations.

Two interior decorators are having a hard time of it at the moment: one, explaining that her bandaged head does not indicate that she was hit by rising prices, but by a can of tomatoes which slipped from her top pantry shelf . . . the other, explaining that the wild, eery look in her eye came when it lit upon an announcement of a new double decker bed, the "Honkey Donkey Bunkey Bunk." To make matters worse, it is termed "the first collapsible adult bed" . . . and . . . after all . . . as she says . . . just who isn't collapsible . . . in times like these.

Billboard Problem Subject for Round Table Discussion

Norris Tibbetts to Take Church Post in N.Y. City

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Rev. Dr. Norris L. Tibbetts announced yesterday he will read his resignation Sunday morning as one of the two pastors of Hyde Park Baptist church, 5600 Woodlawn avenue, to accept a call as a minister in Riverside church, New York, where he will be associated with the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick. The Rev. Dr. Rolland W. Schloerb will remain as a minister of the Hyde Park church.

Dr. Tibbetts has been a minister of the Hyde Park church for 18 years. For five years he was associated at the Hyde Park church with the Rev. Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, who is now dean of the Rockfeller Memorial chapel, University of Chicago.

The Rev. Dr. Albert W. Palmer, president of Chicago Theological seminary, announced yesterday the seminary will be host to 300 pastors from various Protestant denominations in the Chicago area for the 11th annual Ministers' week, beginning Monday and continuing four days. Prof. Kenneth Scott Latourette of Yale university, widely known author on the history of the Christian church and oriental missions, will deliver the annual Alden-Tuthill lectures on "The Churches and the Present Situation." The three lectures will be given in the University Church of the Disciples, University avenue and 57th street, on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights.

The annual meeting of the Churchmen's brotherhood of the Evangelical and Reformed churches of the Chicago area, will be held Sunday afternoon at St. John's church, 2448 West Moffat street. Thomas R. West, Sunday school superintendent of the Wilmette Parish Methodist church, will be the principal speaker.

Founder's week will be observed beginning Monday at Moody Bible institute, with the Rev. Drs. Robert Pierce Shuler and Charles E. Fuller of Los Angeles, Cal., and James E. Bennett, New York attorney, the principal speakers.

Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Methodist area of Chicago will dedicate 500 Bibles for rooms in the new Wesley Memorial hospital at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The presentation of the Bibles will be made by Paul A. Westburg, former international president of the Gideons.

The Catholic Casino of Chicago, famous male chorus, announces the reëlection of Theodore K. Handing as president of the organization. He will direct the observances of the 70th year, which will include the singing of a solemn mass for the safe return of the members who are serving with the nation's armed forces.

Brigadier John Marshall of the Salvation Army, hut program director with the American Expeditionary forces in the first World war, has been appointed a regional adviser for the Salvation Army's new military and naval department.

Your Handwriting

BY SHIRLEY SPENCER.

Paul Henreid, making his American screen debut in "Joan of Paris," has a long European career behind him, and his writing shows the rigid training that is typically European. One doesn't often find the intensity and precision in American handwriting.

First note the angle of inclination—draw a pencil up thru the loop of the "d" or the "l" and you will see what I mean. That drive forward is attained only when the writer has an intense, forceful nature. This angle shows concentrated energy and a passionate oneness of purpose.

The writers of such an angle are very exacting. They look straight ahead to a goal and go towards it with all their power under control. Such control requires discipline. The heavy pressure and angular formations are another indication of this concentrated drive.

For Handwriting Analysis send 10 cents (in coin) and a stamped, self-addressed envelope, together with a sample of handwriting, to Shirley Spencer, Box 116, General Postoffice, New York City. IMPORTANT: Write 25 words and signature in ink.

Two Practical Patterns

NIGHTIE AND DAYTIME DRESS.

Today's patterns are practical, but dainty. One makes a night gown with very comfortable lines, which may be lace trimmed or utterly plain. The other creates a princess style frock, buttoning down the front, which serves a variety of purposes, from kitcheneering to "dates." It all depends upon the fabric you choose, cotton for the kitchen, or taffeta for dancing.

Style No. 2926 is designed for sizes 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52 inch bust measurements. Size 42 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, 2½ yards of lace edging.

Style No. 3170 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 4⅛ yards of 39 inch material, 1 yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The winter pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Red Cross Acts to Overhaul Its Production Plan

The production of surgical dressings and garments for the Red Cross has been curtailed and the establishment of additional units halted temporarily, James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago chapter, said yesterday. The announcement was made on the recommendations of the volunteer special services committee, he said, because production on current quotas is nearing completion and the committee wants to establish itself on a wartime operating basis before new quotas are assigned.

This program will affect upward of 50,000 women in 900 production units thruout the chapter. Detailed instructions covering the new plans have been sent to unit chairmen.

"In normal peacetimes," Mr. Forgan explained, "it has been the custom to set up units as requested on application of a group of 20 or more women. However, with the advent of war, Red Cross operations, like others of defense and military character, have assumed a vastness and significance which require closer coördination.

"The scope of these is indicated by the amount of money now being raised to finance them—$50,000,000 nationally and $3,750,000 in the Chicago area alone. We realize that thousands of patriotic women are anxious to do their part for the Red Cross. Therefore we call attention to other services which are also obligations of the Red Cross, such as nurses' aids, first aid, home nursing, nutrition, and accident prevention classes now being taught."

A $14,166 employé donation from the Zenith Radio corporation was presented by James Squiller, president of the Zenith Employés' assbciation. Gifts exceeding $500 in the personal finance total were received from Household Finance, Local Loan, Imperial Credit, and Citizens' Loan. In the finance company group top donations came from National Bond and Investment, Walter E. Heller & Co., and the Mercantile Discount corporation.

Other gifts totaling $12,172 from companies and their employés included: $2,145, P. Brenna company; $1,799, Sloan Valve; $1,337, Chicago Metal Manufacturing; $1,231, Corn Products Sales company; $1,216, Popular Mechanics company; $1,190, Material Service corporation; $1,120, W. H. Miner, Inc.; $859, Mercantile National bank; $743, Chicago Pump company, and $532, H. M. Byllesby & Co. Total contributions to date are $1,790,187.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

How often have we all asked a partner [sometimes bitterly, sometimes merely reproachfully]: "O, partner, why didn't you lead so and so?" And how often have we had the answer: "Why I couldn't lead from the king! I was afraid declarer had the ace." And, finally, how often has that fear been expressed when, as a matter of fact, the declarer couldn't possibly have held the ace! For example:

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 diamond	2 clubs
2 spades	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened his fourth highest club to his partner's bid suit. Dummy's ace was played. Declarer immediately took the spade finesse, West won with the queen, and stolidly returned a club. Declarer ruffed, drew West's trumps, and ran off the five card diamond suit. At the end, the defenders collected two heart tricks, but the contract was fulfilled.

East gently asked West why he had not laid down the king and another heart, pointing out that that line of defense would have resulted in a third round ruff and the defeat of the contract. West answered as above—that he couldn't dream of such a risky play; that for all he knew declarer might have the heart ace. He further protested that he couldn't tell that East had a six card club suit and that a club continuation would be ruffed.

East made cogent answer to both of these objections. First, he reminded West that he [East] had overcalled with two clubs, vulnerable, and, with all the high cards in West's sight or accounted for by declarer's bid, that East could not possibly have based this overcall on a mere five card suit. Secondly, he pointed out that declarer was absolutely marked with the ace and king of spades, since he must have held five spades for his two bids, and East had shown the six spot. Finally, he asked West, somewhat caustically, whether it was possible that South with five spades to the ace-king and the ace of hearts would have passed originally.

This last, of course, was the crux of the reasoning. West should have known that declarer did not hold the heart ace, and should have based his defense on that knowledge.

Lake Shore Club J-Birds Give Supper-Dance Tomorrow Night

BY JUDITH CASS.

"GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN" are those members of the Lake Shore club's J-Birds who have departed for service with the United States' armed forces. Tomorrow night the J-Birds, composed of young Chicago business men, will give a supper-dance, and each guest will bring cigarets to be sent to fellow J-Birds in the army, navy, marines, and coast guards. The party will be held in the new J-Bird rooms at the club.

Among the "absentee" guests who will receive cigarets are Lieut. Willard Armour White, Lieut. P. T. Vincent, Donald Olson, Richard V. Lynch, John Gleason Jr., Corp. Edward A. Fox, Lieut. Raymond Firth, Lieut. William E. Fay Jr., Ensign Michael Donohue, Lieut. Joseph B. Coleman, Robert J. Brennan, and Lieut. Richard Brennan Jr.

Each J-Bird may bring four guests. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Thomasson III. will be entertaining Miss Dorothy Cantrelle, Miss Mary Louise Cantrelle, and Mrs. John Henry, the former Karen Gardner, who recently returned from Honolulu. Lieut. Frank McNeil, Miss Phyllis Below, Donald Morphett, and Miss Catherine Allen will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wilson. Among others with reservations are Mr. and Mrs. Alan Schroeder, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Franz, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Prindiville, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Fox, Oliver Aspegren II., and William Hoysgaard.

Betty Ann Pease Weds in Michigan Tomorrow.

Several north shore families will be going to Birmingham, Mich., tomorrow for the marriage of Miss Betty Ann Pease, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Pease Jr., to Lieut. David Everet White. The bride's father formerly lived in Kenilworth, and both her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Pease, and her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin E. Sheridan, live in Evanston. Her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Freeman, reside in Rockford. The ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock in St. James' Episcopal church. The bride will be attended by her sister, Madeleine, and Wayne White will serve as best man for his brother.

The marriage of Miss Martha Anne Burrows to Frederick Ligerot Hamilton, which will take place tomorrow in New York City, is of interest to Chicagoans because the bride's mother, Mrs. Thomas Wilson Burrows, lives here, as do her brothers and sister, Dr. Samuel J. Burrows, Richard J. Burrows, and Mrs. Hugh M. Bailey. The ceremony will take place at 2:30 o'clock in the Little Church Around the Corner and will be followed by a small reception in the home of the bridegroom's cousin, Edward P. Hamilton of Park avenue.

The bride, who is a daughter of the late Dr. Thomas Wilson Burrows of Chicago, will have Miss Helen Shalet of New York City as maid of honor. James Murdock of Bermuda will serve as best man. Mr. Hamilton, son of Mrs. Frederick Hastings Hamilton and the late Mr. Hamilton of Bermuda, will take his bride on a New England motor trip. They will live in New York.

Virginia Dick and Mother Plan Trip to Washington.

Now that Ensign Richard Wilson has gone to Washington, D. C., to receive his assignment with the navy intelligence, his fiancée, Miss Virginia Dick, and her mother, Mrs. Elmer Jewell Dick, are making plans for a trip to the capital. They'll leave for Washington about the first of next week during Miss Dick's midyear vacation from Northwestern university.

"Bring guests and your knitting" say the cards which Mrs. Arthur J. Bamford of North State parkway has sent to the Tower Town Friends of the Chicago Junior school for a tea and talk at her home at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Mrs. Lewis B. Sinclair will discuss "Flags That Have Flown Over America."

The Cordon club will have as its guests at tea today Mme. Maria Hussa, soloist for Monday's benefit concert for the Provident hospital, and the assisting artists, John Weicher, Milton Preves, and Dudley Powers. Mrs. James C. Ames, Mrs. John H. Carroll, Mrs. Marshall H. Jones, and Mrs. George Zendt will pour. The concert on Monday night will be given in Curtiss hall under the sponsorship of the Musicians Club of Women.

The club will entertain its new members at 8 o'clock tonight. Annette Thorn Anderson will present a group of songs, accompanied by Paul Anderson.

Mme. Maria Kurenko Will Be Guest at a Tea Today.

Mme. Maria Kurenko, who will sing a benefit recital for Russian War Relief in Mandel hall on the University of Chicago campus tomorrow night, will be the special guest at a tea which the board of the Russian War Relief will give in its rooms in South Michigan avenue this afternoon. Mrs. E. S. Neushul of Winnetka will be the hostess. Tomorrow's recital is sponsored by the south side branch of the war relief, and proceeds will be used to purchase medical supplies for Russian soldiers and food concentrates and vitamins for the Russian people.

Members of the Cliff Dwellers and their guests will gather in the club's rooms in South Michigan avenue for a cup of tea and a chat after the symphony concert this afternoon. Mrs. Earl Oren will be the hostess, and she will be assisted by Mrs. Kendall J. Lingle, Mrs. Richard K. Juergens, Mrs. Rudolph Reuter, and Mrs. William A. Hirsh Jr.

Mrs. Arthur W. Chapman and Mrs. Ruth W. Staudt will be hostesses at the College club's after the symphony tea this afternoon.

Club Members' Children Will Have Skating Party.

High school and college age children of members of the University Colony club will have their annual roller skating party at the White City rink on the south side from 8 until 11 o'clock tonight. Mrs. Lorry R. Northrup is in charge of arrangements.

Red Cross Outdoor Aid

Miss Marion Elisberg is working with the Red Cross as an outdoor staff assistant. Mrs. Farwell Winston heads the staff assistance corps, and Miss Margot Atkin and Mrs. Lee McCue are the vice chairmen. Volunteers in this corps are given courses in office work or reception work, typing, filing, translation, conducting information booth, and doing library service. The women serve in Red Cross centers at the army cantonments, and hospitals, and in other agencies that need this service.

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

[The Women in War Work department will report on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women who wish to take part in these activities.]

Those women who remember the first World war will recall with nostalgia the inexpensive wholesome meals served to war workers in the lunchroom of the School of Domestic Arts and Science, then located in the Tower building. Since the school has moved to the old Adams home at Belden avenue and Clark street, a similar project is not possible now, but the board is offering its buildings, equipment, and classrooms for wartime activities, Mrs. Madeline Mehlig, director of the school, revealed at a luncheon yesterday.

Representatives of various allied defense projects heard Mrs. Mehlig outline a wartime program which the school would like to promote if it does not conflict with already organized activities. The five point program includes food demonstrations and lectures on low cost and protective foods, with a registration fee which would be donated to the Red Cross; a refugee clothing project; a repetition of the brides' course, which is a six weeks' survey on food buying and marketing, nutrition, home management, budgeting, child study, and art appreciation; a nursery school training program for work with younger children, and a training project to produce nursing housekeepers to relieve the shortage when trained nurses are needed for hospitals or serious cases.

Mrs. Carman Lutkin, vice president of the board, who presided in the absence of Mrs. Russell Cooke, the president, reported that committees have been appointed to work out the details on each project. The program has been outlined on a long time basis with not only war needs, but reconstruction needs after the war in view. The luncheon, prepared and served by the quantity cookery class, featured wartime low cost protective foods, and every one agreed that if it were an average wartime menu, no one would go hungry in the days to come.

From Mrs. John P. Cohane, chairman of the woman's committee of the Chicago branch of Bundles for Bluejackets, comes the following statement: "Bundles for Bluejackets works under the official approval of the navy department. Rear Adm. John Downes, commandant of the 9th naval district, has approved the aims and purposes of Bundles for Bluejackets in this statement: 'I think the objectives of Bundles for Bluejackets are splendid and the Chicago branch of the national organization is entitled to the greatest credit and I wish it every success.'

"Bundles for Bluejackets wishes to state that its wool priority status is exactly the same as the Red Cross. Great Lakes has asked the organiza-

Laughs Greet Viola Burlesque of Dance Tune

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The sound of tittering is so rare a phenomenon in Orchestra hall that when it occurs—as it did last night—it takes precedence over any other kind of news. It was caused by the new Nicolai Berezowsky viola concerto, which was introduced by the Scottish violist, William Primrose, and the Chicago Symphony orchestra under Frederick Stock's direction.

The laughter was not an unfavorable judgment on the work, but was a tribute to the low musical comedy of the second movement, which is, according to the composer's own testimony, a clumsy country dance. It goes far beyond Beethoven's similar essay, and attempts to burlesque wildly both the lumbering tunes and the inept execution thought to be characteristic of the lower strata of musical culture.

Since musical humor, unless it is surpassingly deft [as it is in the cases of Mozart, Saint-Saëns, and Ibert—to mention only three] does not come off with any overwhelming effect, the audience might have preferred to have been introduced to the gifted Mr. Primrose in some other way.

However, the andante of the new concerto is an attractive, sustained movement which gave the soloist an opportunity to display the gravely beautiful tone and the wide command of nuance characteristic of his instrument.

The program began with two unpretentious little works—one old, the other new. The first was Mendelssohn's overture, "The Lovely Melusina"; the second a Pastoral Intermezzo by the American composer and educator, Henry Purport Eames. The latter was present in person to bow his acknowledgments of audience applause. Then the decks were cleared for an anything but unpretentious piece, Scriabin's third symphony "The Divine Poem."

One of the greatest of puzzles is the ability of this composer to hold his audience decade after decade. Here was a man who, to put it charitably, was a bit off center and whose music had little psychological content of universal or even very wide interest. Yet Scriabin possessed a huge projective power and a genius for making people believe [temporarily, at least] that what he had to say was of enormous moment. His themes are clean and chiseled and effective, his instrumentation so powerful and biting as to command the closest attention.

What Fun.

Discussion of modern architecture brought mention of Le Corbusier, the Frenchman, last heard of in Vichy. Some years ago he built an elaborate home for a woman in a suburb of Paris. She moved into it on a day of torrential rain and called him in great anguish.

"The house is lovely," she said, "but the roof is leaking, and there is a puddle all over the living room floor."

"Why, madam," Le Corbusier told her. "I'll come right out."

He did. Once there, he studied the puddle carefully from various angles and asked the woman for a piece of paper. Thinking he wanted to write down dimensions, she hurriedly acquiesced. But Le Corbusier took the paper, folded it carefully into a toy sailboat, and placed it on the puddle.

"You see," he cried triumphantly, "what fun you now can have! It makes a beautiful lake."

We Saw It.

Our Friend of the Yank receives many strange communications, but none as baffling as this:

"I have been writing to a dear friend of mine who is at Wake Island and would like to know if he can get letters. The last letter I received was dated Nov. 15. I sent him a Christmas package on Dec. 4, so, if they cannot get the mail to Wake Island, will they forward it back to me? The package was insured."

The letter was written on Jan. 23.

Febie Ola and the Numbers.

Febie Ola is black, honest, and scathing in her indignation about the way all her friends are carrying on right now. Over the ironing board she told about the policy game wheel in the building where she lives. "Just wear me to a nub," she sighed. "Burn 'at sulphur in de halls all night to bring 'em good luck and then borrow all my money to play them numbers." "What numbers, Febie Ola?" "O, them numbers in the dream book. You know, ma'am, you has a dream and you looks it up in the book. The book says it means a number, so you play that number. Sometimes they don't work, but our minister sure is goin' to fix 'em. What you think he say last Sunday? He just scream out of the pulpit, 'Now, don't you-all think I don' know why you're takin' down the numbers of mah text, 'cause I sho do!'"

Epitaph.

From Pewsey churchyard in Dorsetshire:

Here lies the body of LADY O'Looney
Great niece of Burke,
Commonly called the Sublime.
She was Bland, passionate, and deeply religious.
Also she painted
In water colors,
And sent several pictures
To the Exhibition.
She was first cousin
To Lady Jones
And of Such
Is the Kingdom of Heaven.

Glamor Girl.

A girl we know made great preparations for an operation. A simple little thing, she told all her friends, but a fine chance for a fine rest. "I want flowers, candy, and telephone calls," she said, "and plenty of visitors." She bought lovely gowns, delicate bed jackets, even a pale pink maribou cape. "I shall be glamorous," she told them all. Well, her friends complied. The flowers came and went. So did the candy and telephone calls. So did her friends. But she saw none of them. "I never got into one of my gowns because I never got out of those hospital garments," she later sighed. "I had to have a special nurse three weeks, my hospital plan ran out and, like Oscar Wilde, who sent out for champagne when he was dying with the comment, 'I'm dying far beyond my means,' I found glamor far beyond mine."

Many Women Ask Sally for Warm Clothes

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

While we always have a large number of requests for clothing of all sizes, at present we seem to have a majority of specific appeals for women's apparel, sizes 40, 42, and 44. Coats are particularly needed.

Mrs. H. is a widow, age 70. Her income is meager and she is crippled. She would appreciate a winter coat, size 42 or 44, in a dark shade if possible. She lives on the north side.

Mrs. B. is 69 years old. Her husband is living, but is over 70 and unable to work. Because of her unusual size, it has been impossible for her to find a coat in a second-hand store, or at any other source within her means. The address is on the south side and she wears size 42, but is under 5 feet tall.

Mrs. D. is a young woman, living on the near north side. Her husband is employed, but his salary is small, and they have three small children. She would be grateful for a warm coat and dresses, size 42.

Mrs. P. has a heart ailment and arthritis. She is on relief and receives an allowance only for food and shelter. Her needs include a pair of shoes, size 6EE, and a sweater or any other warm apparel, size 40. Since she walks with the aid of a crutch, she would be unable to call for offers. The address is on the north side.

Our files contain many more appeals, similar to those cited, and we'll appreciate any donation of clean, wearable clothing in the required sizes.

Save the scraps of soap! Cut them up, add water and dissolve by heating. Use melted hand soap for shampoos, kitchen soap for the dishes.

You don't need to take up refrigerator space with the can of vegetable shortening. It will keep on a shelf in the cupboard.

Leftover idea: Make a batch of baking powder biscuit dough and roll it into two sheets. Place one in a pan, spread with chopped leftover roast meat and gravy. Add the other sheet. Bake, cut in squares, and serve with spicy tomato sauce. But GOOD!

Nature Decides Age That Baby Begins to Walk

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Mothers often want to know at what age a baby should begin to walk.

The answer, provided he is a healthy normal child is, "when he is ready."

If your baby walks very early there is no occasion for undue pride. If he is a little late, that is, later than what is called "average," there is no need for you to feel chagrined.

Babies walk when nature has made ready their bones, their muscles, their coördinations and their fitness for that delicate adjustment known as balance.

Walking is no simple matter. It is one of the great achievements of babyhood. It is a milestone for the baby, as well as for his adoring parents. Walking is something a baby should come to when he is ready. He should not be forced. He should not be urged.

Of course there are factors that are important in making a baby ambitious or reluctant for this adventure, for this trial of skill. If he is much overweight he probably will be a late walker. If his diet is lacking in those elements that build bone and muscle, in fact, everything his body needs for normal growth, he will probably be late in walking. Or his ancestors may even determine whether he will walk early or late. In almost every life function that subtle factor, heredity, figures.

When the baby begins to walk he should be allowed to use his feet, unhampered by regular shoes. Barefoot walking on a rug, preferably a soft one, is wonderful for the articulation of the muscles of the foot. Just watch your baby grip with his toes. After all, nature gave us those muscles to use, not to imprison as soon as the human body drew itself upright. Naturally, an alert mother will see that no stray pins or harmful objects are on the floor for this exercise.

When the baby does need a foot covering it should be absolutely flexible. This means both the sole and the upper. Personally, I can see no reason for the routine use of a high shoe for a baby or small child. It must mean lacing in around the ankle, which logically hampers the ankle muscles and the circulation. A low shoe is adequate.

What causes tantrums? How may a child be encouraged to be neat? What two things help the nervous child? For advice on these and other related topics read "You and Your Young Child," Mrs. Gladys Bevans' latest booklet, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 15 cents; postpaid, 18 cents.

Thru the Looking Glass

One of our favorites among foundations is the kind that's easy to use, and we feel that's a strong point in its favor since for some reason or another makeup bases are one type of preparation with which women as a rule are not particularly deft. Because they apply them so inexpertly and are, therefore, dissatisfied with the results a great many women don't give a fair trial to foundations. Too bad, too, since a good makeup base can do a lot for any woman's facial façade.

Our little pet is a creamy, velvety liquid. It's to be used sparingly, as most foundations are, and blended to film the skin lightly and softly. The film is transparent, it dramatizes rather than obscures the natural highlights of the complexion and gives the softest, pearliest kind of a finish.

It's a preparation that is protective as well as flattering. It supplies a protection against chapping, to a certain extent, and contributes a little welcome moisture to the skin that's extremely dry. As soon as you apply it—and it should always be used on a freshly cleansed skin—you can feel its softening action.

This soft, just properly moist base gives you a good foundation for powder, which adheres to it without becoming sticky. It's in three good shades, each carefully chosen to flatter the natural skin tones most frequently encountered.

Just recently this creamy liquid was brought out in a small size—nice for the business girl or the traveler.

Crocheted Accessories

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Crocheted purses and gloves still are among the popular style items which complete every ensemble. These gloves, crocheted in a mesh with an attractive shell stitch cuff, have a matching purse done entirely in shell stitch. The purse may be crocheted larger than the one illustrated, and used as a knitting bag. A belt of the shell design may be used to finish the group. Cotton, carpet warp, or wool may be used for creating the ensemble.

For instructions in crocheting the purse and gloves, No. 261, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Kappa Alpha Theta Plans Founders' Day Luncheon

The anniversary of the founding of Kappa Alpha Theta, national sorority, 72 years ago will be celebrated by alumnæ and active members of the Chicago area at a Founders' day luncheon at 12:15 o'clock tomorrow at Marshall Field's. There are some 1,500 active members in Chicago, Oak Park, and the north shore suburbs.

$50,000 Fund Drive of Chicago YWCA Launched at Dinner

Five hundred workers, enlisted to raise $50,000 toward the Chicago YWCA budget for 1942, attended a send-off dinner and annual meeting of the association last night in the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street. Mrs. Grace Loucks Elliott of New York, national president of the YWCA, was the speaker.

Mrs. Arthur H. Compton is chairman of the Y's committee on interpretation and support which is directing the campaign. Nine division chairmen include Mrs. Howard Goodman, administration; Miss Helen Bull, business and professional; Mrs. James A. Yard, industrial; Mrs. John R. Massen, Girl Reserve; Miss Jessie Weiler, students; Mrs. Dorothy G. Williamson, health education; Mrs. Robert Cole, South Park Way center; Mrs. Adam Kulikowski, Mrs. Walter G. Warren, and Mrs. Ward Castle, residences, and Mrs. Robert L. Grinnell, service.

New directors elected for their first three year terms, who were announced by Miss Lilace Reid Barnes, president, included Miss Mary A. Kennedy, Mrs. Louis H. Nichols, Mrs. Milton P. Webster, and Mrs. Donald A. Wallace. Miss Elsa Graves and Miss Florentine Strube were elected for two year terms. The appointments of Mrs. William C. Gilbert, Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler, Miss Jessie Weiler, and Mrs. William Wiebe, made during the year to fill vacancies, were confirmed by the association.

St. Mary's College Frosh Give Annual Party Tonight

The annual formal party of the freshman class at Saint Mary's college of Notre Dame in South Bend, Ind., will be given tonight. Miss Mary Saggau of Denison, Ia., is in charge of arrangements. Among the Chicago girls who are assisting are Miss Evelyn Holland, Miss June Rettig, Miss Janet Wade, Miss Ruth Ray, Miss Phyllis Tack, Miss Mary Frances Callaghan, Miss Geraldine Clarke, Miss Patricia O'Connell, and Miss Barbara Ann Rempe.

Women in War Work

tion to knit 10,000 units of the following articles: sweaters, scarves, gloves, helmets, and watch caps. Only women who already know how to knit are asked to apply for wool at the headquarters, 333 North Michigan avenue. Beginners are asked to practice on their own wool."

Acting as a body for the first time since its organization, the Navy Mothers' club last night attended a W-G-N broadcast of "The Ramparts We Watch." Fifty members of the organization met at 6 o'clock at the clubhouse, where Mrs. Helen Joyce, who organized the club, spoke. The club traveled in a body to the W-G-N studio.

More than 400 directors and instructors representing 50 schools of nursing in Chicago and northern Illinois are expected to hear the student recruitment program at the meeting of the Chicago League of Nursing Education at 8 o'clock tonight in St. Joseph's hospital, 2100 Burling street. The program is a feature of open house week in the schools.

The Nursing Council on National Defense has issued a call for 50,000 students to enter schools of nursing this year. Speaking on different phases of recruitment will be Mrs. Alta Leonard, Silver Cross hospital, Joliet; Miss Marion Faber, Cook County school of nursing, and Miss Lorna Robinson, chairman of public relations, 1st district, Illinois State Nurses' association.

After the talks, a vocational guidance film on nursing will be shown. Mrs. Florence Finette, director of the nursing school at St. Joseph Mercy hospital in Aurora, will preside. Miss Selma M. Moody of Presbyterian hospital, president, reports that as a war measure 31 schools in Chicago are holding midyear classes. Three schools have admitted students this month and 28 others are signing students for February or March classes.

The war comes close to the Tribune family not only because of our men who have entered the armed services, but because we are losing one of our two nurses in the medical service maintained by THE TRIBUNE for the employés. Miss Margaret Lacey has enlisted with Northwestern university's general hospital unit No. 12, and will leave with the unit in less than three weeks for Camp Custer, Mich., for about a month's training. Miss Katherine Baltz, surgical nursing instructor at the Cook County hospital, is in charge of the nurses' section of the unit. When it is completed the section will number 120.

A Red Cross first aid class is starting this afternoon at the Lake Shore club. It will meet every Friday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock for 10 weeks and will be directed by Mrs. R. S. Raike. It is expected that many women who have been working in the production unit at the club and are temporarily out of employment because of the shortage of materials will seize this chance of learning first aid. First aid classes are stringent in their regulations and any one absent from three classes is automatically dropped.

Haitian Professor to Speak at Pan-American Luncheon

Dr. Camille Lherisson, professor of the faculty of medicine at Port-au-Prince, Haiti, will speak at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Harriet Hammond McCormick YWCA, 1001 North Dearborn street, at a luncheon of the Pan-American council. Dr. Lherisson is here as a guest of the state department.

THE Inquiring Cosmetic Girl

THE QUESTION:
What do you do for Dry, Sensitive Skin?

THE ANSWERS:

Jerry Anderson, 6317 N. Kenmore avenue—Dry skin made my face so uncomfortable that I'd have listened to any advice. Fortunately, a friend recommended PEAU SECHE Dry Skin Soap—and it has kept my skin fresh and healthy ever since. I've since become a regular user of other PEAU SECHE preparations and have quit worrying about the cosmetic problems that used to bother me.

Adelle Jenks, secretary, 6622 N. Glenwood avenue—Our neighborhood druggist is so cautious about ever recommending anything that I have complete confidence in whatever he says. I asked him to recommend something for dry and sensitive skin and he didn't hesitate a second in approving PEAU SECHE Dry Skin Soap and cosmetics. "It's a pleasure to sell them," he said—and I can add that its a pleasure to use them, thanks to their remarkable results.

(Wright & Laurence, Peau Seche Sales, Inc., 1½ North Michigan Avenue, will pay $2 for each true experience of Peau Seche users published.)

True Love Is No Respecter of Finances

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

From several men comes the same sad story. Their girls have given them the "air" because of finances. It isn't a very nice tale, and this editor is ashamed of her sex. Why do girls run out on their true loves in favor of other suitors they don't love, just because there's more money to spend?

Take, for instance, the opposite point of view. A girl is in love with a man. He is in love with her. He is young, and he hopes in the future to be able to ask his girl to be his wife. They go together for several years. He is at the bottom of the ladder of success, but is doing his best to get ahead. With encouragement from his girl friend ringing in his ears, he has a good chance to succeed. Many's the time he and she sit over a cup of coffee and dream sweet dreams of romance.

Then along comes another man, an older man. He has been thru the struggle and is now successful. He is able to court a girl in the manner to which she would like to become accustomed, and he succeeds in weaning her away from a less glamorous, but truer, love. What she feels for him usually is not love. Their ages are too far apart for true congeniality.

Often parental influence may cause a younger girl to turn against the man of her heart, merely because he is not making enough money to support her. There is good and bad in such influence. Time alone will tell if it is true love she feels, or if it is just a passing fancy. In any case, it is wise to wait and see if the love lasts. It is inadvisable for a girl not of age to be stubborn about being in love. She should go with others to make sure her particular heart interest is the one she loves best of all, before she decides to marry.

A girl who is old enough to know her own mind, and who is not swept off her feet emotionally, can often be the inspiration her love needs.

FASHIONS By ANGELA

It may be the cavalry for the boys. But it's cavalry twill for the girls. Cavalry twill is a rayon fabric, with a firm close weave, very closely resembling the well known wool twill used for dresses and suitings, and is also claimed to be wrinkle resistant. In this collection it is to be found in such appealing spring colors as bright red, light blue, aqua, navy, beige. If you are a junior size you'll find one of the several styles to be "just your type."

The first of the three twills is a two piecer, with a separate skirt box plaited in the front, and a cardigan style blouse. It is a navy blue with the pockets, sleeves, and front closing bound in red. Comes in several other colors, too. Under $7.

In the center is a figure in bright cherry red. In reality it can do double duty as a suit or as a dress. Substitute a blouse for the little white removable vestee and you have a light weight spring suit.

The third is known as the lobster dress. It is a warm beige color. And on the left shoulder reclines a lobster red crustacean. The fitted bodice buttons all the way down the back. Under $8.

PTA Leaders Create State Defense Post

In line with wartime service, the board of managers of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers yesterday created a new chairmanship to coördinate state defense activities with the program of the National Parent-Teacher congress. The person elected to the new post will have the title of chairman of citizenship and civilian service.

Instruction was given the committee on committees, which nominates the candidates for standing committee chairmanships, to include a nominee for the new post on the slate to be submitted to the state congress at its annual convention in April.

Full support was voted for the national organization's eight point defense program, covering public health, protection of minors, sale of defense stamps and bonds, conservation of educational and recreational services, the Victory Book campaign, family and community recreation, consumer education, and community coöperation with defense agencies.

Mrs. Paul H. Hahn of Chicago was named chairman of the nominating committee, which will select candidates for executive posts, and Mrs. P. L. Lazier of Mattoon was appointed chairman of the committee on committees.

Yesterday's session was the second of a two day meeting at the Stevens hotel.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 29.—W. C. Fields has begun shooting his part of the episodic, all-star "Tales of Manhattan." He plays a temperance lecturer! . . . Jack Benny has plenty of work ahead in the films. He's about to start at Warners' in "The Widow Wouldn't Weep." Same studio has tagged him for the Kaufman-Hart play, "George Washington Slept Here," and 20th-Fox will put him in "The Meanest Man in the World," the old Austin MacHugh comedy about a softhearted lawyer named Richard Clarke which George M. Cohan played in 1920. Morris Ryskind is doing the script of "Meanest Man."

Sam Goldwyn, sharpest trader in Hollywood, really outdid himself in the dicker with Paramount for Gary Cooper to play in "For Whom the Bell Tolls." I've mentioned before that part of the trade involved getting Sam Wood to direct Goldwyn's Lou Gehrig film first. This meant Wood had to postpone the start on FWTBT at Paramount. The rest of the deal is this: Goldwyn, who already had Paramount's Bob Hope for one picture to be done this year, gets Bob for a second picture. And getting Hope is just like getting a truckload of stuff from the basement at Fort Knox. Goldwyn also gets Gary Cooper under exclusive contract for three more years. It has been well known that Coop has been wanting to break with Goldwyn at the expiration of his present contract.

Ah, me! The Warners are now plotting one called "The Sons of the Fighting Sixty-Ninth." . . . John Payne will co-star with Betty Grable and Victor Mature in "White Collar Girl." It's Johns third dramatic rôle in succession—and he was hired as a song guy. He proved he could act in "Remember the Day." . . . Ann Ayars, newest Metro discovery, gets the lead again in the next Kildare flicker. She will sing in this one. . . . Phil Silvers has a new contract at 20th on account of his work with Ginger Rogers in "Roxie Hart," and is now acting with Bill Fields. . . . Paramount, like most studios, has a film about the commandos. This one is called "Channel Crossing" and David Rose will produce it in England with, he hopes, David Niven.

Betty Grable and Victor Mature to co-star in "White Collar Girl."

I've just heard of the horrors of Washington from a returning hotshot. Not a movie man, but chief engineer of an immense defense firm. He and two high aides went to Washington for conferences, put up at a hotel. The hotel situation is so bad that an unoccupied room is apt to be sold right out from under the guy who's registered in it. So, only two of the three important Californians went out on business at any one time. The third was left behind to patrol their rooms. As soon as the chambermaid made one up, he'd slip in, muss up the bed, soil a couple of towels, throw slippers and pajamas around and give the place a "still occupied" look.

Stories of hoarding are beginning to burn us common people in Hollywood. A producer, for instance, is reported to have ordered $2,000 worth of canned goods—wholesale rate, too—from the studio commissary, so he and his famous wife won't starve.

William Le Baron, at 20th-Fox, is preparing a film called "Greenwich Village," which will be nostalgic stuff about the 1920s. Frederick Hazlitt Brennan is working on the script. . . . George Sanders is an amateur songwriter and sings and plays his own stuff. He has done one called "Everything's Romantic," which Boris Morros likes and has promised to get published. . . . Why don't we call all the remakes of old pictures, of which there are so many now, recaps or retreads? . . . A committee consisting of one screen writer, one radio writer, and one publicity man has been formed to work with the Nisei—second generation American Japs—to sway Japanese opinion away from the homeland in the U. S. . . . In "Ship Ahoy" Eleanor Powell will wear a spun glass sarong. Do you suppose Dottie Lamour will throw a stone?

Newest movie organization is the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, incorporated at Sacramento today. Members are Charles Chaplin, Walt Disney, Sam Goldwyn, Alexander Korda, Mary Pickford, David O. Selznick, Walter Wanger, and Orson Welles—a class membership!

SHERIFF SLAYS CONSTABLE, SELF OVER 'WISECRACK'

Tempers, Triggers Snap in Texas Melee.

Houston, Tex., Jan. 29 [Special].—A resented "wisecrack" in bantering between county officials resulted today in swift gunplay in which Sheriff Norfleet Hill killed a constable, seriously wounded a deputy sheriff and then killed himself.

The account of the shooting read like a page from Texas' frontier days of quick tempers and quicker trigger fingering.

The drama began at a meeting of county commissioners and other Harris county officers in the Chamber of Commerce offices in downtown Houston this afternoon.

Banter Over Appointment.

Commissioner Tom Graham, brother of Constable Charlie Graham, who was slain, and the father of Special Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Graham, recounted that during the open discussion County Judge Roy Hofheinz said to Sheriff Hill: "Suppose you accidentally put a hijacker on as a $1 a year deputy?"

"There having been a lot of wisecracking," Commissioner Graham continued, "I said, just for the laugh; that if you put one of those on he probably would be put on at a regulary salary.

"I noticed that Sheriff Hill flushed and, when the meeting broke up a little later, I told him in the hall that I hoped he hadn't taken offense at my wisecrack, that it was just a matter of fun and that I had made it to my brother, Charlie, the same as I had to him.

Challenged Sheriff to Fight.

"Hill told me: 'You take care of your business and I'll take care of mine.' I said: 'All right, if that's the way you feel about it.' Then he pulled his gun and cocked it, holding it down at his side."

The commissioner said he told the sheriff he was unarmed and pulled up his coat to prove it, then turned his back and said: "Go ahead and shoot." He said he also challenged the sheriff to discard his gun and fight with his fists.

The two men were joined at that moment by Constable Charlie Graham, who had been a deputy sheriff under Hill but had resigned two years ago and had not been on friendly terms with the sheriff.

Commissioner R. J. Townsend said the two Graham brothers backed the sheriff into a corner and that Tom Graham started to hit him whereupon the sheriff drew his gun and said he was "tired of having Tom throw things into me every chance he gets."

"I walked into his office and put my commission card on the table," young Graham related, "and told Hill that I didn't want a commission from a man who would pull a gun on an unarmed man, especially when that man was my father.

Shot During Flight.

"The sheriff turned a funny color, got to his feet and pulled his automatic pistol. Uncle Charlie said: 'Let's get out of here son; he's going to shoot us.'"

The two Grahams ran with the sheriff following them and shooting. Constable Charlie Graham fell, struck by two bullets, whereupon the sheriff stood over him and fired a third bullet into his body. The younger man ducked into a nearby office narrowly missed by two bullets that pierced his coat tail.

Deputies seized the sheriff and forced him to return to his office. As they tried to get him to surrender his gun he said "All right," then pointed his gun at his chest and pulled the trigger. The bullet passed thru the sheriff's body and struck deputy Sheriff Ira Saunders, who had been trying to control his superior. Saunders was seriously wounded but was expected to recover.

Asks Hiring of Home Labor for Great Lakes Project

Mayor Frank Wallin of Waukegan yesterday requested contractors at Great Lakes Naval Training station, where a $30,000,000 enlargement program is in progress, to employ as many Lake county workmen as possible. Wallin said the presence of workmen from other towns while local men were unemployed was creating a housing crisis and that outsiders sleeping in automobiles and inadequate shelters constituted a menace to health.

BAPTIST PASTORS DECRY LYNCHING; WRITE PRESIDENT

The Baptist Ministers' conference of Chicago, yesterday sent a letter of protest to President Roosevelt against the lynching of Cleo Wright, a Negro at Sikeston, Mo., last Sunday. The protest was written in the name of 200 pastors and 125,000 church members.

"This comes at a time," the protest said, "when the best blood of our race is called upon to lay down their lives in the common cause of our democracy which guarantees every citizen of our great country the right of a trial by jury.

"While you are calling upon us to help save the world from the inhuman and merciless hands of cruel and heartless dictators, we, the leaders of a most loyal and faithful group of Americans, appeal to you as President of the United States and commander-in-chief of the army, navy, and air force, begging that while you are demanding legislation to prosecute the war, which is right, we feel that it is equally important to demand legislation to stop these undemocratic atrocities."

The letter was signed by the Rev. F. B. Hawkins, president of the conference.

CLOSE HEARINGS ON PETITION FOR 'L' FARE BOOST

The Illinois Commerce commission yesterday completed hearings on the elevated lines' petition for an emergency increase in fares from 10 to 12 cents and an increase from 10 to 13 cents on intercompany rides. The latter are rides involving transfers between the elevated system and the street car and bus lines.

The commission took the case under advisement. Chairman John D. Biggs indicated that some time will be taken to study the evidence before a ruling is made. Thomas L. Marshall, attorney for the "L," in answer to a question from Biggs, said the commission should have been prepared to rule last night because of the elevated's urgent need for revenues.

Herbert M. Johnson, another attorney for the company, closed his argument yesterday by reiterating that the system is suffering an annual loss of $1,400,000 a year. He estimated the proposed increase in fares would bring in $1,700,000 additional revenue, making $300,000 in net operating income after expenses.

3 FERRY PILOTS DIE AS BOMBER FALLS IN SWAMP

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 29 (AP).—Three army ferry command pilots on a routine training flight were killed late today when their bomber plunged into a swamp with a terrific impact and burned completely.

The ferry command officer here said the men, all civilians and all married, were: Paul F. Diehl, 32 years old, Baltimore; George L. Cowell, age unknown, Baltimore, and Alden C. Bentley, 37, New Hope, Pa.

Ferry command officers said the plane, believed to have been piloted by Diehl, crashed in a clump of trees within five miles of the Glenn L. Martin plant airport from which it had taken off shortly before the crash.

Chicago CIO Council Gives John Lewis Another Slap

The action of Philip Murray and the executive board of the Congress of Industrial Organiaztions on the proposal for peace and unity of labor during the war was approved last night by the Chicago Industrial Union council representing 200,000 CIO workers in the Chicago area. Its action was regarded as a slap at John L. Lewis, former CIO president.

CHARGE FORMER POLICE CHIEF HID SLAYING CLEWS

He Knew Welsh Bought Knife, Jury Asserts.

Kansas City, Jan. 29 (AP).—The Jackson county grand jury which indicted George W. Welsh II. for the murder of his sister asserted in a report today that Lear B. Reed, former chief of police, had concealed evidence and obstructed other enforcement agencies in the Welsh investigation. Reed is now general auditor of Montgomery Ward & Co. in Chicago.

Lear B. Reed.

The jury report stated that on last March 22, 13 days after Leila Adele Welsh was beaten and hacked to death, "L. B. Reed as chief of police had important information positively identifying the defendant George W. Welsh Jr., as the purchaser of the knife with which the victim's throat was cut. Why this evidence was not followed thru to a prompt, public, logical and immediate conclusion still remains a source of mystery to this jury."

Jury Wants More Time.

No formal charge was lodged against Reed but the assertions were contained in the jury's report to Judge Marion D. Waltner asking permission to stay in session longer.

In his charge to the jury last Dec. 9 Judge Waltner asked for an investigation of the Welsh case and, without mentioning Chief Reed's name, referred to "a certain dime novel detective who said two days afterward that he could reach out and put his finger on the perpetrator. Then he proceeded to destroy the evidence.

Judge Urged Investigation.

"The time has ceased to be when we can boast of a fine police department as long as this case remains unsolved," he said. "I don't know what the grand jury can do, but it may be there are things you gentlemen can look into."

Judge Waltner quarreled with former Gov. Lloyd Stark during the Tom Pendergast investigations in Kansas City. He threatened to cite the governor for contempt.

REED REFUSES TO TALK.

Lear B. Reed, former chief of police of Kansas City, Mo., and now general auditor of Montgomery Ward & Co., was asked yesterday about the slaying. When he indicated he would say nothing about the grand jury's report, he was questioned about his connection with the crime, inasmuch as he was chief of police at the time.

"I have no comment to make," Reed replied to all questions, "because I do not believe it would be appropriate for me to make any statement at this time."

Reed came to Chicago Sept. 1, 1941.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 29 (AP).—Syd Howe banged two goals past Sammy Lo Presti tonight to give the Detroit Red Wings a 2 to 0 victory over the Chicago Blackhawks in a National Hockey league game before 7,164. It was Goalie Johnny Mowers' third shutout and the Wings' third victory in five games with the Hawks.

The 30 year old Howe was honored before the game for his feat of leading Detroit scorers the last two years. Syd then made a mockery of the tradition that honored athletes never star. Only a diving stop by Lo Presti kept Syd from a third goal.

Wings Keep Fifth Place.

Howe got his stick on a shot from the blue line by Jack Stewart and deflected it into the nets midway thru the second period. Syd connected again in the third period on a pass from the boards by Joe Carveth. The victory enabled Detroit to hold fifth place by half a game over the Brooklyn Americans.

Detroit fans presented Howe with a piano and other gifts. Syd tickled the ivories at center ice to the delight of the fans, then scored his game winning goals as an encore.

Rookie Bill Mosienko flew in from Kansas City and replaced the injured Doug Bentley in the Hawks' lineup.

Leafs Gain on Hawks.

The Hawks lost ground in the fight for third place with the Toronto Maple Leafs. The Hawks left immediately after the game for Chicago, where they meet Montreal in the Stadium Sunday night.

BREADON TELLS WOMEN'S STAND ON TWILIGHT BALL

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 29 (AP).—Sam Breadon, a gentleman with consideration for the little lady who leans over a hot stove all day, is convinced mom won't like twilight baseball.

She isn't going to have dinner ready at 4 or 5 o'clock, Sam says, and she isn't going to be toiling in the kitchen holding the evening meal until 8:30 or 9 o'clock either.

"I can't see where twilight games would go here at all," the president of the St. Louis Cardinals asserted today.

"What time would you start the games? Four o'clock? That wouldn't do and it really wouldn't be a twilight game. And a late start like that would delay dinner far past the usual hour. The housewife would object to that.

"If you'd start the games at 5 or 6 o'clock the fans wouldn't have time to get home for dinner before the game. If they waited until after the game the kitchen would be kept busy until 9 or 10. Can you imagine the uproar that would cause in our homes?"

Breadon believes that 14 night games for each club will take care of the situation without resort to twilight contests. He is not in favor of more than 14 games under the lights, however, because he feels the attendance won't hold up.

CHICAGO SKATE STARS OFF TODAY FOR LA CROSSE

Chicago's leading ice skaters will depart today from the Union station for LaCrosse, Wis., where they will compete in the national outdoor meet tomorrow and Sunday. The delegation will be larger than the group which competed in the North American meet in St. Paul last week end. The skaters will be led by Steve Gadus, representative of the Catholic Youth organization and Scott Field, Ill., who won the men's senior title in the Tribune Silver Skates Derbies.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

PANTS ROWLAND, president of the Los Angeles Angels and the manager of the last team to win a world championship for Chicago, was born on Lincoln's birthday, 1879, but never split a rail in his life. . . .

Immediately after announcement of the rubber shortage the Blackhawks passed around handbills asking customers in Chicago Stadium to toss back the pucks that fly into the crowd. . . . For several weeks not a puck was returned, but since that time not a one has been retained by a souvenir fanatic. . . . Increasing war consciousness is the only reason given. . . . Jack Graf, Ohio State basketball captain, and Bobby Faught, sophomore center on the Notre Dame five, were teammates at a Columbus, O., high school. . . . President Will Harridge of the American league will take Earl Hilligan, the organization's new publicity chief, to New York for next week's joint meeting with the National to introduce him to league magnates and eastern sports writers. . . . This will be the first spring in a decade that New Orleans will have no exhibition major league games. . . . Jess Willard collected $80,000 in Liberty bonds and $20,000 in cash when he lost the heavyweight championship to Jack Dempsey at Toledo in 1919. . . . Appointment of Ray Eliot as head football coach at Illinois was indorsed heartily by Bob Zuppke. . . . "He's young, thoro, and enthusiastic," the retired leader of the Illini said yesterday. . . . "I never questioned the loyalty of Eliot or Doug Mills and I am glad they have been promoted," Zuppke stated. . . .

Tom Robinson, Northwestern's veteran swimming coach, is the only member of the athletic staff who was at Northwestern during World War I. . . . Because of a shortage of coaches he also served as basketball and wrestling instructor. . . . Still hale and hearty at 60, Robinson says he can duplicate his 1918 performance, if the emergency warrants. . . . He is the only swimming coach the Wildcats have had. . . . Clark Shaughnessy says his greatest thrills as a football coach were Tulane's victory over Northwestern in 1925 and Stanford's victory over Nebraska in the 1941 Rose bowl game. . . . If the White Sox refuse to rent Comiskey park to the National league Cubs for night games, the National league Giants could even the score by refusing the Polo Grounds to the American league Yankees for nocturnal baseball. . . . Pacific Coast league teams made virtually no plans for spring training until President Roosevelt's "go-ahead" letter to Commissioner Landis. . . . Now they are taking a mail ballot. . . ."Ed Schwartzkopf, a guard on Nebraska's Rose bowl eleven, recently was commissioned a second lieutenant in the army. . . . He started as a buck private with the Nebraska National Guard.

Some Forty-Five Years Ago.

I would like to go back to the world
I once knew,
Some forty-five years ago,
When houses were homes, and divorces were few,
And children took longer to grow,
When Sundays were Sabbaths, and chapels were shrines,
And people to churches would throng,
When customs and modes were of simple designs,
And the evenings were hallowed with song.

The home was a haven of bliss in those days,
Then, women were different to men,
And girls had no need to powder the face,
It was just as God painted it then,
When friends unto friends would stick like a glue,
And neighbors their kindliness

I would like to go back to the world

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 29 [Special].—For the fourth straight time Iowa cooled in the second period after holding a half-time advantage, and this time it resulted in a 53 to 51 defeat at the hands of Kansas in the Hawkeyes final nonconference game.

Paced by Charles Black and Ralph Miller, Kansas forwards who scored 27 points between them, the Jayhawks tied the score less than a minute after the second half had opened and then took a lead that they never lost. It was the second meeting of the two teams in 40 years.

Seventh in Row.

Kansas, co-holder of first place in the Big Six, took advantage of superior play under the board to score its seventh victory in eight starts. Iowa, in the throes of a four game losing streak, has won 6 and lost 6.

Iowa opened at a fast pace and in two minutes held an 8 to 3 margin. The visitors threatened several times, pulling within 1 or 2 points, but Iowa staved off the drives and held a 29 to 25 lead at the end of the first period.

Jayhawks Take Lead.

Two quick field goals, one by Miller and one by John Buescher, in the first minute of the second half, tied the score at 29 to 29. Th e Jayhawks then increased their lead to 6 points, but with two minutes remaining Iowa pulled up to 49 to 51.

T. P. Hunter connected with a pair of free throws while Bernard Duffe and Tommy Chapman each got one for Iowa. Twice Iowa took the ball out of bounds on fouls in the last minute of play, but both times the Jayhawks broke up the plays.

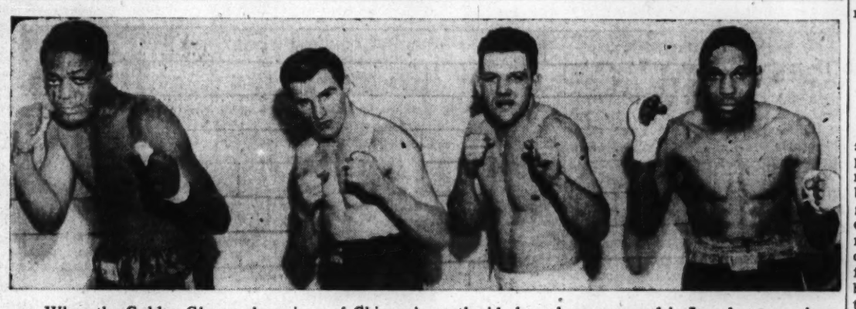
At Fall River, Mass.—Eddie Ellis beat Pete Muscarnera [8].

South Side Is Ready, the North Almost



When the Golden Gloves champions of Chicago's north side have been crowned in Loyola gymnasium tonight, these lads from the south side, who already have won their crowns, will be among those waiting to meet them in the Coliseum for city honors the night of Feb. 12. Left to right, Walter Moore, heavyweight novice; Bob Dorgan, 135 pound open; Joe Kaposta, light heavyweight novice; Thomas James, 147 pound open. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

The lads in Uncle Sam's navy can fight in the ring, as well as on the sea, and it takes more than one punch to slow them up. In this picture of last night's action at Loyola, Jack Ross of Navy pier (right) is absorbing a hard wallop from Patrick Finnegan of the Duncan YMCA, but the gob came back to win the decision in the 160 pound novice class.

This sailor, Horace Lindo, lost a close decision to Henry Delulio of the Midwest A. C. in the 118 pound open class, but he was in there slugging all the way. He is receiving the condolences of his coach, Lieut. Jim McMillen, former Illinois and Chicago Bears football star.

Service Men to Watch Yanks Without Cost

New York, Jan. 29 (AP).—The New York Yankees announced tonight that they would admit service men in uniform free to all their games next season.

"Regardless of what other clubs do, soldiers, sailors, and marines will be admitted free to Yankee stadium during the coming season on any day they may desire, whether it is a weekday, Saturday, Sunday, or a holiday," said President Edward G. Barrow.

The Yankees are the first major league club to announce this sweeping policy.

In Pittsburgh, William E. Benswanger, president of the National league Pirates said: "We will go along with some such plan. Just what it will be I cannot say now because we haven't had opportunity to make a thoro study. But we let the boys in during the last war and we will do so again."

INDIANS VETO BONUSES.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 29 (AP).—Deciding not to involve the players in this season's war created attendance gambles, the Cleveland baseball club mailed contracts today without the expected bonus clauses.

OUT-OF-TOWN BOUTS TONIGHT.
Cleveland Plain Dealer finals.
Milwaukee Journal second round.
Nashville Tennessean city finals.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

This is the night when the north side picks its Golden Gloves champions. For the third consecutive evening, a hard hitting band of amateur boxers will hammer away in Loyola gymnasium—and when it's all over eight open division fighters and eight novices will be on their feet, still undefeated and all set to go toward further engagements in the All-City bouts in the Coliseum Feb. 12. There they will match their skill, man for man, against the south side champions who emerged from the recent tournament in St. Sabina's gymnasium.

The crowd which jams Loyola gymnasium tonight will see 34 bouts. There will be semi-finals and finals in open and novice divisions. Harold Dade, a Golden Gloves champion of 1940 and 1941—a lad who went thru the city meet, thru the tournament of champions and thru the finals—will try again, this time in the bantamweight class. His previous successes had been scored in the flyweight division.

He Meets Mr. Delulio.

Dade's opponent tonight will be Henry Delulio of the Midwest A. C. Last night Delulio showed hitting power and boxing skill in beating out a decision over Horace Lindo, one of the strongest members of the United States navy team, which has contributed so much colorful fighting to the North Side tournament.

Bob O'Brien of the Larabee YMCA and Jimmy Warner of the Ashland A. C., a pair of enthusiastic and determined novices, drew tremendous applause thruout their engagement in the 135 pound clash.

O'Brien hit his opponent with everything from an uppercut to a right cross, but it didn't make a bit of difference to Warner. He came right back and slugged it out until it seemed a tossup which one would drop first. Neither of them would give up and at the finish the judges were forced to draw a hairline decision. They gave the bout to O'Brien.

The Navy fighters, who have been training under Jim McMillen, continued to show strength. Jack Ross scored a decision in a close bout with Pat Finnegan of the Duncan YMCA. A series of hard lefts to the jaw in the second round was the decisive factor. One of these, a sharp hook, sent Finnegan to his knees as he charged in.

Fisher Gives Up.

Another navy boxer, Frank Rhodes, pounded his opponent thru the ropes just before the end of the first round to win his 160 pound novice engagement. The victim was Walter Fisher of the 27 club. The bell rang immediately after Fisher tumbled clear of the ring and down into the aisle, but his seconds conceded the fight to Rhodes without attempting to bring their man back for the second round.

Cleveland will be the first of the out of town centers to pick its representatives for the Tournament of Champions. Finals will be held in this city tonight. In other seasons, Cleveland has sent in some of the most consistently strong teams in the entire field. Last year two of its boys won championships—George Horne in

Tonight Is Title Night

All Golden Gloves bouts offer a full quota of thrills, but when the time comes to battle for championships interest reaches fever pitch. This is the set-up for tonight's show in Loyola gymnasium, where 16 champions, eight in the novice and eight in the open division, will be crowned.

And that's not all! The 32 champions from Chicago's north and south sides will meet for the City Golden Gloves titles in the Coliseum on Feb. 12. Then comes the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 23, 24 and 25. Mail orders for reserved seats are being accepted for the two latter events. Order now, if you want good seats. The scale of prices:

CHICAGO FINALS, Feb. 12, $1.10 and $1.65.
TOURNAMENT OF CHAMPIONS, Feb. 23 and 24—50 cents, 75 cents and $1.10.
TOURNAMENT OF CHAMPIONS, third night, Feb. 25—75 cents, $1.10 and $1.65.

GUS LESNEVICH AND BOB PASTOR FIGHT TONIGHT

Winner to Be Sentenced to Face Louis.

New York, Jan. 29 (AP).—The top comeback kids of boxing in 1941—Bob Pastor and Gus Lesnevich—will collide in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night for the dubious pleasure of getting a crack at Joe Louis in a couple of months.

The winner will receive Promoter Mike Jacobs' first consideration when he comes to naming the Bomber's opponent for a heavyweight title bout for the Army Relief fund in March. But off Joe's most recent bit of sleep producing, in which he sang a swift lullaby for Buddy Baer, it is doubtful if the chance for tomorrow's victory can be construed as much of a reward.

Gives Pastor a Chance.

At any rate this bout gives Pastor an opportunity to prove to the homefolks that he's capable of showing them a new kind of Robert, something he hasn't accomplished in his local outings in recent years. And it gives Lesnevich, the light-heavyweight boss, a chance to move into the heavyweight ranks against one of the bigger set's leading citizens.

Promoter Jacobs expects 10,000 of the faithful to chip in a gross pot of $25,000 for the privilege of being on hand.

Off his neat, if not gaudy, goings on of the last year, Pastor is the choice at 5 to 8 to outgallop Gus this time. For while the rugged Russian from Jersey was doing a fair job in winning the 175 pound championship, Bob belted over such good men as Turkey Thompson [twice], Booker Beckwith, at a time that battler was the hottest thing around Chicago, and Al Delaney. Lesnevich, meantime, took the light-heavyweight crown from Anton Christoforidis and defended it against Tami Mauriello.

Pastor Rated Superior.

Pastor's boxing skill and speed should keep Gus guessing over the 10 round route and prevent the Jersey Jolter from finding the range with his bigger guns, altho most of Pastor's trips to the post in the Garden in the past have left something to be desired—even in the opinion of James Joy Johnston, his manager and sincerest [and loudest] booster.

One of the supporting six round bouts on the card has attracted considerable local interest. In this one Freddie Pope, a fastcoming young bantamweight from Columbus, O., makes his Garden debut against Johnny Juliano of Paterson, N. J.

PLATAK TO MEET FISKE TODAY IN HANDBALL FINAL

Joe Platak of the Lake Shore club, seven times national handball champion, and Russell Fiske of the Evanston YMCA last night advanced to the final round of the Central AAU state singles tournament in the Midwest Athletic club, 6 North Hamlin avenue. They will meet for the championship at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Platak gained the finals by eliminating Mill Baier of the Division Street YMCA, 21-3, 21-5. Fiske obtained the right to oppose Platak by defeating Paddy Cannon, Midwest AC, 21-12, 21-12. Baier and Cannon will meet for third place after the Platak-Fiske championship contest.

CALIENTE PLANS RACING AS USUAL DESPITE THREAT

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Jan. 29 (AP).—In the absence of any formal order to close the $2,000,000 Caliente race track, club officials said today entries would be received tomorrow as usual for Sunday's program.

Gov. Culbert Olson of California last night urged motorists not to use highways in going to and from horse racing at Caliente, and stated if they do not comply voluntarily, "steps probably will be taken to prevent the crossing of the border for this diversion."

Advise: Play Service Teams

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

"Play service teams" was the advice given colleges yesterday by three new marine corps majors, up to a few weeks ago college football coaches. They are taking refresher courses at Quantico, Va. Left to right, Bernie Bierman, coach of Minnesota's champions; Pat Hanley, Boston university, and Ray Hanson, Macomb Teachers.

Nashville Nears Finish.

Nashville, a center which draws boxers from four states, will complete its city tournament tonight. This will clear the way for its regional event, ir which fighters from Kentucky, Alabama, Mississippi, and Tennessee will compete.

In addition to Cleveland and Nashville, Milwaukee will run off Golden Gloves bouts tonights. The second round of that tournament is scheduled. Next week and the one after will be the busiest period of all in the out of town centers, where newspapers and radio stations are coöperating with Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in the sponsorship of eliminations. During this time, most of the invading squads will be selected. Then all will come together in the Chicago Stadium for one of the most spectacular events in the entire realm of sport—the Tournament of Champions.

Say Sport Is Needed

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 (AP).—Three marine majors recruited from the footbal coaching ranks agreed today that the nation needed athletics now more than ever and endorsed proposals that colleges schedule regular contests with service teams.

Maj. Bernie Bierman, former Minnesota coach, said the quality of college football in 1942 was bound to be lower because of the war. He added, "but I believe it'll be a good football year, regardless. The colleges should help out in every possible way by booking regular contests with teams from the military camps."

Maj. Pat Hanley, former coach at Boston university, declared that any college that fails to schedule service teams will be missing the boat.

Maj. Ray Hanson from Macomb Teachers college, said "the service teams are there, and the colleges will just have to play them."

Bierman, Hanson, and Hanley are now stationed at the marine base at Quantico, Va. Currently, they are taking refresher courses in military tactics. Another marine major, former Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern, will join them at Quantico next week, Bierman said.

Pellegrini Has Loyal Rooter; It's the Missus

BY FRANK MASTRO.

"If Vince can't beat that fellow I'll make him quit fighting!"

That's what Mrs. Alice Pellegrini, attractive wife of Vince Pellegrini, had to say after Eddie Miller, Catholic Youth organization lightweight, was awarded a decision over Henry Nichols in a Golden Gloves sectional semi-final bout in Loyola university gymnasium last night.

Mrs. Pellegrini, who was scouting the fighters for her husband, was referring to Miller, whom Vince will meet tonight for the right to represent the north side in the city finals on Feb. 12.

Vince Whips Bausone.

Pellegrini qualified for this evening's championship round by defeating Frankie Bausone of the CYO on Wednesday and then winning by default from William Jordan of the Savoy A. C. last night.

Pellegrini, who recently observed his 25th birthday, first appeared in Golden Gloves competition as a novice bantamweight in 1934, but failed to reach the championship round. Undiscouraged, he came back as a featherweight the following year, only to fail short of his goal again.

He's Confident Now.

Vince, who is employed as a grocery clerk at 5734 Madison street, went to the west section semi-finals in 1939. That's the farthest he's traveled on the long, hard road to a Chicagoland title. Now he's supremely confident of reaching his goal—a diamond studded golden glove, the most coveted prize in the sport.

Pellegrini has engaged in approximately 100 fights, winning more than 70 per cent of them. He was one of the Madison Athletic club's stars in recent Chicagoland Amateur Boxing league fighting, his victims including Joe McGinnis of Fort Sheridan and Ralph Lopez of Camp Grant.

Livingston E. Osborne, director of conservation for Illinois and a veteran Golden Gloves official, last night made his first appearance as a judge in the 1942 tournament.

MILITARY RITES PAY HONORS TO DON McCARNES

Logansport, Ind., Jan. 29 [Special].—A military funeral was held here today for Air Cadet Don McCarnes, former Logansport High school athlete and Northwestern university basketball star, who was killed Monday when his army training plane crashed near Altheimer, Ark.

University and high school officials and athletes from all parts of the state, including Arthur [Dutch] Lonborg, basketball coach at Northwestern, and several of McCarnes former teammates at the Evanston, Ill., institution, attended the services.

More than 500 persons crowded the Broadway Methodist church for the rites. A color guard and firing squad from Cass county post of the American Legion accompanied the body to Shiloh cemetery.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 29 (AP).—The Toronto Maple Leafs strengthened their hold on third place in the National Hockey league tonight by beating Montreal's last place Canadiens, 7 to 3, in a rough game featured by a free for all fight in the third period.

A crowd of 10,295 saw the contest, which was mild until the early minutes of the third session, when a battle broke out involving every player on the ice. Both goal tenders joined in the brawl, altho their efforts were mostly by way of interference.

To add to the confusion there was a power failure just after the brawl started.

The Leafs were leading, 3 to 2, when Ken Reardon, Montreal defense man, and Bingo Kampman of Toronto's rear guard started to push each other around behind the Toronto goal. It was the signal for fireworks and players paired off for slugging bouts. Lineup:

RAY ELIOT NAMED ILLINOIS' HEAD FOOTBALL COACH

Pick Ralph Fletcher to Tutor Back Field Men.

On Air Tonight

RAY ELIOT, newly appointed football coach at the University of Illinois, will be interviewed tonight by Bob Elson on his W-G-N sports review at 6:15 o'clock. It will be Eliot's first Chicago broadcast in his new rôle.

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 29 [Special].—The University of Illinois this afternoon followed up the appointment of Ray Eliot as its new head football coach by promoting Ralph E. Fletcher to the position of varsity back field coach. Fletcher has been head freshman coach since the fall of 1939.

Fletcher's promotion was announced by Douglas R. Mills, director of athletics, following consultation with and approval by Eliot. Appointment of Eliot as head varsity coach was announced this morning upon notification of his selection by the university's athletic board of control. L. M. Tobin, publicity director of the athletic association, said that the trustees of the university will meet Feb. 14 and are scheduled to approve Eliot's selection. The trustees already have been contacted and some of them have unofficially voiced approval.

Takes Mills' Back Field Job.

Eliot, head line coach last season, succeeds Robert C. Zuppke, who announced his resignation last Nov. 17, five days before completing 29 seasons in the same capacity. Fletcher takes over the back field coaching position held by Mills, who hereafter will limit his duties to director of athletics and head basketball coach.

The athletic board decided upon Eliot during a meeting in Chicago on Tuesday night. Waldo B. Ames of River Forest, president of the board, conveyed the recommendation to Dr. Arthur Cutts Willard, president of the university.

Eliot, a native of Brighton, Mass., came to Illinois as a freshman 13 years ago with only $8 in his pocket, worked his way thru school, and despite poor eyesight was a catcher on the baseball team and played guard on the football team, becoming one of Zuppke's most apt pupils. He wore glasses while working behind the plate. He was graduated in 1932.

Coaches at Illinois College.

The same year he started five seasons as a coach at Illinois college in Jacksonville—the last four as head football coach. He came back to the state university as an assistant line coach in 1937 and was elevated to head line coach in 1941, superseding the veteran Justa M. Lindgren.

Eliot is 36 years old. He resides here with his wife and a daughter, Jane, 8 years old. His salary will be $6,000, the same as that of Director Mills.

His appointment ended a long controversy started in 1938 when Zuppke, apparently under pressure, was asked to resign. The board of trustees refused to accept his resignation. A smouldering feud between Zuppke and Wendell S. Wilson, then director of athletics, ensued. Last summer Wilson was asked to resign. Mills then was appointed acting director. He was named director one day after Zuppke's resignation as coach last November. Zuppke was retired on a pension of $4,000 annually. Previously he received a salary of $10,000.

Eliot Is Enthusiastic.

Eliot enthusiastically accepted the job and endorsed Fletcher's promotion as back field coach in the first move to assemble a staff. No successor to Fletcher as freshman coach was announced.

Fletcher, a native of Morris, Ill., was a half back on Illinois' Western conference championship teams of 1918 and 1919, and on the 1920 team.

Jimmy Smith, captain-elect of the 1942 Illinois team, was elated over Eliot's appointment.

"This is just what the players wanted," Smith said. "We have been for him 100 per cent. We know he is the man for us. He knows his football and is inspiring."

Smith headed a group of players who rushed to the gymnasium and cheered their new coach when they met him in the corridor.

ST. JOHN'S WINS.

Delafield, Wis., Jan. 29 [Special].—The St. John's Military academy hockey team defeated Shorewood High school this afternoon, 2 to 1.

A Zuppke Pupil Takes Over His Job

The new head coach takes luncheon with his family. Mrs. Eliot pours and that's daughter Jane, age 8, on the right.

Mishawaka, Central Fives Clash Tonight

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 29 [Special].—South Bend Central will entertain Mishawaka tomorrow night in an eastern division Northern Indiana conference high school basketball game.

Central, 30 to 28 winner over Mishawaka earlier this season, will risk a perfect conference mark of six straight triumphs. Mishawaka has lost the last four basketball meetings between the two schools.

There are two other conference games tomorrow night. Michigan City plays at La Porte and Elkhart at Nappanee. Nonleague games are South Bend Washington at Angola, South Bend Adams at Plymouth, and Fort Wayne North Side at Fort Wayne Central.

Other Northern Indiana games tomorrow night:

DU SABLE AT MT. CARMEL

Du Sable High's senior basketball squad, which has notions of winning the Public School league championship this season, tonight will oppose Mount Carmel of the Catholic league in Mount Carmel gymnasium. The game, which will start at 7:30 o'clock is one of the feature contests on the day's heavy schedule.

Edward Joe Weidner regained the Big Eight conference scoring lead last week by scoring 18 points in Elgin's 48 to 25 victory over Joliet. . . . He has 66 points in six games, while Gerry Dirksen, Freeport center, has 58 in five. . . . Taft and Steinmetz will meet today in a double header on the Steinmetz floor. . . . Horace Mann, unbeaten in nine games in the western division of the Northern Indiana conference, faces Washington High in East Chicago tonight. . .

Phil Murphy has been named captain of Morton's 1942 track squad. . . . Culver Military academy will engage Cranbrook School of Detroit, Mich., in basketball and wrestling in Culver tomorrow. . . . Bill Berberian, Thornton forward, is rated by Coach Jack Lipe as the best sharpshooter he has handled since Lou Boudreau played on the Harvey team in 1935.

Morton High, which suffered defeats at the hands of Paris and Evanston, will be idle tonight. . . . Evanston, however, will meet Proviso in Maywood in one of the three games scheduled in the Suburban league. . . . The Big Eight conference wrestling tournament will be held in Joliet on Feb. 21.

LETOURNER-AUDY GRAB FIRST PLACE IN BICYCLE GRIND

Three Teams Tie for 2d in Coliseum.

Bike Standings

10I8T HOUR.

	Miles.	Laps.	Pts.

Pesek-Abt	1,685	5	183
Kuehn-Eller	1,685	5	182
Rodman-J. DeBacco	1,685	0	118

Leader—Letourner.

The taped up six day circuit riders who have been chasing themselves around the Coliseum's pine bowl for the last few nights gave their bruises a break last evening. But the boys and girls who drape themselves over the infield rail hour on hour didn't mind seeing just on spill, for they got their money's worth in serious riding.

What had been a fairly quiet evening went to pieces just before midnight when Alfred Letourner of France and Jules Audy of Montreal, rode into the undisputed lead in a surprise maneuver which caught their fellow toilers flat on their bicycle seats. The riding of Letourner and Audy broke up a three-way deadlock for first place which they had shared with Cecil Yates and Doug Peden, the American team, and Angelo DeBacco and Charley Bergna, known as the jamming team.

Alf Goes to Town.

In helping gain the three-way split with the Yates-Peden and DeBacco-Bergna combinations, Letourner startled old time bike fans by flashing the brilliance which had made him a Chicago favorite in other years. When Letourner and Audy pushed their luck by turning burglar to take the race-leading lap, the faithful let loose a roar that must have cheered the leaders of Chicago's 44th international chase.

A few moments later the feat of Letourner and Audy was forgotten in the spill taken by Erwin Pesek, one-half of the Catholic Youth organization combination. Pesek slid headlong from the top of the saucer into the rail when one of his tires blew out during the midnight sprints. Pesek suffered severe burns on one arm and leg, but resumed riding after five minutes.

Thieves Keep Busy.

In all 17 laps were stolen before midnight, bringing the week's total to 121. Five of the pilfered furlongs were ripped off in 15 minutes as the riders snapped out of their lethargy.

In a three way tie for second place at midnight were the combinations of Cecil Yates-Doug Peden, Angelo De Bacco-Charley Bergna, and Torchy Peden-Charley Yaccino. The first two of the trio had shared the lead for the previous 24 hours. These pairs remained the chief threats to the leading Red Devils in the minds of trackisiders. A two way tie for third place existed between the pairs of Charley Logan-Bill Anderson and Bill Jacoby-Ed Carfagnini. Two other duos shared fourth place. They were Pesek-Mike Abt and Bill Kuehn-Johnny Eller. In last place were Jerry Rodman and Joe De Bacco, almost a mile in arrears.

Honor Pop Brennan.

The infield customers got a chance to cheer one of bike racing's old timers, Pop Brennan of New York, who sees that the lads engaged in the merry-go-round get their steeds serviced. Brennan, 40 years in the game as a rider and a mechanic, celebrated his 55th birthday anniversary last night. He was presented a traveling bag by Reggie [Iron Man] McNamara in behalf of the riders. McNamara, the boys and girls in the infield recalled, has seen a lot of rubber tires himself. Results of sprints:

Milwaukee Bowler Takes Lead in Petersen Classic with 1,720

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

Ollie Rogahn, one of Milwaukee's leading bowlers, rolled seven good games in eight tries and thereby took the lead in the Petersen individual classic last night with a total score of 1,720. He was the first of the many shooters who have been firing at the Archer-35th Recreation since last Saturday to reach 1,700. The previous leader had been Harold Asplund of Denver, Colo., who got 1,692 Sunday.

Rogahn started with 197, then added 246, 228, 214, 227, 177, 198, and 233. He needed a big game at the finish after his mediocre 177 in the eighth and somewhat better 198 in the ninth and drew a cheer when he was able to produce it.

Magdus Is Second.

John Magdus of Toledo was second on last night's opening squad, shooting 1,649, which put him in 16th place in the standings. Then came three members of the world champion Vogel Brothers of Forest Park, Jim Frana, John Erben, and George Vogel. Frana and Erben each shot 1,630 and Vogel 1,604.

Last night's results:

7 O'CLOCK SQUAD.

Ollie Rogahn, Milwaukee, 1,720; John Magdus, Toledo, 1,649; Jim Frana, Forest Park, 1,630; John Erben, Forest Park, 1,630; George Vogel, Forest Park, 1,604; Harold J. Grogan, Chicago, 1,594; Clare Steinke, Chicago, 1,568; A. C. Bruins, Oshkosh Meet Tonight in Benefit Contest

Appleton, Wis., Jan. 29 [Special].—The Chicago Bruins and Oshkosh All-Stars of the National Basketball league will meet in an exhibition basketball contest which features an infantile paralysis fund program here tomorrow night. The Bruins and Oshkosh teams then will move over to the latter's home court in Oshkosh Saturday night to meet in a league game, their final meeting of the regular season. The two teams still have another game to play in Chicago.

Oshkosh, a certain participant in the playoffs due to the fact that it now leads the league with 12 victories against two defeats, already hold two victories over the Chicagoans, having defeated them 50 to 46 in Oshkosh and 42 to 29 in Chicago.

However, since the last meeting between the two teams the Bruins have won three of four league games.

HIGH SCORER AT MARQUETTE IS RULED INELIGIBLE

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 29 [Special].—Jack Dentinger, 6 foot 6 inch sophomore center and high scorer on the Marquette university basketball team, today was declared ineligible. He will not play against Notre Dame in South Bend Saturday night. Dentinger, who throws the discus 160 feet, also will be missed by the Marquette track team.

Star Bowlers Meet Tonight for Polio Fund

Twenty of the nation's leading bowlers, 10 representing Chicago and a like number from outside the city will meet in two of three special matches scheduled in the Playdium tonight for the benefit of the national infantile paralysis fund. Eight of the 10 stars from outside Chicago, including Match Champion Ned Day, and a like number of the city's representatives are bowlers who participated in The Tribune's All-Star tournament last month.

The program is to start at 11 p. m., following Playdium women's league competition, and will include a match between five stars of the Playdium women's circuit and a team of men who are more than 60 years old. On the women's team will be Celia Wisandy, Catherine Fellmeth, Nina Van Camp, Ruth Hartman, and Dorothy Miller.

The Chicago Classic league team will have Herb Freitag, Joe Sinke, Harry Ledene Jr., Bill Flesch, and Paul Krumske and will meet a quintet composed of Tony Sparando and Joe Falcaro of New York; Connie Schwoegler, Madison, Wis., and Joe Norris and Johnny Crimmins of Detroit. On the other Chicago team will be Joe Wilman, Eli Maricich, Leo Faetz, Bud Wright, and Ad Carlson. It will meet Nelson Burton of St. Louis, Frank Benkovic, Cincinnati; Charlie Lausche, Cleveland; Hank Marino, Milwaukee, and Day.

KANSAS ALUMNI HONOR PLAYERS, COACH TONIGHT

Observe Basketball's 50th Anniversary.

Chicago alumni of the University of Kansas tonight will greet the Jayhawk basketball team and its veteran coach, Forrest C. [Phog] Allen, at a dinner meeting at 157 East Ohio street, starting at 6:30 o'clock. The team, which played at Iowa last night, will arrive today. Kansas plays De Paul tomorrow night in Chicago Stadium in the first game of a double header. Loyola and Bradley meet in the second game.

Phog Allen.

Game is 50 Years Old.

Tonight's banquet program also includes observance of the 50th anniversary of the invention of the game of basketball by the late Dr. James A. Naismith, a member of the Kansas faculty for 41 years—from 1898 until his death in 1939. The alumni will present a Naismith memorial scroll to Allen, who has served as Kansas coach for 25 years. Allen will present the scroll to the university.

Lieut. Robert MacLeod, formerly of Glen Ellyn, Ill., a former Dartmouth college and Chicago Bears half back, will be one of the speakers on tonight's program. MacLeod is a United States marine corps aviator attached to the naval flight selection board in Chicago. While a student at Glenbard High school MacLeod set a record for the low hurdles in the state prep track meet. He was a Dartmouth football star in 1937 and 1938, played with the Bears in 1939, and with the Chicago Bruins in the 1939-'40 National Basketball league season.

Writers Meet Today.

Allen and MacLeod also will be among the speakers at the weekly luncheon of the Chicago Basketball Writers' association in the Morrison hotel at 1 o'clock today. Coaches Willie Wendt of De Paul, Lennie Sachs of Loyola, and A. J. Robertson of Bradley also are among the invited guests.

ISLANDS TO LIFT SUGAR OUTPUT, ICKES REPORTS

Puerto Rico Acts to Help Boost U. S. Supplies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—After years of burocratic curtailment of sugar production, Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes today announced that the 1942 output by Caribbean possessions is to be increased "in significant quantities." Meanwhile, Price Administrator Leon Henderson is preparing a consumer rationing order for sugar, housewives are restrained in their grocery purchases, and sugar bowls have already been removed from lunch counters.

Ickes announcement was based on a report from his division of territories and island possessions.

Puerto Rico Boosts Output.

The department's press service summary reads, in part, as follows:

During 1941 Puerto Rico shipped to the United States 994,837 tons of sugar, which is nearly 200,000 tons more than during 1940. In shipping this quantity, the Puerto Rican sugar industry met fully its initial 1941 quota and shipped nearly 200,000 additional tons to meet the developing shortage.

Sugar production for 1942 in Puerto Rico, according to estimates submitted by the division, will total approximately 1,200,000 tons, of which nearly 100,000 tons will be for consumption in Puerto Rico. The import quota set for Puerto Rico for 1942 is 959,088 tons.

Could Increase Further.

The increase for 1942 could be amplified further in succeeding years to an estimated capacity production of 1,500,000 tons, if all restrictions were removed.

Even the Virgin Islands, whose sugar production is negligible compared with the total normal United States consumption of sugar, will treble the 1941 sugar production schedule, in order to export approximately 5,000 tons to the mainland during 1942.

Total sugar consumption during 1940 in the United States is generally reported as about 6,900,000 tons, altho the country did absorb about $7,900,000 tons of sugar during 1941, the report indicated.

Industrial Demand Lifts Corn; Farm Prices Top Parity Level

Other Grains Move Up

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

The large industrial demand for grains brought new advances in Chicago prices yesterday. Buyers bid up the market for corn more than a cent a bushel and soy beans more than 3 cents in an effort to draw out country stocks.

Despite the assertion of Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard that recent advances in corn prices were of a speculative nature, consumers needing supplies showed a willingness to pay higher prices if necessary to get the grain. Eastern manufacturers purchased more than 100,000 bushels of corn for shipment out of Chicago.

Soy Beans Lead Advance.

The corn market at the close of the trading session showed a net advance of 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents a bushel with May selling for 88 cents. Soy beans closed 2¾ to 3 cents higher with some deliveries again selling for better than $2 a bushel. May beans closed at $1.99⅞.

Wheat advanced ⅛ to ½ cent a bushel in light trade, with May finishing at $1.31. Oats were ½ to ¾ cent higher, rye ¼ to ¾ cent lower, and lard unchanged to 2½ cents per hundreweight higher.

Farmers Withhold Beans.

James E. Bennett & Co. received wires from its branch offices in Illinois, Iowa, and Indiana stating in every instance that farmers were planning to hold their soy beans off the market until prices advanced to $2 a bushel or more in the country. Secretary Wickard had promised that much for soy bean for seeds.

The soy beans are needed badly now, according to the grain men, by industrial consumers for their oil. The soy bean oil is used in making cooking oils, paints, varnishes, linoleum, oilcloth, and in war industries. The government has placed a ceiling on soy bean oil of 11¾ cents a pound that has tended to keep the soy beans from advancing much above the $2 a bushel mark in Chicago, representing a country price now of about $1.80.

Cattle Near 'Ceilings'

The department of agriculture reported yesterday that prices paid for farm commodities on Jan. 15 averaged 102 per cent of parity as of that date. Parity is the price level for farm products calculated by the department as giving farmers a purchasing power equivalent to the ratio that existed from 1909 to 1914.

Prices of several items—principally live stock and vegetable oil crops—have apparently reached the level of minimum price ceilings at 110 per cent of parity authorized in the price control bill now awaiting President Roosevel"s approval.

The report indicated that beef cattle, veal calves, wool, rice, and peanuts and soy beans for oil have apparently either reached or exceeded the minimum ceilings.

Some Still Below Parity.

Agricultural leaders said last night that the statement that farm prices averaged 2 per cent above parity was misleading since prices for several large money crops remain well below parity levels. They cited wheat and corn as two outstanding examples. A comparison of the Jan. 15 parity prices with the average price the farmer was receiving on that date, and the Chicago price yesterday, follows:

	Parity Jan. 15.	Farm Price.	Chicago Yesterday.
Wheat, bu.	$1.291	$1.06	$1.28⅛
Corn, bu.	.937	.727	.84
Oats, bu.	.583	.502	.58
Rye, bu.	1.051	.65	.80
Hogs, cwt.	10.54	10.55	11.85
Eggs, doz.	.298	.313	.34

Corn Below 85 Pct. Level.

Grain men said corn prices would have to rise approximately 6 cents a bushel before they would reach the 85 per cent of parity levels at which the department of agriculture has announced it intends to stabilize the market.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard told farmers this week that he expects prices of farm products to average about parity during 1942. To assure them of these prices the government will lend them 85 per cent of parity on their basic crops and make up the other 15 per cent in soil conservation and other crop payments.

CHICAGO ENGINE FIRM VOTES 50C EXTRA DIVIDEND

Am. Tobacco to Pay on Two Issues.

Directors of Fairbanks-Morse & Co., Chicago, maker of diesel and other internal combustion engines, many of which are being produced for the army and navy, yesterday declared an extra dividend of 50 cents in addition to the regular quarterly payment of the same amount.

A $1 dividend on the common and common B shares was authorized by the American Tobacco company, New York. This compares with preceding payments on the issues of 75 cents each in December.

Bethlehem to Pay $1.50.

Bethlehem Steel corporation announced a common dividend of $1.50, the same amount as paid quarterly since the end of 1940 on the approximate 2,984,900 shares outstanding. The quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock also was authorized.

A. M. Byers company, Pittsburgh, one of the world's largest wrought iron producers, declared a dividend of $1.97 on the 7 per cent preferred shares to apply on accumulations. The dividend represents the quarterly payment of $1.75 due Aug. 1, 1939, and interest to March 2, 1942.

Parker Pen company, Janesville, Wis., declared an extra dividend of 25 cents and the quarterly payment of the same amount.

CANNERS REVIEW THEIR WAR JOB AS CONVENTION ENDS

The National Canners association closed its convention at the Stevens hotel yesterday after one of the busiest sessions in its history. Altho it has been indicated that the army and lend-lease shipments will consume 14 to 44 per cent of the industry's production, officials said the canning industry expects to fulfill all civilian demands.

Carroll E. Lindsey, who was installed as the new president, said that only adverse climatic conditions will hinder the canners from meeting the requirements. Lindsey is a grape fruit canner of Highland City, Fla.

Maj. Jesse H. White of the army quartermaster corps, told the group something about what the army wants to serve in the present war—a considerably wider range of things to eat than the men got in cans in the last war. Among the canned items in which the quartermaster is especially interested, he said, are: A pork sausage pattie, fried before canning; several combinations of liver; pork hash; corned pork and chopped ham; Hungarian goulash, and various combinations of cheese and bacon or cheese and ham.

WHOLESALE EGG PRICES SLIP AS RECEIPTS CLIMB

Wholesale egg prices declined ¾ to 1½ cents a dozen yesterday as arrivals of fresh stocks from the country showed a large increase. In the futures market, prices were .15 to .25 cent lower with January contracts closing at 33.45 cents. Best grades of eggs sold at wholesale at 34 cents a dozen.

Butter futures advanced about 1-10 cent a pound as government buyers supported prices in the major cash markets. The January butter contract closed at 33.65 cents a pound. Receipts from the country continued to lag below the corresponding period a year ago.

Lend-lease buyers announced the purchase of 7 million pounds of cheese; 1,818,400 pounds of powdered milk; close to one million bushels of grain including wheat, rolled barley, oats, western barleys, and milo; 68 tons of squash; 789,000 bushes of apples; 15,946 pounds of pecans; 1,200 boxes of oranges; 51,000 boxes of grapefruit, and 700 cases of fish.

CONSTRUCTION CONTRACTS SET WINTER RECORD

New York, Jan. 29 (AP).—Engineering construction awards for the last week totaled $221,694,000, the highest weekly volume since Aug. 7, 1941, Engineering News-Record reported today. The figures topped the preceding week's by 74 per cent and were 124 per cent higher than in the corresponding period last year.

Public construction rose 69 per cent above the preceding week and 232 per cent above a year ago. Private awards were 172 per cent higher than in the preceding week but 54 per cent lower than in the 1941 period.

Construction volume for the week with comparisons [last 3 ciphers omitted]:

	Jan. 29.	Prev. wk.	Last yr.
Total construction	$221,694	$127,640	$98,834
Private	17,156	6,324	37,199
Federal	187,231	109,717	27,947
State, municipal	17,307	11,599	33,688

The aggregate of construction activity for the 1942 five week period was $628,780,000, an increase of 7.5 per cent over same period last year.

DEPARTMENT STORES' SALES FALL BUT RUN FAR ABOVE YEAR AGO

Department store sales declined last week more than seasonally expected but remained far ahead of the corresponding week a year ago, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday.

In the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district sales were 33 per cent larger than a year ago but declined 13 per cent from the preceding week. Chicago sales were up 27 per cent from a year ago and were 15 per cent smaller than in the preceding week.

The federal reserve board reported that for the nation sales were an estimated 34 per cent larger than a year ago.

For the four weeks ended last Saturday, compared with the corresponding period a year before, district sales were up 33 per cent; Chicago sales, 29 per cent, and the nation's sales, 34 per cent.

CAR LOADING UP 6,608 IN WEEK; TOTAL IS 817,804

Revenue freight car loadings rose to 817,804 in the week ended Jan. 24, an increase of 6,608 cars over the preceding week and 107,052 cars over the corresponding week a year ago, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. Miscellaneous freight shipments, including manufactured products and cotton and oil, were at the highest level on record for this time of year, offsetting a sharp drop in coal loadings. In 1929, miscellaneous loadings did not reach current proportions until mid-March.

The association's report classified the loadings as follows:

	Week Jan. 24.	—Change from— Prev. wk.	Yr. ago.
Miscel. freight	370,444	+15,187	+70,852
Less than carlot merchandise	149,485	+ 2,767	— 407

LEND BEST AIDS FOR WAR POSTS, BUREAUS URGED

Output Executives' Need of Assistants Told.

Emery E. Olson, chairman of the newly created committee on administrative personnel, pleaded yesterday with Chicago heads of federal bureaus to relinquish some of their best men to "reduce by 20 per cent the frustration" brought about by rapid organization of all out defense production. He spoke at a meeting of the Federal Business Association of Chicago in the Merchandise Mart.

He told of business men, drafted for war work, rushing about the war productions building in Washington, wearing worried looks and carrying loads of papers in their hands. This condition, he said, could be remedied if the drafted business men were assisted by men trained in government service.

Emphasizes Need of Training.

"These men need a government trained man who knows how to get them a desk to work on," Olson told his audience. "The man summoned to Washington may bring some one from his firm, an uncle or a nephew —uncles and nephews are still in the picture—or some one recommended to him. Difficulties and troubles merely bring a condemnation of government red tape."

His committee, which was established by the United States civil service commission, plans to build a pool of eligibles among federal administrative and executive personnel, Olson said. By doing this sectionally, the speaker said, it is hoped to halt such operations as bringing a man from Dallas, Tex., to Washington and sending another man from Washington to Fort Worth, Tex.

He urged each bureau head present to make a list of top employés, their qualifications, and send the lists to J. D. Swanson, district head of the civil service commission. These men, if they consent, will be pressed into service where needed.

Consent of All Required.

Olson said that a transfer of personnel cannot be made without consent of the employé, the department head, and the unit to receive the man. The employés are guaranteed protection of their original jobs for the duration of the war by executive order, the speaker said.

Olson, who is on leave from his position as dean of the school of government at the University of Southern California, urged the bureau heads to coöperate in the program, said he had received excellent coöperation in primary steps since the committee was established Dec. 24.

KITCHEN UTENSILS.

According to my broker, National Enameling and Stamping is benefiting from the virtual elimination of aluminum cooking utensil competition. Do the company's recent earnings show this? What stock is outstanding?—A. J. C.

Answer: Earnings of National Enameling and Stamping company, one of the largest manufacturers of enamel, tin, and galvanized finish kitchen utensils, increased sharply in 1940 and in the first half of 1941. For the six months thru June last year, net sales were $5,768,334, and net profit was $171,645, equal to $1.50 a common share. In the same 1940 period, sales were $3,992,856, and profit was $5,561, or 5 cents a share. Comparative results for years ended Dec. 31 follow:

	Net sales.	Net income.	Per share.
1940	$ 9,510,581	$220,106	$1.92
1939	8,614,795	*100,899	.....
1938	7,751,857	*537,599	.....
1937	10,181,126	278,084	2.42
1936	10,672,860	343,231	2.99

*Loss.

The company's only capitalization is 114,775 shares of no par common stock, traded on the New York Stock exchange. Dividends in 1941 totaled $2.12½ a share, compared with 50 cents in 1940. Nothing was distributed in 1939 and 1938.

National Enameling and Stamping also manufactures metal containers, kerosene stoves and ranges, and electric cooking appliances. Industrial products include heavy duty galvanized ware and steel drums.

INDUSTRIAL INSURANCE.

I am not certain as to what is meant by "industrial insurance." Is it insurance covering industrial establishments?—F. B.

Answer: Industrial insurance is a form of life insurance. It is sometimes called weekly premium insurance because its special feature is weekly payment of premiums, usually in comparatively small amounts, to a company agent who visits the home of the insured. Industrial insurance as a rule is issued to persons who cannot afford or do not want the type of policy whose premiums are payable annually or quarterly.

DRAWN BY LOT.

When a corporation calls only a part of a bond issue for redemption, how does it determine which bonds to call?—H. L. T.

Answer: When a bond issue is only partly called the numbers of the bonds to be redeemed usually are drawn by lot.

STATE BATTLES RAIL PASSENGER FARE INCREASES

Rejects Suburban Quick Boost Plea.

Grant Bus Fare Hike

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 [Special].—The Interstate Commerce commission today consented to a 10 per cent increase in passenger bus fares by the interstate bus lines, except for soldiers and sailors on furlough.

The increases will become effective 10 days after new tariffs have been filed with the commission.

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday took actions which prevented an immediate increase in suburban passenger fares and which may halt the 10 per cent increase on general railroad travel within the state. The latter action threatens to cause a legal battle between the railroads and the Illinois agency unless its position is reversed.

In its first action the Illinois commission refused the request of 25 railroads that they be permitted to increase suburban and commutation passenger fares on Feb. 10. It held that the railroads must request the increase under the Illinois law that 30 days notice be given. In this instance the door is left open for the railroads to renew their request.

Rejects Rate Over 2 Cents.

In its second action, the Illinois commission rejected "any and all tariffs seeking to increase fares beyond the 2 cent a mile limit set by the state law." It was this action that threatened to throw a monkey wrench, at least so far as Illinois is concerned, into the railroads' plans for a 10 per cent fare increase on Feb. 10.

"This may be the case that will settle the problem of state rights versus federal regulation once and for all," said a spokesman for the Illinois commission, who added that it is expected the issue will be brought before the Supreme court.

N. Y. BOOST DELAYED.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 29 [Special].—Schedules designed to increase commutation fares on railroads in the state were filed with the public service commission today to become effective March 1 instead of Feb. 10, as for one way or round trip fares. The commission has announced that commutation fare schedules will be discussed before it at a hearing to be announced later.

Equally determined was Hugh W. Siddall, chairman of the Western Passenger association which represents the western roads. He said that the Illinois action would nullify the intent of the Interstate Commerce commission to give relief to the roads and he declared that a previous Supreme court decision will sustain the action of the ICC.

Intrastate Authority Upheld.

Siddall said that section 13 of the interstate commerce act provides that the commission may issue orders increasing intrastate rates to the same level as interstate rates. This authority has been sustained by the Supreme court, he declared.

Under the action taken by the Illinois Commerce commission yesterday, a person buying a ticket to New York, it was said, might pay the 2 cents a mile rate under Illinois law to the Indiana border and the full railroad rate for the remainder of the journey. Such a situation would create confusion in ticket sales, it was declared.

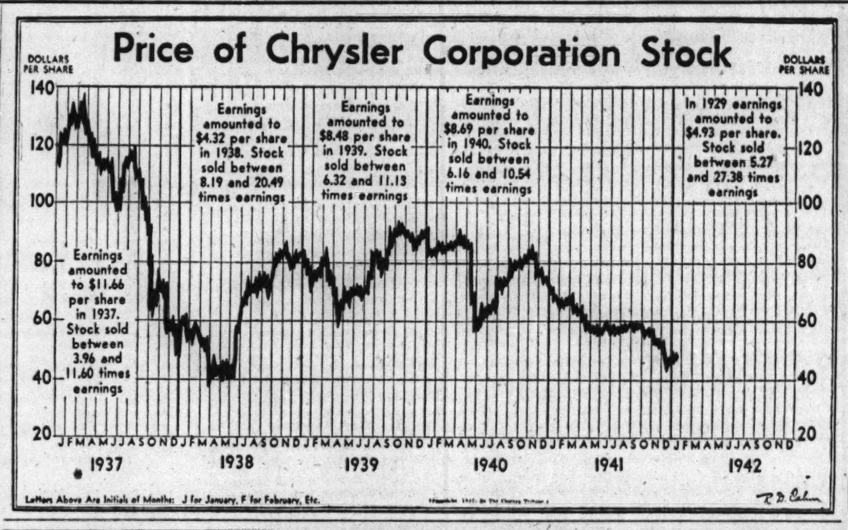
The railroads prior to 1933—when sharp fare reductions were put into effect—sustained their 3.6 cents a mile rate thru court injunctions despite laws of Illinois and other states providing much lower fares.

State Agreed to Concur.

In 1933 the railroads hesitated to reduce their fares—made as an experiment—in Illinois for fear that in the event it was found necessary to restore them that Illinois would refuse to go along in the boost. However, the Illinois Commerce commission informed the Interstate Commerce commission that it would go along with the railroads in their experimental fare cuts and would make no objection if it was found necessary to restore the rates. The experimental reductions later were made permanent.

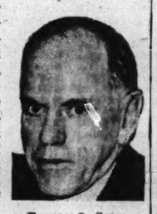
Recent sharp increases in wages to workers and in prices of materials were responsible for the Interstate Commerce commission's giving the railroads authority to increase passenger fares.

The Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin railroad company was granted permission yesterday to apply to the Illinois commerce commission for a 10 per cent fare increase by Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe.



1941 Earnings of Bethlehem Steel Reduced

Net income of Bethlehem Steel corporation in 1941 was a third lower than in 1940, altho gross business of the company increased 60 per cent, President Eugene G. Grace disclosed yesterday in a report to stockholders. Federal taxes took more than 70 per cent of the company's net earnings before taxes, the report showed.



Eugene G. Grace.

The 1941 net of the big steel producer was $34,457,796, or $9.35 a share, compared with $48,677,524, or $14.04 a share, in 1940.

The aggregate of all taxes paid or provided during the year was $110,002,700, compared with $41,345,349 in 1940 and $21,191,492 in 1939. The provision for federal taxes amounted to $85,300,000, compared with $23,877,318 in 1940.

Scrap Lack Only Problem.

Fourth quarter earnings also were sharply lower at $10,459,742, or $2.96 a share, against $14,516,779, or $4.32 a share, in the last quarter of 1940.

Grace reported to the stockholders that "our only problem today is the shortage of scrap." The present operating rate of only 98 per cent of capacity, he said, is due entirely to the scrap situation and some adverse weather at Buffalo, N. Y. Previously the company had been operating consistently in excess of rated capacity.

The steel executive forecast, however, that "the additional pig iron capacity will eventually solve our scrap trouble."

Referring to criticisms of war profits made by corporations, Grace declared his report to stockholders clearly indicates that Bethlehem could not be charged with profiteering.

Criticizes Wage Demand.

Commenting on union demands of $1 a day pay increases, Grace declared that if such a rate had been in effect in 1941 it would have added $42,500,000 to the Bethlehem pay roll, which was $364,354,322, compared with $212,232,884 in 1940.

"It is significant," he said, "that such an increase in the pay roll would have wiped out the $34,500,000 net profit reported for 1941."

Effective Jan. 1, the report showed, Bethlehem's rated steel capacity was increased by 850,000 tons to a total of 12,700,000 tons, partly as a result of constructing five new open hearth furnaces during the year and partly as a reflection of actual existing capacity demonstrated for the first time during 1941.

The estimated cost of expansions authorized and in progress Dec. 31 was $48,100,000, against $34,862,124 a year earlier. Cash expenditures for additions and betterments during 1941 totaled $42,127,091, compared with $29,994,523 in 1940 and $11,711,743 in 1939.

The estimated value of Bethlehem's backlog of orders on Dec. 31 was $1,327,500,000, against $1,204,100,000 at the end of 1940.

Authorize Surcharge on Ocean Shipments

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 (AP).—A surcharge of 22 per cent on freight rates on traffic between United States ports and ports in Haiti and on the east coast of Mexico was authorized today by the Maritime commission. The surcharge will become effective in 15 days.

U. S. CONSIDERS PLAN TO TAKE OVER BRITISH LATIN AMERICA BUYING

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau indicated today that the United States may take over the purchasing of British supplies in Latin America and transfer the goods under the lease-lend act to the British.

Asked about reports of such a proposal, the secretary said at a press conference: "Somebody's been helping you [in getting information about the proposal] but I don't want to talk about it today."

Other treasury officials admitted that such a proposal had been discussed. Apparently it was designed to provide financial help both to Latin America and the British. The British have had difficulty in getting cash to buy meat and other supplies in Latin America, particularly Argentina.

EASTERN PHONE COMPANY PLANS STOCK ISSUANCE

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 29 (AP).—The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City, asked the Public Service commission today for authority to issue 10 million dollars in capital stock.

The stock, in the form of par value common, would be used to meet part of a $14,250,000 debt to the parent American Telephone and Telegraph company. The debt was incurred during the last five years for acquisition of property, construction, and maintenance in Maryland.

MORGENTHAU ORDERS USE OF JAP SILK IN PAPER MONEY HALTED

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 (AP).—Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau has ordered the use of Japanese silk in American money and securities discontinued, it was learned today.

He instructed the government's paper manufacturer to substitute nylon fibers for the silk threads which are scattered thru currency and securities paper in order to strengthen it and make it harder for counterfeiters to imitate.

It may take several months, however, for the new money and securities to come off the government's printing presses in Washington. The treasury has huge stocks of the old, silk threaded paper to use up while the new "homespun" is being manufactured.

River Traffic Increased by War Demands

Barge companies operating on the Illinois waterway system have found it necessary to increase substantially their facilities to meet demands for carrying larger amounts of materials essential to war industries in the state, officials said yesterday.

With a new record tonnage established in 1941, traffic on the Illinois waterway system for January is maintaining its pace, Charles Keller, army engineer for the Chicago district said.

Officials of the Federal Barge Lines, Chicago, said their company has put into service 15 new barges at a cost of about $1,000,000. Each barge can carry a 28,000 ton cargo.

Hay Company Expands.

John I. Hay, head of the company bearing his name, said yesterday his firm has expanded its facilities 30 per cent within the last year to meet the demand for river freight transportation. He asserted that oil and steel are being carried in larger quantities than ever before.

Officials of the large companies said the major problems facing river transportation were the uncertainty of getting steel for additional barges as the need for them arises, and serving industrial plants whose production schedules are irregular because of difficulty in obtaining essential materials. Where production schedules are irregular, industries must make last minute arrangements for the fastest transportation available, it was said.

Expect to Meet Demands.

Despite these two problems, river transportation facilities are expected to be increased sufficiently to meet all contingencies which may develop as rail and truck carriers are more seriously pressed for space, it was said.

It was estimated that about one-fifth of the steel needed to make a railroad tank car is used in construction of a barge which can carry substantially more tonnage. Hope that the War Production board will take these facts into consideration when allocating steel for barges was expressed by company officials.

UTILITY CHANGES RFC LOAN PLAN TO PUBLIC SALE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 (AP).—Amending its original application, the Louisville Gas and Electric company today asked permission of the Securities and Exchange commission to invite competitive bids on securities to finance the construction of transmission lines. It had first sought permission to borrow $3,850,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation thru an arrangement involving two subsidiaries.

An official of the company said the approximately 70 miles of transmission lines contemplated were wanted and suggested by the Tennessee Valley authority so that TVA might get power from Kentucky, Indiana, and Ohio plants to help it meet military production demands. He did not specify the type of securities for which bids would be sought.

Urges Early Application for Insurance Licenses

Insurance brokers thruout Illinois were urged yesterday by Paul F. Jones, state director of insurance, to apply for their 1942 licenses as soon as possible. Jones said facilities of the department are not sufficient to renew all licenses by March 1, the date on which current ones expire, unless most applications are made well in advance of that date.

Billion Dollar War Damage Bill Advanced

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[Special].—The senate banking and currency committee today approved a bill authorizing the government to aid private companies in insuring property against war-caused damage and carrying a billion dollar money raising authority for the RFC to obtain the funds.

Under the measure, free insurance would be granted up to $15,000 on all property, while Jesse H. Jones, federal loan administrator, is authorized to prescribe the premiums which private companies may charge for war damage insurance above this amount.

Authorization for RFC.

The measure also contained authorization for the RFC to issue an additional 2½ billion dollars of its obligations to obtain funds needed for loans for other purposes related to the war effort. Much of this will go to build government controled rubber, munitions and similar war plants, Jones told the group yesterday.

The war damage insurance arrangement generally outlined by Jones as what he contemplated would provide for government reinsurance up to 90 or 95 per cent on policies written by private companies giving coverage above the $15,000 minimum of free protection. Steward B. Hopps of New York, representing a group of private companies, said this type of aid would have to be granted before the private companies could accept the business.

Applies Outside U. S.

Among amendments offered to the original measure of Sen. Robert Wagner [D., N. Y.] which were accepted today, besides the free insurance provision, was one extending the insurance coverage to all goods in transit within the United States or between this country and other areas under United States control.

These specified territories, including Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Philippine and Virgin Islands, were extended by another amendment to include the Canal Zone and to "such other places as may be determined by the President from time to time to be under the domination and control of the United tSates."

The committee rejected proposals that the coverage should be extended to intangible property such as stocks, bonds and money, and to personal casualties.

OUST OFFICIALS OF NAZI OWNED DRUG COMPANY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 [Special].—As a step toward "smashing completely a long range German scheme to control an important segment of the pharmaceutical market in the western hemisphere," the treasury announced today it had suspended President Julius Weltzien and seven other officials of the Schering corporation of Bloomfield, N. J., manufacturer of anti-shock vaccines, hormones, sulfa compounds, and other medicines essential to the war effort.

Schering corporation is a subsidiary of Schering A. G. of Berlin. Production has been under treasury supervision since the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, the announcement disclosed.

The eight were barred from the Schering premises, their personal accounts were blocked, and employés of the company were forbidden to communicate with them.

Bolivia Settles Oil Claims Arising from 1937 Seizure

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Jan. 29 (AP).—An agreement was announced tonight whereby the Standard Oil company would receive a million dollars from the government, settling claims filed after the government in 1937 seized private oil fields.

BUICK EXCEEDS SCHEDULES FOR ENGINE OUTPUT

Melrose Park Plant on Quantity Basis.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Engines to speed big American bombers are being turned out at the Buick plant in Melrose Park on a quantity basis that is substantially ahead of schedule, Harlow H. Curtice, president and general manager of the Buick division of General Motors corporation, disclosed yesterday.

Harlow H. Curtice.

The volume now coming off the mass production assembly lines even exceeds expectations under the revised estimates made when the government ordered plant expansion which virtually quadrupled the original program. With engines accepted by the government from the start, production is now said to be accelerating rapidly. Censorship forbids publication of actual figurer.

Curtice was in Chicago yesterday to confer with plant executives on the progress of production. His office is at the main Buick plant in Flint, Mich.

Site a Bare Field Year Ago.

The progress made by Buick was seen as helping to establish the Chicago area as one of the nation's principal arsenals. Less than a year ago—ground was broken March 17—the site for the Buick plant was just a field in the center of a number of real estate developments in an unincorporated area.

Pictures taken of the manufacturing operations at the plant [publication has been approved by the war department] show examples of the complicated work being done on the large aviation engines by the several thousand workers employed at the plant.

One of the pictures disclosed that while the engines are being tested they are connected with dynamos in the test cells to produce electric power used in the plant. It is estimated that each engine under test produces 450 horsepower that would otherwise be wasted.

Evolves Many Time Savers.

The engines being built are the Pratt & Whitney aircooled type producing about 1,200 horsepower. Officials of both the Pratt & Whitney company, a major producer of aircraft engines, and of the army, were reported pleased with the way the automobile company took over the building of precision engines in such a short time.

In planning the big factory it was possible to put into effect numerous shortcuts which save time in turning raw materials into engines. For example, the Buick engineers devised a means to make quick engine plug-ins which it is estimated will enable an expert crew to make connections for engine testing in 45 minutes instead of the three to six hours originally required.

The plant itself is one of the largest in the Chicago area. Built by Thorgersen and Ericksen, Chicago contracting firm, it took enormous quantities of materials.

Uses 250 Miles of Wire.

More than 300,000 pounds of copper were used in the lines that furnish power to the machines that build the engines, 10,000 tons of structural steel were used, 7 million wood flooring blocks, 3,000 bricks, 145,000 panes of glass, 250 miles of electric wire and cable, and large amounts of other items.

There are more than 23 acres under a single roof, including the testing cells. The main building is equipped with a ventilating system able to take care of the entire working force in case of a blackout. Fifteen miles of heating pipes are used. The main building is artificially lighted by fluorescent lights for which 9,500 fixtures were required.

Besides the manufacturing building there are power, office, and personnel structures.

Treasury to Borrow More Money for War Expenses

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 (AP).—Secretary Henry Morgenthau said today the treasury would have to borrow more money next month to pay for war costs. He did not indicate the amount.

Armor Plant Ready by Fall; Factories Swing to 7 Day Week

Protection for Tanks

Thomas Drever, president of the American Steel Foundries, Chicago, said yesterday the company's new 16 million dollar tank armor plant under construction at East Chicago, Ind., would be ready for operation in the early fall. Drever addressed the annual stockholders' meeting at Jersey City, N. J.

The structure is being built with Defense Plant corporation funds by the company, which is acting as DPC agent without compensation except for actual "cut of the pocket" expenses. Plans already are being made for another armor plant.

33 Million Dollar Backlog.

Drever said the company's backlog of orders has been increased as of Dec. 30 to 33 million dollars, due mostly to war contracts. Sale of regular commercial products of the company, which go mainly to railroads, may not increase in 1942 over last year, he declared.

A dividend of 50 cents was declared on the common shares, double the amount paid in March last year. Net income for the quarter ended Dec. 31 was $1,269,735, equal to $1.07 a share. The company's fiscal year has been changed to end Sept. 30 instead of Dec. 31.

Install New Equipment.

New special equipment has been installed by the company to handle new war department orders, Drever said. The company already has spent 2 million dollars of its own funds for these facilities, and an additional 2 million dollars may be expended, Drever declared. "This investment is rapidly being amortized and 1 million dollars has been written off," he said.

Drever declared that about 75 per cent of the company's income this year may be paid out to the government in taxes.

14 Pct. on 'Full Time'

The Chicago ordnance district disclosed last night that 14 per cent of approximately 200 companies with which it has placed prime contracts are in production 7 days a week and 20 to 24 hours a day in part or all of their departments.

Soon 31 per cent of these companies will be on such a schedule, a spokesman for the office asserted. For the other 69 per cent the 7 day, 20-24 hour schedule will not be practical soon because the additional output of these companies would pile up in warehouses.

Combat Bottlenecks.

He emphasized achieving the full schedule of operations thruout the arms industries is a slow process because of difficulty in obtaining adequate production from "bottleneck" companies in the space of a few weeks or months.

"The Chicago ordnance district is taking every possible step to eliminate bottlenecks," the spokesman said. "The equipment of existing plants making critical items is being augmented. Week by week new companies are being brought into the program to eliminate 'choke' points. This action will enable more and more companies to utilize full capacity by going on a seven day week."

Some Await Materials.

Not included among the 200 prime contractors are 109 machine tool manufacturers, which have comparatively small dealings with the office. It was estimated more than 90 per cent of these are on the 7 day 24 hour schedule.

Of the 17 per cent of the 200 prime contractors not yet on a full schedule but expected to be soon, the spokesman said 7½ per cent are awaiting delivery of needed materials and tools.

INDUSTRY IS WARNED MOST NYLON WILL BE USED IN PARACHUTES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 (AP).—The War Production board told representatives of the rayon industry today that most, if not all, of the available supplies of nylon would soon be needed to fill military requirements for parachutes. As a substitute for nylon, the board said, it would increase supplies of rayon for hosiery manufacturers.

The rayon industry also was notified by the WPB that it will have to allocate to Latin American countries 4 per cent of the total output of its mills, including present export business. This will be about 13 million pounds a year.

ALL ARMY GLOVE PURCHASES TO BE MADE IN CHICAGO

The Chicago quartermaster depot yesterday was established as the sole glove procurement agency for the entire army, Brig. Gen. Joseph E. Barzynski, commanding general of the local depot, announced. At the same time manufacturers were invited to bid on 2,200,000 pairs of gloves.

The decision to transfer the procurement of gloves to Chicago was based on the city's development as the glove manufacturing center of the country, it was said. In addition to gloves, the local quartermaster depot is the sole procurement agent for the army of a number of other items.

ALUMINUM WORK DELAYS LAID TO 2 U. S. AGENCIES

REA, FPC Termed War Saboteurs.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—Officials of the Rural Electrification administration and of the Federal Power commission were accused in the house today of sabotaging the production of 50 million pounds of aluminum sorely needed for the war program.

Rep. T. D. Winter.

Rep. Thomas D. Winter [R., Kas.] made the charges. He ascribed the motives of Chairman Leland Olds of the FPC and other officials to a stronger interest "in the advancement of a political theory than in the welfare of the nation."

"I charge," Winter told the house, "that there exists a group of highly placed federal officials who have and are continuing to sabotage our national defense efforts in vital respects. The firing squad would be their fate if similar charges could be proved against a similar group of government officials in Germany, Russia, or Italy. Britain would retire them in shame to private life."

Sums Up His Charges.

The Kansas legislator summed up his charges against the government officials as follows:

"1. They have delayed from five to seven months the construction of an aluminum plant in Arkansas scheduled to produce 120 million pounds of aluminum annually. They must accept public rebuke from the nation for sabotaging the production of at least 50 million pounds of aluminum, forever lost to this country for the war effort. For far less Hitler would award the iron cross, first class, to a sneaking fifth columnist.

"2. They have attempted to destroy, by misuse of hydro-electric power, the equivalent of 50,000 kilowatts of power capacity in the southwest. In this attempt they were frustrated by the army and navy munitions board to the extent of 37,500 kilowatts of capacity. But at another dam in the same power starved area they have succeeded in destroying 14,000 kilo-

PRICES OF STOCKS END IRREGULAR IN LIGHT TRADE

Soft Drink and Sugar Issues Supported.

New York, Jan. 29 (AP).—Soft drink, sugar, and a few othe. stocks developed quiet strength in today's market, but as a whole the market was irregular.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .1 of a point at 37.9. Transfers of 424,015 shares compared with 458,700 yesterday and were the smallest since Oct. 3 last. The war and the thought of taxes, shortages, priorities, and further governmental controls still kept away many potential buyers.

Bethlehem Steel finished down ½ point at 63¾. Coca-Cola rose 2¾ and Pepsi-Cola 1⅛ as federal authorities revised the sugar allocation base for industrial use which would give the soft drink makers about 80 per cent of their 1941 requirements. Some sugar stock also edged forward in further response to the belief producers in the Atlantic area would benefit from better quotations on larger output inspired by the cessation of imports from the Philippines.

Tobacco Shares Fall.

On the other hand American Tobacco common and "B" lost a point or more each and the preferred was off 3 at 140, a new low for the last year.

Southern Railway clung to a minor advance, but Union Pacific slipped a point and others in the group were off despite a contraseasonal jump in last week's freight loadings.

Shares showing losses included U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Santa Fe, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, du Pont, Westinghouse, Anaconda, J. C. Penney, Western Union, and Owens-Illinois. Up were Lima Locomotive, American Telephone, Eastman Kodak, J. I. Case, General Motors, Youngstown Sheet, and International Harvester.

CHICAGO STOCKS DOWN.

Prices generally moved lower on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in an inactive market.

The volume leader, with 1,850 shares traded, was Commonwealth Edison, which closed ¼ lower at 21⅝. Of other active stocks Borg-Warner and Consolidated Oil advanced fractionally and Swift International declined ⅛.

UNION PACIFIC PROFIT FOR YEAR NEAR 29 MILLION

The Union Pacific railroad announced yesterday that net income for 1941 based on a preliminary report amounted to $28,857,420, compared with net earnings of $19,445,880 in the preceding year. The total was the highest for any year since 1930. Net income for December was $6,986,288, against $4,348,341 in the same 1940 month.

The company said that federal income tax provisions for 1941 amounted to $2,039,242, almost four times the $513,202 total in 1940.

Earnings of railroads reported yesterday were:

Suspend New York Labor Laws for War's Duration

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 29 [Special].—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman today signed a bill under which the state's war industries can be placed on a 24 hour day seven day week basis. The bill suspends for the duration state labor laws which have been hampering production. Both the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations approved the suspension.

ALUMINUM PLANT DELAY IS LAID TO 2 U. S. AGENCIES

REA and FPC Are Called Defense Saboteurs.

watts of capacity by misoperation of its power facilities. Meantime, Dow Chemical company's proposed sea water magnesium plant on the Texas gulf is waiting construction of new power plants before it can begin manufacture of magnesium for ignition bombs.

Reviews Project's History.

"3. Over the protest and against the recommendations of the army and navy munitions board and also of the department of utilities of the state of Arkansas, Rural Electrification administration is building a 250 mile copper transmission line. The line has been held by both army and navy and the utilities department to be wasteful and unnecessary."

As long ago as last June, Winter said, the OPM decided to exploit for our airplane needs the aluminum deposits lying in Arkansas. A contract was made with the Aluminum Company of America to construct and operate for the Defense Plant corporation an aluminum reduction plant yielding 120 million pounds of aluminum annually. For power supply, the government corporation proposed to construct its own electric generating plant of 125,000 kilowatt capacity. Inasmuch as two years would be required to construct such a plant, an interim power supply was needed.

OPM asked private utility companies in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Texas, Kansas, and Missouri to form a power pool to meet the needs of the aluminum plant. The companies volunteered to spend $6,500,000 for interconnecting transmission lines and other equipment and guaranteed to deliver the required power. The lines are almost completed and the power will be ready in March, 1942.

"But that Arkansas' aluminum plant has not been built," Winter told members. "The reason is that the Rural Electrification administration, a few days after the private utilities' offer had been tendered to OPM, stepped into the picture with a fantastic counterproposal. They proposed to supply the interim power by constructing transmission lines from federal hydro developments in western Nebraska to the Grand river dam in Texas, from the Possum Kingdom dam on the Brazos river in Texas, and to build a gas fuel generating plant in Louisiana, all to be tied in on a gigantic grid superimposed upon the duplicating existing facilities.

Calls It "Crazy Scheme."

"This crazy scheme would have required about 18 million excess pounds of copper."

Months passed by while the REA sought to force this program down the throat of OPM, Winter said. Meanwhile, Chairman Olds of the FPC obtained an order commandeering the output of the Grand river dam which was being utilized by private companies in Oklahoma to serve war industries such as bomber plants and army camps.

The army and navy munitions board was called upon to decide between the two plans and finally on Jan. 20, 1942, rejected the proposal by the REA and the FPC and picked the private power pool proposal as "more conservative of critical war material."

"Not Isolated Instance."

"This is not an isolated, accidental, incidental, or occasional instance but a part of a well planned program covering the middle west, which places national safety second to burocratic greed for power and promotion of a political theory," declared Winter.

"Why are these Washington burocrats obsessed with this mania of extension of rural electrification into the transmission and generation fields in time of war at the expense of our national resources of copper and water power? I cannot refrain from considering the fact that 34 employés of the REA here in Washington are, according to the records of the Dies committee, members of the communist front transmission belt organizations."

LARD TYPE HOGS MUCH IN DEMAND AND PRICES RISE

Unusually large buying orders for hogs of lard type resulted in a 10 to 15 cent rise in the market for heavy and extremely fat swine at the stock yards yesterday, while leaner stock moved up only 5 cents.

Traders expressed belief the market reflects lend-lease demand for fat backs and lard for export to England and Russia.

REDUCE EXCESS RESERVES; MORE CASH CIRCULATES

Decline Is 100 Million in Week.

A 20 million dollar increase in money circulation and other technical factors caused a 100 million dollar decline in the excess reserves of federal reserve system member banks in the week ended Wednesday, the federal reserve board reported yesterday. The change cut the total of excess reserves to 3 billion 480 million dollars.

While the money circulation was expanding, treasury deposits with federal reserve banks rose 18 million dollars, reserve bank credit dipped 44 million dollars and the gold stock shrank 6 millions.

The board's report follows:

MAY BE TOO LATE

What Does It Mean?

It means that if you wait much longer for that used car—the answer is you may not get what you are looking for. BUT RIGHT NOW—and we mean right now—before it is too late—you can have your choice from a large selection of "Nearly New" automobiles.

All Makes and Models

In tip-top running condition, most of them fully equipped with radio, heater, other de luxe appointments—AND TIRES with thousands of miles to go. A Community Renewed car costs no more than an ordinary car. In fact, it costs less! Every Community Renewed car is sold with a written guarantee. For nearly a quarter of a century our policy has been to give the customer what he deserves. Ask any of our 200,000 satisfied customers.

It will pay you to buy a "Community Renewed" car. Prices are attractively low. Your present car will undoubtedly more than cover the down payment and the balance can be arranged up to 18 mos.

Don't Wait—Buy Today

FAMOUS NEWS PHOTOS IN COLOR—ROOSEVELT MEETS CHURCHILL

This is a reproduction in color of a photograph of President Roosevelt's historic meeting at sea with Prime Minister Churchill last August. It was at this conference on the British battleship Prince of Wales, later destroyed by the Japanese, that the heads of the United States and the British empire formulated the Anglo-American alliance with the object of conquering and disarming the axis. The man in the picture bowing before Churchill is an officer of the ship. The three men directly behind the President and the Prime Minister are (left to right), Gen. George C. Marshall, Sumner Welles, and Adm. Harold R. Stark. Directly back of the ship's officer stands the British Adm. Sir Dudley Pound.
